OUTER SPACE IN SPOTLIGHT

The Times is carrying two special features today and Tuesday on outer space.

TODAY

What to look for in the sky in April is outlined by astronomy writer James Stokley on Page 8.

TUESDAY

The most authentic accounts available of the recent historic Apollo lunar module test shot—the exclusive first-person stories of the three astronauts—appears Tuesday.

Written for Life magazine, and appearing in the Times by special arrangement, the accounts by Col. David Scott, Col. James McDivitt and Russell Schweickart take the reader into the far reaches of earth space for the intricate manoeuvring necessary to test the vehicle which will be used for a moon landing this summer.

Thousands File By Ike's Body

WASHINGTON (CP)—Thousands of Americans and a steadily-gathering army of world leaders still flowed slowly today past the flag-draped bier of old soldier Dwight David Eisenhower.

Eulogized by President Nixon as "truly a first citizen of the world," the former U.S. president rested under the towering white marble dome of the United States Capitol.

Tonight, after a brief state funeral ending three days of mourning, the two-time president was being carried by train to his boyhood home at Abileae, Kan., for burial.

The public's last respects to its 34th president and wartime hero had begun Sunday evening and continued through the night. Most were middle-aged, it appeared.

This afternoon, the man described by Nixon as "one of the giants of our time" was being borne back to the Washington National Cathedral for the Episcopalian funeral service scheduled to start at 4:35 p.m. EST.

Eisenhower's last trip to the Capitol was made Sunday, the last portion by horse-drawn caisson, under a grey spring sky that delivered mixed snow and light rain and finally sun.

Crowds lined the last and public portion of the procession.

"He remained in his final days the world's most honored and respected man," Nixon said.

SAYS FAREWELL

President de Gaulle of France arrived Sunday evening to pay a personal farewell to his old Second World War comrade in arms.

Others—including Prime Minister Trudeau, Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam, Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesenger of West Germany, King Baudouin of Belgium and Prince Bernard of The Netherlands—were arriving today.

De Gaulle in uniform entered the Capitol rotunda to salute the bier twice, stand in meditation and then leave for a call on Mrs. Eisenhower.

Also attending the ceremonies Sunday, and later visiting the bier separately or in the public line, were Lord Louis Mountbatten, Queen Elizabeth's personal representative for the occasion and Eisenhower's Southeast Asian counterpart in the Allied command structure.

Prime Minister John Gorton of Australia, the Shah of Iran and others had arrived Sunday or earlier.

Trudeau was being accompanied by Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield.

THREE YEARS PLANNING FUNERAL

WASHINGTON (WP) — Approximately 250 military officials for the past three years have been planning the funeral of former president Dwight Eisenhower.

This contrasts with the funeral for president John F. Kennedy when arrangments were made within 48 hours of his assassination.

About 2,500 troops from all branches of the U.S. forces, are taking part in the services today.

Nixon Holds Talks With De Gaulle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon invited President de Gaulle of France to a working meeting at the White House today before the funeral of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Other visiting heads of state and representatives of foreign governments will be received formally at the White House after the ceremonies.

The topics of the Nixon-de Gaulle discussion were not disclosed. But presumably the meeting was intended to be a continuation of their conference in Paris last month.

An early hour was fixed for the talk, the White House said, because Gen. de Gaulle must return to France immediately after the service.

Only Newfies At Festivities

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland celebrates 20 years as a Canadian province today but the festivities seem confined to official ones. There was little indication of any significant public interest.

Four official banquets were scheduled tonight but the death of former United States president Dwight Eisenhower Friday forced cancellation of Prime Minister Trudeau's plans to join veteran Premier Joseph Smallwood at the main one here.

Russia Hits Czech Leaders Over Ransacking Outbreak

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Union today launched a bitter assault on Czechoslovak leaders over the wrecking of a Soviet airline office in Prague and said that Josef Smrkovsky, Communist party presidium member, took part in the outburst.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said the incident, which took place Friday night after Czechoslovakia beat Russia in a world hockey championship game, was "an organized, carefully prepared nationalist outburst with definite political aims."

It took place because the leadership of the Czechoslovak Communist party and the Prague authorities had not condemned a demonstration a week earlier after Czechoslovakia's first victory over Russia in the championships, Pravda said.

Pravda did not mention a warning Saturday night by the Czech government of Premier Stanislaav Razl against a repetition of vandalism of Soviet property.

It also implicitly rejected a Czechoslovak assertion that the first demonstration was spontaneous.

RANSACKED OFFICE

The demonstrators Friday night ransacked the airline office and built fires on Wenceslas Square with airline documents.

The Pravda article was seen here as the toughest Soviet indictment of Prague leaders for many months and its tone recalled similar complaints before the Soviet invasion in August that said the Czechoslovak leadership was too soft with "anti-socialist forces."

The importance of the article was underlined when it was issued in full by the official Tass news agency.

The Kremlin attack said it was not the first time Smrkovsky, a close colleague of party chief Alexander Dubcek and a leading supporter of liberal reforms, was involved in an anti-Soviet outburst.

Smrkovsky was chairman of the National Assembly at the time of the Warsaw pact invasion of Czechoslovakia in August and was flown to Moscow with Dubcek and other leaders after the troops moved in.

He lost his post under the reorganization of the country into Czech and Slovak states with a federal government, officially to balance the top leadership between Czechs and Slovaks. But several reports said he was forced out under Soviet pressure.

Malta Base Empty

Task Force on Move

LONDON (UPI) — Russia's large naval task force has moved farther into the North Atlantic, keeping up the mystery of its destination, defence officials said today.

Woman Drowns

ALERT BAY (CP) — A 40-year-old woman drowned Sunday afternoon when the car in which she, her husband and two children were riding plunged into the ocean at Shoal Harbor near here.

RCMP said the victim, Mrs. Frances Fraser, of Shoal Harbor, drowned when she was trapped in the car.

Nasser Again Talking War

(Times News Services)

JERUSALEM—Israel and Egypt were on a collision course today following the Israeli cabinet's rejection of any Big-Four settlement in the Middle East.

In Cairo, President Nasser warned of the growing inevitability of war.

On Sunday Israel war leader Moshe Dayan told border settlers the summer would be "most critical" because the Egyptian regime is under heavy pressure to renew the war or abdicate. And Nasser said Sunday that war with Israel is inevitable "so-long as they refuse to withdraw from the occupied Arab lands."

Addressing the national congress of the Arab Socialist Union, Nasser said: "The days when we could not answer Israeli shelling have passed. We now can hit back, and hit violently."

However, he said Egypt still hopes the coming four-power talks in New York at the United Nations would result in some kind of peace settlement.

Because the meetings of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union are expected to begin Thursday, the Israeli cabinet decided Sunday to state its position before rather than after the talks.

OPPOSES PLAN

The cabinet communique said: "Israel entirely opposes the plan to convene representatives of states outside the Middle East in order to prepare recommendations concerning the region. Such a procedure undermines the responsibility devolving on the states of the region to achieve peace among themselves."

It was no secret that the Israelis opposed the talks. They are said to believe that an imposed solution could only benefit the Arabs because they expect Russia and France to insist that Israel withdraw from the lands it occupied in the June, 1967, war. Before Israel gives up its biggest bargaining lever, it wants a signed peace agreement with the Arabs.

The cabinet said that in the absence of a signed peace treaty with its neighbors, Israel will "consolidate her position in accordance with the vital need of security and development."

As if to underscore this, Israel jets streaked over the Jordanian ceasefire line Sunday morning. The army said they attacked guerrilla positions which opened fire on a patrol and wounded four border guards.

Later an Israeli border town was shelled, but it could not be determined whether the fire was returned. No casualties or damage were reported.

STUDIES COMPLAINT

The planes went in as the UN Security Council continued to study a Jordanian complaint against a similar attack Wednesday in which Jordan said 18 civilians were killed. There was strong pressure to pass a resolution condemning the raid.

Amid the continuing uneasiness, about 5,000 Christian pilgrims, mostly Arabs, celebrated Palm Sunday in Jerusalem with a procession that followed Christ's route on the first Palm Sunday, when he entered the city before His trial and crucifixion.

The route from the Mount of Olives to the Via Delorosa was heavily guarded but there were no attacks.

FLEEING GIRLS ATTACKED

(By Reuters)

A series of earthquake shocks today shook the capitals of Egypt and Israel, 48 hours after 23 persons died and 160 were hurt when a mud-walled Ethiopian town was flattened by a tremor.

In Gaza City, a thousand girls fleeing from swaying schools were set upon by Israeli troops who thought the girls were about about to launch another anti-Israeli demonstration.

The soldiers injured 28 of the Arab girls and triggered a chain reaction which saw the girls stone buses and smash several car windshields.

RAN TO SHELTERS

In Cairo, hotels, apartments and office buildings swayed slightly as a 15-second shock hit the city, and in Tel Aviv people ran to air raid shelters for cover.

The quake that hit Israel was particularly strong at Bet Shemesh, near Jerusalem, and was felt as far away as the Red Sea

Man Kept In Trunk

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters) — A Negro servant whose employer had carried him around in the closed trunk of his American-built car is looking for another job.

The employer, Canadian immigrant Frank Thompson, told reporters last week: "I always take him in the trunk —that's his place."

The Negro said Sunday he had been offered several jobs after neighbors complained to a local newspaper about the practice. He said he earned about $11 a month as Thompson's servant.

Thompson's comment: "Goodness knows the trunk is big enough. It's big enough for two."

CABINET STILL STRUGGLES WITH DECISION ON NATO

OTTAWA (CP) — A final decision on future Canadian membership in NATO apparently remains to be taken following two full days of cabinet meetings on the subject Saturday and Sunday.

In a brief talk with reporters following Sunday's meeting, Prime Minister Trudeau left unclear just when the decision is to be made.

If it is made by Wednesday, it will be announced to the House of Commons, he said. Wednesday is the tentative date for the start of Parliament's Easter recess.

Mr. Trudeau also said the decision ought to be reached before April 10 and "necessarily will be announced to the House."

That would suggest Wednesday as the target date since Parliament will be on vacation April 10. Mr. Trudeau announced some time ago that Canada's NATO policy would be set as far as possible in advance of the April 10 opening of a NATO ministerial meeting in Washington.

The prime minister said the cabinet had had "a full discussion which will allow me to make up my mind."

Further meetings are possible, he said.

Canada's contribution to the alliance at present includes a six-squadron air division and a mechanized brigade group, both stationed in Germany and both possessing nuclear capability.

This commitment is effective to the end of this year. At the same time, Canada had projected it an additional four years in calculations of forces drawn up by NATO commanders. These long-term projects are subject to confirmation on an annual basis.

BOY SURVIVES 400-FOOT FALL

A nine-year-old boy died and his companion survived Saturday when a toboggan hurtled over a 400-foot ice cliff in a ride of terror on Grouse Mountain, North Vancouver.

Found dead by a rescue squad was Kenneth Michael Dyck of North Surrey, whose plastic toboggan careened 600 feet through brush, over Devil's Leap, and continued 600-700 feet through snow.

LIES IN SNOW

His friend, Larry Richard Ehrenholz, also nine and also from North Surrey, was reported in good condition in hospital Sunday with head injuries. He was, said a searcher, "a very brave boy."

The Ehrenholz boy lay in the snow on 4,100-foot Grouse Mountain for about four hours before he was rescued. He had a head cut, broken teeth and was bruised from head to foot.

Falling darkness prevented a helicopter reaching him. Eventually, police and rescue workers slogged slowly through snow often up to their armpits to bring him out on a stretcher.

The two friends were in a group of half a dozen boys in a North Surrey church group. They were missed by the boys and a Sunday school teacher.

DRUGGISTS TO CHARGE WELFARE CUSTOMERS

The B.C. Pharmacists' Society today warned it will begin charging social welfare clients $1 for every prescription filled, starting April 15.

The 500-member association made the warning in a press release explaining it was locked in a battle with the provincial social welfare department.

J. Murray Dykeman, president of the BCPS, made the announcement to reporters in Social Welfare Minister Dan Campbell's office but the minister wasn't there.

The society claims that its members lose more than $900,000 on welfare prescriptions because the government's present payments are too low.

Insurance Complicity Denied

VANCOUVER (CP) — An Insurance Bureau of Canada spokesman Sunday denied a charge made in the British Columbia legislature that his organization misled the public about B.C.'s new, no-fault auto insurance legislation.

J. E. Burns, chairman of the bureau's committee to study the legislation, said in a telephone interview from Toronto that the provincial government called on the bureau for studies, "but we had nothing to do with drafting the bill."

William Hartley (NDP—Yale-Lillooet) who contends he was fired from his insurance job for criticizing the bill, told the legislature Friday the public was being misled through Burns' statements "as to the alleged increased benefits and reduced costs" of the plan.

Burns said Sunday he agreed with Attorney-General Leslie Peterson the plan would save motorists money. He added: "Anyone who goes around finding holes in the plan is doing a disservice to it."

He also denied a charge that insurance companies contributed to the Social Credit government's campaign chest.

"We had nothing to do with drafting the bill, and I didn't have the faintest clue to its contents until it was released to the public."

Meanwhile, the bill drew criticism Sunday from R. B. Caton, the B.C. manager of the Allstate Insurance Company of Canada.

Caton said comparisons could not be made with the new bill and there was no indication whether rates would go up or down.

"The bill sounds beautiful, but I just wish I knew what Mr. Peterson bases the rates on.

"We're waiting for him to tell us what he wants us to produce, and then we'll make our rates," Caton said.

Hartley, who has pressed the government in the legislature to handle its own insurance, said he had lost his insurance job the day the bill was brought down.

He said he was told the action was taken because he had too high a rate of customers not renewing their policies and denied that this was the case.

"Last year I had a 100-percent record of renewals," Hartley said.

In Sicily, people ran from villages and farms on the eastern slopes of Mount Etna or drove to the coast when a stremor shook the area.

In Serdo, about 280 miles northeast of Addis Ababa, 300 persons were left homeless after an earthquake Saturday.

Fifty-three persons died and 350 were injured Friday in the Alasehir area of Western Turkey when an earthquake reduced 2,000 houses to rubble.

A severe tremor also destroyed about 20 homes in a village near Herowabad, north Iran, Saturday night.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Cool, moist Pacific air has spread across B.C. bringing cloud to all areas. Daytime temperatures will be lowered 5 to 10 degrees because of this cool air invasion. Showers will persist in coastal areas with a few showers also spreading into the interior. However, more general rain is expected on the coast Tuesday as a disturbance moves onshore.

The Weather and You

By CARL RIBLET JR.

The weather in Chicago during a 13-day period in May, 1967, was nice and mild, and it should have been a time of at least average good behavioral conditions for most people living there. But it wasn't. People in Chicago were involved in more than the usual number of auto accidents, and more children stayed home from school.

Scientists think that the Chicagoans were disturbed during those 13 days by severe storms that struck intermittently as far away as 1,500 miles. This is how they explain it:

Sound waves are produced by high winds, tornadoes and earthquakes. Those waves travel over great distances through the air—as much as 1,500 miles and more—and affect the behavior of people who live where the weather may be fine. The sound waves can't be heard, of course, by anything but special scientific equipment, but they tend to make people nervous, or at least ill at ease. Auto accidents are more frequent under such conditions.

BOTTOMS OUT, but not up, HMCS Oriole lists about 45 degrees to port late Sunday afternoon as receding tide leaves her fast aground off Clover Point. Stuck Ship Big Draw

By W. RALPH THOMAS

The only sailing ship in Canada's navy, HMCS Oriole, spent more than six hours fast aground about 150 feet off Clover Point Sunday.

'I Thought The Russians Were Coming'

The 90-foot vessel was returning from a training cruise to Port Townsend, Wash., under full sail with five crewmen and 14 cadets from Royal Roads Military College aboard when she grounded at 2:47 p.m.

A Canadian Forces spokesman said today there were no injuries in the mishap and that a brief inspection of the steel-hulled vessel showed no damage.

A thorough investigation into the cause of the grounding will be made, he added.

Hundreds of Victorians jammed Clover Point and nearby shores to watch the Oriole's plight. Late in the afternoon city police closed Clover Point to automobile traffic in an attempt to ease the jam.

CADETS REMOVED

"I thought the Russians were coming," said a resident working in his garden just off Dallas Road as crowds began scampering along the waterfront shortly after 3 p.m.

Within an hour of the grounding, a navy auxiliary craft arrived from HMC Dockyard and took 11 of the cadets off the Oriole. Three cadets, the commanding officer Lt.-Cmdr. Geoffrey Hilliard and four crewmen remained on board.

As the tide continued to move out, the ship heeled farther and farther to port, stopping finally when its 95-foot main mast signalled a 45-degree tilt at slack water.

After 6 p.m. the wind picked up, gusting as high as 35 miles and hour, and a Dockyard tug, the Beamsville, got an insurance line aboard the listing Oriole.

Shortly after 9 p.m. she refloated without assistance on the rising tide and arrived in Esquimalt 30 minutes later under her own power.

Judge Frees Men After Police Shot

DETROIT (AP) — A Negro judge has freed all but two of 10 men detained by police after a shootout with members of the black separatist Republic of New Africa which left a young patrolman dead.

Detectives investigating the fatal shooting of the policemen, Michael Czapski, 22, wanted to jail eight more of 135 originally arrested.

But Judge George Crockett of Recorder's Court ruled Sunday that police had illegally made nitrate tests of the suspects' hands to determine whether they had recently fired weapons. The judge said police had not advised the men first of their rights to call lawyers, and he ordered their release.

Crockett cited William L. Cahalan, Wayne County prosecutor, for contempt of court for trying to keep one of the men in custody.

Jitters to Shake Ground Even if Quakes Fall Short

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Against all scientific evidence, prophets of doom says Apirl is the month when a super earthquake will topple half of California into the Pacific.

Scientists say this talk is ridiculous and that while the danger of a major earthquake exists, no one can say when it will happen.

Nonetheless, nerves are getting jumpier day by day.

Here are some symptoms indicating the spread of California's newest attack of earthquake jitters:

—The Los Angeles civil defence co-ordinator, William Frank, says he has received more than 1,200 phone calls and 500 letters since early March requesting pamphlets on what to do in case of an earthquake.

—A spokesman for Los Angeles city schools says children have become so disturbed by widespread rumors that many teachers have taken time out from studies to review disaster procedures for their classes.

—California Institute of Technology seismologists issued two long releases in less than three weeks attempting to put public fears to rest.

—Eleven members of the Fellowship of the Ancient Mind, a psychic cult that claims to be 6,000 years old, showed up at City Hall March 11 in flowing robes and clerical collars seeking a salvage permit that would allow them to help restore the city after an earthquake they said they expect soon.

—A calypso tune called Day After Day which forecast imminent disaster has jumped in three weeks from 20th to seventh place on radio station KHJ's compilation of retail record sales.

—Several small religious and hippie groups have announced their intention to move to other states. Two religious groups left for Missouri and Tennessee and a hippie tribe is reported to have moved to New Mexico.

—Publishers report a bonanza in magazine articles and books dealing with fictional forecasts of a cataclysm. One of them, The Last Days of the Late Great State of California, has become a best-seller in Los Angeles bookstores.

The book picks December as the month of catastrophe, but for some reason April is the popular choice of rumors.

The only April date which conceivably might have some scientific basis is April 16. On that date the sun and moon will be lined up, exerting a gravitational pull that will make the earth's crust bulge a foot or more in their direction.

Last March 7, Dr. C. Hewitt Dix, Caltech geophysicist, issued a report saying: "These gravitational forces may have touched off the disastrous July 21, 1952, earthquake in California's Kern County." That quake and its aftershocks cost 14 lives and $60,000,000 damage.

But the report also pointed out that the sun and moon line up once every 27 days and there is no way of predicting when or where this tidal force may touch off the stresses that lead to earthquakes.

U.K. 'Snub' of Ike Rites Recalls Sir Winston Hassle

LONDON (AP)—The British government faced criticism in Parliament and the press today over what some newspapers called a snub to the memory of former president Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Britain sent Earl Mountbatten of Burma, a friend of Eisenhower and a distant relative of the Queen, to represent the Royal Family at the funeral and Defence Minister Denis Healey to represent the government.

"This is not really good enough," says The Daily Telegraph. The pro-Labor Sunday Mirror headlines its story "America Bewildered at Royal Snub."

A Labor member of Parliament, Marcus Lipton, introduced a motion saying Britain should have been "more adequately represented at the funeral of Gen. Eisenhower."

"A member of the Royal Family should represent the Queen, not Lord Mountbatten," said Lipton. "You might as well send the assistant postmaster-general as Mr. Healey for all the American public knows of the defence minister."

QUEEN IS BUSY

Prime Minister Wilson is on a trip to Africa, and the Queen and Prince Philip were attending the dedication today of a chapel in memory of her father, King George VI.

The Telegraph notes that Healey is the eighth-ranking member of the cabinet and that Mountbatten, once Britain's top soldier, now holds no official position. But The Times says the defence minister is a suitable choice because Eisenhower's closest connection with Britain was as supreme Allied commander in the Second World War.

The Mirror says American commentators who it doesn't name have suggested it would have been more fitting if Britain had sent Prince Philip or Prince Charles. Prince Philip attended the funeral of President John F. Kennedy in 1963.

The paper recalls that President Lyndon B. Johnson did not attend the funeral of Sir Winston Churchill in January, 1965, and wonders: "Could it be that the position is now reversed and that Britain is underestimating the importance of Ike's funeral?"

Johnson sent Chief Justice Earl Warren to Churchill's funeral, and Eisenhower attended as a private mourner.

Bombing Worth Queried As Infiltration in Check

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence department officers say the United States has suffered little militarily from the prohibition against bombing North Vietnam, begun in limited fashion one year ago today.

This attitude would seem to be an admission that the air campaign against the North, launched in February, 1965, was not as vital as the department made it out to be.

But, military men say, the North Vietnamese have gained operating flexibility and are no longer paying as high a price to infiltrate men and supplies southward.

At the same time, however, Hanoi has not been able, or has not chosen, to build up a much larger force in South Vietnam. Its troop level today is about what it was when the bombs were falling—around 100,000.

Former president Johnson restricted U.S. bombing of North Vietnam last March 31 to the narrow panhandle beneath the 20th parallel to encourage Hanoi to enter peace negotiations. Last Nov. 1, with talks imminent, he made the prohibition complete.

WARNED IN ADVANCE

There was some concern the bombing halt would bring a dangerous North Vietnamese threat to U.S. marines stationed below the demilitarized zone separating the two countries. The United States warned Hanoi in advance to respect the supposedly neutralnature of the DMZ.

Officers say Hanoi still plays fast and loose with the DMZ but not to the extent that U.S. forces have been placed in serious jeopardy.

U.S. intelligence estimates 1,500 to 3,000 North Vietnamese operate continuously in the 12-mile zone but few are combat types.

Most are patrols or are in construction units sent in to repair fortifications in North Vietnam's six-mile portion of the DMZ. Small armed units do slip through occasionally to raid marine outposts.

Four divisions, or around 40,000 men, which were withdrawn to North Vietnam last year remain scattered above the DMZ and pose a potential threat.

If North Vietnamese were massed above the DMZ, officers say the United States would face the choice of resuming the bombing—and probably disrupting the Paris peace talks—or risking a costly invasion.

U.S. Believes Cong Ready to Back Off

SAIGON (AP)—Heavy losses and blocking actions are forcing the Viet Cong command to reassess plans for its five-week-old spring offensive, United States military analysts said today.

Officers said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese have lost more than 6,000 men during March in the 3rd Corps area stretching from the Cambodia border through Saigon to the South China Sea.

The analysts said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese during the first two weeks of April probably would limit their action to rocket and mortar attacks while they reassess their plans and get replacements and supplies.

Viet Cong actions stepped up in Saigon during the weekend. In 24 hours, gunners fired rockets into the city for the first time in two weeks, bombed a police station and a government post office and set off a mine 100 yards from the national police headquarters. Twenty-three persons were wounded in the raids, but the rockets fell harmlessly in or near the Saigon river.

Military spokesmen reported that combined forces troops killed 582 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in more than a dozen fights during the weekend. U.S. losses were put at 42 men killed and 158 wounded, while 20 South Vietnamese were reported killed and 116 wounded.

The U.S. command reported about 20 attacks by rockets or mortars overnight on military bases and towns.

Three American helicopters, a Sheridan tank and an armored personnel carrier were reported lost in the weekend fighting. Three of the helicopter crew members were killed and five were wounded. A total of 2,481 American helicopters have been reported lost in the war.

The U.S. 7th Fleet regained its full strength of five aircraft carriers Sunday with the return of the nuclear-powered Enterprise to the Tonkin Gulf. The world's biggest aircraft carrier had been out of operation 2½ months for repairs after a fire during training exercises off Hawaii Jan. 14.

Early President Of College Dies

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) —Funeral services will be held Monday for the first faculty member of University of British Columbia and its second president, Dr. Leonard Sylvanus Klinck, who died Thursday at 92.

Acting UBC president Walter Gage said Dr. Klinck, president of UBC from 1919-1944, was primarily responsible for laying the "firm footing" on which the 55-year-old university rests today.

SUPERHEATER IS HERE!

The new Cascade symbol on your next water heater guarantees all the hot water your family can use for at least 10 years.

Now there's a new standard of performance in electric water heaters. Every Cascade certified heater features greater element capacity for a constant hot water supply under the heaviest loads. Each unit has been CSA tested for efficient, economical performance and carries a full, unconditional 10 year guarantee. Only those manufacturers able to meet these rigid specifications are permitted to use the Cascade symbol.
Of course, in addition to the Cascade standards, you get all the advantages inherent in modern electric water heating: cleanliness, quietness, easy installation with no venting required and a choice of 40 or 60 Imperial gallon capacities.
Installation and purchase costs are low ... and can be financed through your dealer or through B.C. Hydro with very low monthly payments. Operating costs are low, too.
Look for the Cascade symbol ... and stop worrying about hot water for at least 10 years.

Words and Deeds

IN PROPOSING TERMS FOR A peace settlement in the Middle East, the United States must be well aware that no effective peace can be imposed on the Arab and Israeli countries. The final settlement will have to be one which wins the approval of both sides, and this is not likely to occur until after long negotiations. The negotiations themselves —and Israel says there must be face-to-face talks with the Arabs— will require extended preliminary talks through an intermediary.

But the United States proposal, based largely on the United Nations resolution of 1967, has logical elements which should eventually prevail. The provision—not part of the U.N. resolution—that Israel should continue to control Jerusalem is one which has support in history, sentiment and practical politics. The Israelis have said they will not relinquish their ancient holy city now that they have it once again and in view of the religious factors involved they might be expected, as a nation, to insist on this retention much more strongly than on the merely geographical gains they made in the June War. The latter they have also said they will keep, but there is more disposition to negotiate this aspect. The price to be exacted from the Arabs involves recognition of Israel as a state, renunciation of any holy war of Jewish obliteration, and safeguarding of Israeli borders and marine rights.

The proposal for demilitarized zones along the Arab-Israeli borders, and a United Nations police force to ensure observance, is an important one—perhaps an essential one. Israel is so small a country that Arab artillery can cover most of it. There could be no permanent peace if, for instance, shelling were to be resumed from the Golan Heights, or Arab guerrillas and terrorists were to continue to make forays into Israeli territory.

The American plan will be discussed when the Big Four powers meet next Thursday. Britain and France have already indicated approval; Russia has still to be heard from. This step brings some hope that a constructive plan may be devised to end the present very dangerous situation. At least it makes clear that the Big Four recognize its gravity. Could it also mean that they might alter their armaments export policies to support their words?

The Big Four can make war almost inevitable by continuing to pour weapons into the Middle East; they could also exert great pressure through trade, industrial aid and other forms of peaceable assistance to persuade the combatants to effect a settlement. President Nasser's weekend assertion that Egypt now has the power to regain its lost lands represents less of a threat, perhaps, than a veiled invitation to the Big Four to come up with something that will dissuade him.

No Rest on the Oars

THROUGH ITS HEAD START project, the United States made a serious and constructive effort to help underprivileged children to overcome environmental influences which prejudiced their progress once they started regular school. Surveys of the program and early school history of Head Start "graduates" have revealed certain weaknesses. It was found, for instance, that the gains made by the pre-school program were offset by inferior schooling in primary grades. The students, though better prepared to learn, were hampered by poor instruction and unsatisfactory schools.

The implication is clear. While children from extremely poor and backward surroundings could not benefit from good schooling without special preparation, good preparation itself was inadequate to overcome poor schooling.

The point is of significance to Canadians because in its efforts to improve the education of Indians and Eskimos in the Northwest Territories, the federal government has extended itself to provide better schools than existed previously. The authorities have found in recent years that the better schools, by themselves, cannot accomplish the objective because many of the children require the equivalent of a Head Start project. Nor does the solution to the problem end there, in the opinion of Territorial leaders. There is also a need for much more adult education to help the older population to join the educational stream.

The experiences reported from the American Head Start project and the Northwest Territories improved schools emphasize a point which should have been evident. The education process must be continuous — beginning before regular school in a manner to equip the small child to benefit as fully as possible from his schooling, and continuing to the older group to keep different age categories on the same road of progress. But most of all, each section of the educational system has to be of high standard. What is gained from one project can be quickly lost if the ensuing stage is inadequate.

We in Canada cannot afford to rest on our oars at any part of the course if we hope to bring our Indians and Eskimos to the goal we would like to see them reach.

Looking Down

THE QUESTION IS OFTEN asked, why spend all that money in space when there is so much to be done on earth? One answer is that putting men and satellites into orbit can help solve some of our earth-bound problems. It has already been determined that photographic and electronic equipment can provide valuable information about the world and its resources, including weather patterns, crop damage, mineral deposits and forest conditions.

Now the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in the United States has indicated it intends to go into this type of project in a bigger way. The direction of some future U.S. space projects was made evident during the recent Apollo 9 test. When the three astronauts found themselves in the last five days of their flight with time on their hands after checking out the lunar landing module, they turned their eyes earthward. Using different filter and film combinations, special cameras mounted in the spacecraft hatch window were switched on to check the feasibility of making combined crop, resource and similar surveys routinely and automatically from space.

The immediate rewards to the United States could be great. Some American companies have already been accused by their foreign competitors of being able to get the jump in overseas resources investments and development with help from casual photography from space. If carried too far there might arise a need to put some curbs on "sky-spying," but in the long run the results from this type of space program, particularly in the field of weather forecasting, will benefit all of us.

Letters to God

Your new series of "Children's Letters To God" is neither funny nor cute, but sad.

It is sad to see that the brains of young children, who cannot think for themselves, are indoctrinated into believing tales that they do not understand, as is shown by the letters that they write — or are supposed to write.

One is left with the impression that this series is in the nature of propaganda by some professional organization, which is continually losing adherents. — Max Enke, 1025, Sutlej.

Canadian Paradox: Too Many Grads, Too Few Profs

Greer

PUBLIC concern over the Americanization of Canadian university faculties is developing, rather ironically, at a time when government support for the graduate schools which produce Canadian professors is being curtailed. On the federal level, the National Research Council — which is a major source of financial support for graduate students in the physical and biological sciences — has decided the supply of such personnel is beginning to balance the demand and has told the university science departments not to expect any significant increases in NRC grants.

On the provincial level, and partly because of the NRC policy, the Ontario government has informed the province's 14 publicly-assisted universities that the rapid expansion of graduate programs is no longer desirable. In a letter to the presidents of these universities, the minister for education and university affairs, Mr. Davis, said that anticipated graduate enrolments for the next five years may be "unrealistically large" and that a "very careful" study must be made of future development.

In addition, the presidents were told the basis for provincial grants for graduate work has been changed, the effect of which is to reduce this support by some $6,000,000 this year.

Trimesters Enforced

Up to now, graduate students have been counted, for attendance purposes, the same as undergraduates, namely on a fall and spring term basis; henceforth, they will count only if they are trimester students — in attendance fall, spring and summer.

The university presidents are hopping mad not only at losing the money but because the effects will be largely felt in the humanities and the social sciences — both fields where the foreseeable demand for those with higher degrees is very strong and where the proportion of Americans on university teaching staffs is particularly high.

(Full-year attendance of graduate students in the pure sciences is generally the rule now, since their professors are usually available in the same laboratory, working on their own research. But the universities claim it is neither practical nor desirable, as a universal policy, for those in the humanities since the professors in these fields frequently use the summer months to pursue their own research at the British Museum and other far away places.)

The 14 Ontario universities have also been told that only graduate students registered in programs favourably appraised by the Ontario Council of Graduate Studies will count as far as provincial grants are concerned, and that the more recently established universities will be limited, for support purposes, to Master degree programs and will get no help for Ph.D. work.

Paradoxically, while these steps will inevitably have an adverse effect on the production of Canadian academics, and will therefore tend to encourage the import of non-Canadian professors, they have been dictated in part at least by government concern over the relatively high proportion of non-Canadian students in the graduate schools.

In his letter to the university presidents, Mr. Davis stressed the need to hold the present line and even hinted quotas on the number of non-Canadians may become necessary. The universities were "cautioned" against over-expansion of graduate work based on a high proportion of non-Canadians "in order to avoid distress if constraints of any sort do become necessary at a later date."

Foreign Student Majority

The problem — if problem it is — is particularly acute in the pure sciences, where a NRC survey has discovered that only 49 per cent of the graduate students in Canada are Canadian citizens. Of the remainder, 12 per cent are Indian, 10 per cent American, six per cent are British and "all others" make up the balance of 22 per cent.

National statistics for all disciplines are apparently lacking, but it would appear from preliminary investigation that in Ontario, about 34 per cent of all graduate students are not Canadian citizens.

The higher proportion in the pure sciences is almost entirely due to the availability of NRC grants. It has become almost a tradition for university science departments to allocate a generous share of NRC research money to qualified foreign students, especially those from India and other underdeveloped countries.

But NRC grants are essentially bursaries and do not provide the university space and facilities which graduate students need to work in. Thus there is great pressure on the provincial government — whose treasury is now the source of about 90 per cent of all university financing — to provide the capital facilities, and the provincial government is naturally anxious to satisfy itself that the NRC policy of grants is coherent and justified.

NRC Like Topsy

The great complaint of Ontario officials in this regard is that NRC does not appear to have a policy at all: like Topsy, its grants program has just growed. There has been no attempt to set out guidelines as to why foreign students are brought here, what they do there, or what their future intentions are.

It is not, for example, a foreign aid program. There is no requirement that a student from India, having got his graduate degree, go home and help develop his own country. Nor are the courses he takes here suitable for that objective. Nor does he want to go, having regard to income disparities; about half of the foreign graduate students who enter Canada on student visas switch to landed immigrant status within a year, a process made easy for them by the federal "point" system for assessing immigrants.

There would be nothing wrong with this from the point of view of Canadian policy, of course, providing the foreign student does not displace a Canadian student in the university graduate program (academic qualifications being equal) and providing his skills can be gainfully employed in the Canadian economy on graduation.

It is these considerations which are now bothering both levels of government. The foreign student may not displace a Canadian but does represent an additional demand upon the public treasury — it costs at least $40,000 to turn a Bachelor's degree into a Doctorate — and there have to be some reasonable grounds for believing he is a good investment.

Considerable evidence may be found to show no such belief is justified, particularly in the pure sciences. Most science PhD's want to teach, but there are not enough openings on university faculties to go around. There is a demand for those in the humanities and social sciences but only a limited percentage of the Ph.D's in these fields appear to be interested in teaching.

No Place in Industry

The most disquieting evidence, however, comes from Canadian industry. It is an open secret — some academics consider it a scandal — that Canadian employers are not exactly scrambling to employ Canadian PhD's. Partly the fault lies with the universities, in that their programs have not been structured to meet industrial needs, but largely it it because Canadian management is not sufficiently research-minded.

Most Canadian companies wouldn't know what to do with a Ph.D. if they had him because they are not geared up for what he can do. Canadian IBM, for example, is currently looking for domestic firms to manufacture some 60 computer components; the contracts will probably go to the U.S. because IBM can find no Canadian firm to make them.

No doubt, as the universities contend, competition will force this pattern to change, and this is no time to be cutting back on graduate expansion. But from the government's point of view, it is an opportune time to be marking time.

Vague Hints of a European Grouping

THE French government, in spite of a recent British rebuff, is waging an energetic diplomatic campaign in favor of discussions on a large, loosely organized European grouping that would include Britain and other European countries that are not members of the Common Market.

The idea of such a "large Europe," whose members would coordinate their diplomatic, economic and military policies, was broached by President Charles de Gaulle in a meeting with the British ambassador, Christopher Soames, on February 4.

That meeting gave rise to a bitter quarrel between the two governments when London informed France's Common Market partners of the general's initiative in a version that the French described as a "distortion."

But de Gaulle restated the same basic idea to German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger during the French-German summit here recently.

He reiterated France's opposition to the admission of new members to the Common Market, but added, in the words of a spokesman, that "perhaps one day something in common must be done with all the European states."

French officials are going out of their way to alert French and foreign correspondents to the importance that de Gaulle attached to his initiative.

French ambassadors have been driving home the same message in various European capitals and Foreign Minister Michel Debre will pursue the issue in the coming weeks with his Italian and Dutch colleagues, according to informed sources.

Exploration

French officials insist that there is no French "plan" for a larger European grouping but that the French government simply feels the time has come to discuss the possibility of creating such a grouping and to explore the forms it could take.

High-ranking allied diplomats say they have been unable to get unequivocal answers as to whether the new European grouping would be an addition to the Common Market or would ultimately replace it.

When faced with this question, French officials quote de Gaulle's remarks to Kiesinger, which apparently were vague.

There is a widespread belief that de Gaulle has become disenchanted with the Common Market, finding it increasingly difficult to impose his will on the other five members on such issues as British membership.

French officials have a different explanation. They advance three good reasons for immediate discussions on a "large Europe":

—The Sino-Soviet conflict is making it more obvious that the Soviet Union needs "co-existence" with the West.

—Europe now is economically strong and politically and militarily more independent from the United States.

—Under the Nixon Administration, the United States dropped its tendency to interfere in internal European affairs and is encouraging the Europeans instead to find their own solutions to their problems.

Falling Tide

London Free Press

There must be something significant in the fact that, since 1965, the annual exodus of Canadians to the United States has fallen off by as much as 40 per cent.

The social unrest, disorder and violence in the United States cannot help but have a negative impact on Canadians considering residence in that country.

More positively, the drop in Canadian migration may be because opportunity and future potential in this country are much greater now than they were a few years ago.

There have always been those who will migrate simply for more money, but the loss of citizens so motivated is not nearly as great to this country as is the loss of talented professional people whose potential could not be realized in Canada due to inadequate facilities here.

At the same time we are having an influx of American academics and other professionals, as well as peripatetic businessmen seeking new resources and new markets, which provides added evidence of the growth of opportunity in Canada.

But figures for 1968 are not yet available to show whether this is a continuing trend. If it does continue, it may be indication that this country at last has begun to realize the relatively untapped and limitless capacity of the promise it has always held.

Glass Building Dream Fulfilled

By WOLF VON ECKARDT

BALTIMORE — The latest addition to Baltimore's downtown Charles Centre will at last fulfill an old architectural dream—an all-glass building.

The as yet nameless 23-storey office tower was designed by Rogers, Taliaferro, Kostritsky and Lamb in the shape of a slender, hexagonal prism, reflecting its neighboring buildings during the day and glowing brightly at night.

The dream, actually, was first dreamed by an obscure German novelist, Paul Scheerbart, who wrote in 1914 in a futurist fantasy:

"In order to change our culture to a higher level, we are forced, whether we like it or not, to change our architecture . . . we want walls which do not shut out the great infinite world." He called for "a soaring glass architecture."

The German architects who, early in this century, helped launch the modern architectural revolution became obsessed with this tongue-in-cheek proposal.

That same year, 1914, Bruno Taut built the first glass pavilion for an exhibition at Cologne. It was the predecessor of Buckminster Fuller's plastic dome at the Montreal world's fair.

●

To help a more beautiful culture along, Mies van der Rohe sketched a prismatic glass tower in 1919 for Berlin's Friedrichstrasse.

It was never built until, just a couple of years ago, other architects copied it almost exactly for a Chicago luxury apartment house.

It wasn't until some time after van der Rohe came to America in 1937 that he could himself build the pristine glass slabs his Friedrichstrasse sketch had sparked all over the world.

The international style glass boxes are never pure glass. Although the columns are hidden inside the building so that the outside wall becomes a mere curtain, there is still always a spandrel or frame of some kind to hold the glass panels.

Thus the glass and steel boxes are essentially only a square version of the super-greenhouses that had been in vogue long before Scheerbart. The vogue was started by the gardener Joseph Paxton with his famous Crystal Palace for the London Exposition of 1851.

●

Now that we are getting quite tired of super-greenhouses and glass boxes, technology has at last caught up with Scheerbart's dream.

We don't need to frame the glass sheets any more. We can now glue them together, edge to edge, with silicone caulking. The seam hardly shows.

The first time this method is said to have been applied is on a glass curtain wall of the Laurel race course in Maryland.

Rogers, Taliaferro, Kostritski and Lamb say they are the first architects to use it for "a soaring glass architecture." They'll fasten their 5x11½ feet, dark grey glass panels on to the Charles Centre office tower structure with stainless steel buttons and seal them together.

Their prism will thus have a sheer glass facade — clean, darkly glossy and uninterrupted from its granite base up to the sky.

Silicone sealants and steel buttons or not, we seem to have given up hope that glass architecture will endow us with "ever more beautiful values."

●

In fact, now that it is here, we seem to be rather disillusioned with the new, Scheerbartian age. The glass house dream seems no longer worth pursuing for its own sake.

But F.T.K. and L. are pursuing it for Charles Centre's sake. They are thoughtful architects and really quite with it.

They are right, I think. The best solution is a non-material —glass—and a non-style—that bland yet gleaming and reflecting prism.

It will be a fine building. Herr Sheerbart would have been especially pleased with it.

De Gaulle's Language Protection Not Extended to Minority Groups

By BERNARD KAPLAN

PARIS — Plastered across the walls of Paris at the moment is a poster reading, "if in 20 years French is a dead language, we will all be its assassins."

It forms part of an intensive fund-raising appeal by the Alliance Francaise, the global, government-subsidized organization for teaching the French language and culture to foreigners.

As hardly anyone can fail to be aware by now, the French, and especially their government, are probably the world's most linguistically-conscious people.

Ever on the Alert To Guard Purity

They are ever on the alert for signs that the purity and international status of their tongue are being eroded — especially, of course, by English.

"Defence of the French language" has been promoted into a major slogan and policy objective of the de Gaulle regime. It has been a significant element in the drama of Franco-Canadian relations and doubtless will continue to be.

But, at the same time that the Alliance Francaise rallies money and enthusiasm to propagate the national language, another, considerably less favored organization, the Council for the Defence and Promotion of the Languages of France, has had to confess that its work has come to an "impasse."

The council's objective is the preservation of France's regional languages, of which there are at least five major ones. In the words of Professor Robert Lafont, the council's spokesman, the French government's attitude —at best, indifference, at worse hostility—is "condemning these languages to certain death."

Lafont points out that France is one of only three European states — the others are Spain and Greece whose linguistic and education policies give no encouragement to regional languages and literature.

The plight of Breton has received the spotlight as a result of the rise of the Breton autonomist movement, most notably during the past two years.

Other genuine languages—not dialects or patois—such as Basque, Catalan and Occitan (the language of Languedoc, once spoken by roughly one-third the population of what is now France and among the richest literary languages of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance) are in even worse condition.

What is now focusing particular attention on the issue is the de Gaulle government's new commitment to great regional liberties.

After months of debate, the French electorate is being asked to vote in May on a referendum which will empower the government to decentralize many administrative functions, creating a system of partially self-ruling "regions."

But, while these regions have been promised economic and social authority of a kind that, for the past two centuries, has been jealously guarded by the central government, nothing has been said concerning new guarantees for regional languages.

The Local Pride Is Deep-Seated

Yet, in Brittany and portions of Southern France, this is a matter of deep-seated local pride—just the sort of pride that "regionalization" is supposed to succor.

The council operates under the flimsy umbrella of an eighteen-year-old law which gave grudging official recognition to the fact that French isn't the sole indigenous language of France.

But this legislation, known as the "Loi Deixonne," after the Socialist deputy who introduced it, has proved no safeguard. It provides for the teaching of the "minority" languages on a strictly voluntary basis only.

Instruction, in those areas where there is a demand, is by volunteer teachers outside of normal school hours. Courses in Breton, Basque or her languages do not give academic credits.

Less Than an Hour For Breton Program

Active official encouragement through the government-controlled radio — as in the case of the BBC, for instance, or Radio Suisse — might have helped overcome this handicap. No such encouragement has been forthcoming, however.

Programs in Breton are allowed less than an hour a week on French radio (on television, it is two minutes a week!) and the other languages are allotted no regular time on the airwaves whatever.

The inadequacy of the "Loi Deixonne" has given rise to numerous attempts to equip it with more muscle. Politicians of virtually every party have, at one time or another, voiced favor for a stronger law. Thousands of signatures have been affixed to petitions over the years.

At present, no fewer than 14 bills to this effect are in the hopper of the national assembly. Not a single one has reached the floor for debate and the chances of any doing so appear dim.

It is not even wholly fair to blame the government for this sorry situation. As recently as 1966, the minister of education convened a conference of experts to investigate and make recommendations for giving the regional languages a greater chance of survival. Its conclusions have since been pigeon-holed by the education ministry's own bureaucracy.

The cause of these "dying" tongues is now being taken up, however, by the young people of the areas in which they are rooted. For the most part, they are not cranks or "folklorists" but serious, modern-minded youth who are increasingly aware of their deeper heritage.

In this, they differ markedly from their parents and grandparents who, in most cases, surrendered to linguistic assimilation for material and social reasons.

The pendulum now has begun swinging the other way.

"Francification" is seen, as a young Basque intellectual recently wrote in a literary magazine here, as one more instance of the "crushing of the individual perception by authority."

The movement in favor of the minority languages is by no means restricted to intellectuals. It has an undoubted political content, even though circumstances differ for each of the ethnic groups concerned and comparatively few linguistic "nationalists" are political separatists.

Basque and Catalan are special cases. They are spoken by people living outside as well as within France. Both are spearheads of important autonomist movements in Spain with long histories.

Pale Reflection Of Spanish Trend

French officials are obviously worried by this, although Basque and Catalan nationalism in France are only a pale reflection of the Spanish phenomenon.

One clue to the official illiberality toward the minority languages is to be found right there. But it is only one. More significant is the long French tradition of building a nation by imposing cultural uniformity.

So far, the tradition has proved resistant to all pressures of change. But the pressures are growing.

Ships, Planes and Satellites Team Up for Weather Research

By THOMAS O'TOOLE

Man's most ambitious attempt yet to understand the weather is about to be made by the United States.

On May 1, at a cost of $18.2 million, 10 ships and 24 aircraft manned by 1,500 people will begin sampling the sea and sky in and above 90,000 square miles of ocean east of the West Indian island of Barbados.

For the following three months, the ships will plumb the seas down to 3,000 feet while the planes sample the air up to 60,000 feet.

Buoys and Balloons

Twelve deep sea buoys will be gathering information down to a depth of 18,000 feet while thousands of weather balloons do the same in the upper atmosphere to a height of 100,000 feet.

No fewer than seven orbiting satellites will be taking cloud pictures of the area and measuring changes in surface temperature, all of which will be fed to the ships below for instant interpretation.

Says the Atomic Energy Commission's Dr. Joshua Holland, who is serving as operations director for the project: "This is very likely the most difficult and extensive scientific experiment ever attempted in meteorology."

Eight years in the making, the venture is code-named BOMEX, which is jargonese for the Barbados oceanographic and Meteorological experiment.

It is being directed by the commerce department's environmental science services administration, which will be actively aided by NASA, the Atomic Energy Commission, the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey and the defence department.

The purpose of BOMEX is to make an exhaustive study of the way heat is carried from the seas into the upper atmosphere.

During the 10-day period, the earth's atmosphere contains 10 trillion tons of water, most of which was evaporated from the top foot of our warmest seas into the lower atmosphere, where it is carried upward by whirling eddies of air and then northward by fast-moving air.

The energy released in this exchange of water vapor causes most of the earth's weather. The process is so little understood that reliable weather forecasts cannot be made more than two days ahead.

Free of Winds

BOMEX scientists chose the Barbados site partly because it's tropical and partly because it's free of land and high early summer winds that could upset the study.

Their first step will be to anchor the four largest ships in the experiment at the four corners of the 90,000 square mile area to be investigated, with a fifth ship of similar size in the centre of the four-vessel array.

Held in place by six-ton anchors, these ships will sample the sea down to 3,000 feet.

Also in the centre of the perimeter will be a "ship" named FLIP, for floating laboratory instrument platform.

The largest sea-going buoy in the world, it flips from horizontal to vertical positions and stays in one spot with only 55 feet of its 355-foot length above the water.

Five smaller ships will rove the sea inside the four-ship square, dropping more than 5,000 sounding buoys from place to place inside the perimeter.

Planes up to long-range B-57 jets will patrol the square in stacks, starting at 50 feet above the water to an altitude of 60,000 feet. Their role will be to sample the air boundaries, from just above sea level to the upper atmosphere.

The final key to BOMEX will be the use of six weather satellites in polar orbit, moving over the Barbados site every two hours. They will photograph the region and beam the pictures to BOMEX ships for analysis.

The Art of Cultivating Guilt

By RICHARD NEEDHAM

Should parents love their children? Of course; and nature has looked after this by giving parents (mothers especially) a fiercely protective feeling toward their young. It's the same in the animal kingdom — a parental love without which no species could survive.

Needham

Should children love their parents? Ah, that's a different story. In the animal world, the young leave their parents the moment they are mature; never give poor old Mom and Dad a second thought.

In the human world, we find a wry Jewish proverb which says the reason grandparents and grandchildren get along so well is that they both have the same enemy.

★ ★ ★

We find Oscar Wilde remarking, "Children begin by loving their parents. After a time, they judge them. Rarely, if ever, do they forgive them."

I meet a lot of young people who dislike their mother or father or both, and feel guilty about it.

I don't see why they should. I myself didn't like my mother, and had my father survived the First World War, I probably wouldn't have liked him either.

Does this make me a monster? If so, there are an awful lot of monsters roaming around, both in fact and in fiction.

Like a great many other people, I've been reading Philip Roth's sharp-edged novel, Portnoy's Complaint.

The central figure of the book is a Jewish-American, Alex Portnoy, who's been stuck (and stuck is the word) with a defeated, ineffectual father and a demanding, nagging, self-pitying dragon of a mother — "Alex, why are you getting like this, give me some clue? Tell me please what horrible things we have done to you all our lives that this should be our reward?"

Stretched out on the psychiatrist's couch, Portnoy raves away about his upbringing in a terrified, terrifying home where everyone tried to get a good cry in at least once a day: "The hysteria and the superstition! The guilt, the fears — the terror bred into my bones! What in their world was not charged with danger, dripping with germs, fraught with peril?

"Who filled these parents of mine with such a fearful sense of life? Doctor, these people are incredible! These two are the outstanding producers and packagers of guilt in our time!"

Portnoy mimics their anxiety: "Call, Alex. Visit, Alex. Alex, keep us informed. Don't go away without telling us, please, not again. Last time you went away you didn't tell us, your father was ready to phone the police.

"You know how many times a day he called and got no answer? Take a guess, how many? Alex, to pick up the phone is such a simple thing—how much longer will we be around to bother you anyway?"

Then Portnoy asks the psychiatrist, "Please, who crippled us like this? Who made us so morbid and hysterical and weak?"

★ ★ ★

Portnoy is 33 as he tells his story, but he doesn't feel 33; "A Jewish man with his parents alive is a 15-year-old boy, and will remain a 15-year-old boy till they die! Did I say 15? Excuse me, I meant 10, I meant 5, I meant zero! A Jewish man with his parents alive is half the time a helpless infant! This big smothering bird is beating frantic wings about my face now so that I cannot even get my breath. What do we want? To be left alone! If only for half an hour!"

There's clearly a love-hate relationship between Portnoy and his parents. He loves them enough to remain with them, to stay in the situation, to put up with whining tirades which would certainly cause me to walk out the door and disappear in the direction of Sydney, Australia. He hates them for the mess they have made of him — "I'm the son in the Jewish joke — only it ain't no joke!"

★ ★ ★

And what do Alex's parents feel toward him? Love, of course; not the love which laughs, sets free and lets be (the only kind of love I'll ever understand); but the love which complains, criticizes, demands, weeps, shames, frightens, smothers, and in the end, kills.

For Alex Portnoy seems to me pretty much of a dead man, a man almost crushed by his terrible load of guilt, by his monstrous burden of ingratitude for the "sacrifices" which his parents have made on his behalf, and which they keep dinning into his ears.

Another Jewish writer, Dan Greenburgh, has said it, "The art of parenthood is the art of sowing, cultivating and harvesting guilt. Control guilt, and you control the child."

But Gentile parents can be equally awful and we'll move to that part of our discussion tomorrow.

Drive it long and hard. All you'll wear out are your driving gloves.

Driving gloves are made to last as long as all those family cars that can't take the family after two years. You know, the ones you see in every used car lot in town.

If you're looking there for a Corona, don't bother. You won't find one till 1971 maybe.

Because Corona is built to take the tough life. The 90 horsepower oversquare engine does zero to 40,000 easily. Cruises at 80 all day. And won't get you pushed into the 'Slow vehicles keep right' lane going uphill. Unlike some imports we can name.

Just because Corona is built to take the rough life doesn't mean you have to rough it. Corona is thickly carpeted. The vinyl bucket seats recline fully. Three-point seat belts, padded dash and an optional automatic are all part of the soft life inside a Corona.

There's more. Smooth syncromesh four-on-the-floor, Quad headlights. Two-speed wipers. Emergency flashers all make life a little easier. All at no extra cost.

If replacing your driving gloves is a major repair, you must be driving a Corona too.

Greek Regime Cornered In Quarrel With Italy

By PHILI PDOPOULOS

ATHENS (AP) — Greece's military dictatorship has worked itself into a corner in its quarrel with its NATO ally, Italy.

"There is no way out now," one diplomat said. "The regime has forced the issue and must either take definitive action against Italy or suffer loss of prestige, especially on the home front."

Foreign Minister Pietro Nenni of Italy has been unable to provide an explanation saisfactory to the Athens government for his pledge of assistance to Andreas Papandreaou, the exiled opponent of the dictatorship.

Nenni, head of Italy's Social Democratic party, apparently made the pledge to satisfy Social Democrats supporting organizations seeking the overthrow of the Athens regime.

The newspaper Nea Politeia, which usually reflects the thinking of Premier George Papadopoulos, called on self-exiled King Constantine Sunday to quit Italy for another country "because Italy continues its unfriendly actions against Greece."

The Greek regime has threatened to curtail trade and pending commercial transactions with Italy, which last year exporetd $110,000,000 worth of goods to Greece and imported only $32,500,000 worth of Greek products.

WEAKEN SOUTH FLANK

The dispute could also weaken the southern flank of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization if the two allies refused to cooperate with each other.

Italian diplomats in Athens decline to comment on the quarrel for fear of aggravating relations further. Italian envoy Giovanni d'Orlandi called on Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinelis last Friday, apparently trying to allay fears that his government would openly support opponents of the Greek regime.

Italy has replied twice to the Greek demand for explanations, made several days after Nenni and Papandreou met on March 6. The first reply was not made public. The Greeks said it was unsatisfactory but would be accepted and the issue considered closed if the reply was made public. The Italians declined.

A second Italian reply, made public by the Italian foreign ministry, did not deny Nenni's pledge of assistance of Papandreou's Panhellenic Liberation Movement.

The Greek regime accused the Italians of appointing themselves the protector of Greek exiles against the Athens government.

Quebec Heads Rap Ottawa 'Steamroller'

QUEBEC (CP) — Two leading Quebec politicians Sunday blamed the federal government for the faltering relations between Ottawa and Quebec.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand told a Union Nationale party fund-raising dinner his party does not intend "to gallop along with the galloping centralization" of federal governments led by such men as Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and Mr. Trudeau.

And Cultural Affairs Minister Jean-Noel Tremblay said in his speech introducing the premier that Ottawa "has plugged its ears and doesn't want to hear the voice of Quebec."

'DIALOGUE OF DEAF'

Mr. Tremblay cited the recent constitutional conference as a typical "dialogue of the deaf."

He added that French-Canadian politicians in Ottawa are serving Canada's English-speaking majority to "gag" Quebec.

Mr. Bertrand said it is easy to demonstrate "the devastating role of the Ottawa steamroller" which "crushes the legitimate rights of Quebec" by infringing on provincial constitutional ground.

He said "middle-of-the-road" policies can best preserve "the French fact" in Quebec while allowing Quebecers to take full advantage of North American "dynamism."

These policies should follow the middle course between the "galloping centralism" of the federal Liberals and the "separatist adventure" of Rene Leveque's Parti Quebecois.

Four Seeking Regional Colwood Seat

Four persons will seek the Colwood seat on the Capital Region Board on April 19.

The lone woman is Mrs. Bessie Smith, 3384 Aloha Drive, who has taken leave of absence from the presidency of the Association of Women Electors, a position she has held for two terms.

She was one of its founding members in Victoria and formed the Colwood, Langford, Metchosin division two years ago.

She is also president of the nursing division of St. John Brigade, assisted in the formation of the nursing division at St. Mary's Priory, and has been a serving sister in the Order of St. John.

The other candidates are Albert Head Ratepayers' Association president Jim Buchanan, realtor Herman Williams and former Colwood fire chief R. M. Emery.

The only Langford candidate is William Temple, 1153 Goldstream.

The Metchosin Ratepayers' Association meets tonight at 8 in the Community Hall to nominate candidates.

Worldwide Air Walkout

LONDON (Reuters) — The worldwide network of British Overseas Airways Corp. was paralysed today when its 1,200 pilots went on strike.

The strike began early today after months of negotiations broke down late Sunday night.

The pilots' union said the strike, which leaves BOAC planes stranded around the world, was 100-per-cent effective.

The union is seeking a big pay increase and is trying to prevent the forced retirement of 130 pilots who are more than 50 years old.

It is the second strike by pilots of the governmentowned airline in less than a year. A 16-day walkout in June cost BOAC about £6,000,000 (about $15,000,000).

Last-minute efforts by the government to break the deadlock did not make any headway despite talks almost to the midnight deadline.

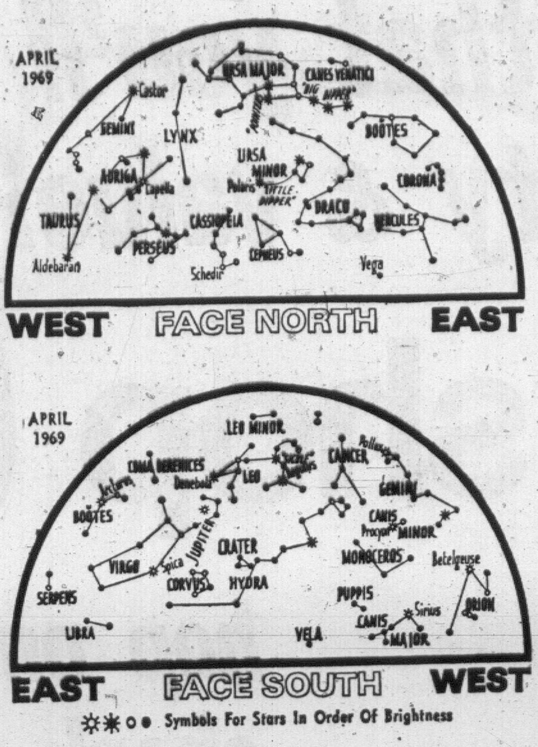
Eyeful of Stars Await Gazers April Evenings



By JAMES STOKLEY
Science Service Astronomy Writer

High in the south appears the only planet you can see easily on April evenings. This is Jupiter, in the constellation of Virgo, the virgin, which also contains the first magnitude star called Spica. It is about a sixth as bright as Jupiter.

Next to Virgo, toward the right and a little higher, stands Leo, the lion, with bright Regulus. This is in a small star group, not an official constellation, called the Sickle.

These stars, and the planet, are shown on the accompanying maps, which indicate the appearance of the sky at about 10 p.m. (standard time) on April 1. They look about the same on the 15th at 9 p.m., and on the 30th at 9 p.m., daylight saving time, which will then be in effect.

Planets, sun, stars: all seem to move from east to west, because of the earth's rotation from west to east. This means that, for times earlier than those given, the stars in the east will be lower while those toward the west will be higher. Those shown in the south will be to the left of the positions shown. Later in the night they will be to the right.

The Herdsman

Ten first magnitude stars appear on the maps, although several, near the horizon, are dimmed because their light is absorbed by the earth's atmosphere. Most prominent is Arcturus, high in the east, in Bootes, the herdsman. (This constellation is divided between the northern and southern maps.)

The majority of the bright stars of the April evening appear toward the west—a remnant of the brilliant assemblage that adorned the southern sky in midwinter.

Low in the southwest is Sirius, part of Canis Major, the great dog. Although dimmed by its low altitude, Sirius is so bright that it is still conspicuous. Above, in Canis Minor, the little dog, stands Procyon. Even higher, directly west, you can see Pollux, of Gemini, the twins. Toward the northwest is Capella, in Auriga, the charioteer.

Only part of Orion, the warrior, remains visible low in the west but you can see Betelgeuse. And to the right, in Taurus, the bull, is Aldebaran, another star dimmed by low altitude.

The Serpent-Bearer

This also is true of Vega, low in the northeast and part of Lyra, the lyre. Vega will become prominent in the evening in the coming months while Aldebaran and its neighbors will disappear.

Another bright planet, Mars, rises in the east before midnight, in Ophiuchus, the serpent-bearer. Approaching Earth, Mars is becoming brighter. Now it is more than a quarter as bright as Jupiter.

Venus, which was so prominent in the west on winter evenings, now moves to the other side of the sun. By the end of April it will again be brilliant, shining in the east before sunrise. Saturn won't be visible at all this month; it passes behind the sun on the 18th.

And by the end of April, as it moves east of the sun and remains visible in the west after sunset, you may get a glimpse of Mercury as dusk gathers, low in the west.

Innermost Planet

The closing days of April, and the first days of May, will bring the year's best opportunity to see this innermost of the planets. Only 36 million miles from the sun (a little more than a third of the earth's distance) Mercury is never seen far from the sun in the sky. It can go as much as 28 degrees either to the east or west of the sun. When it does it's said to be at eastern or western elongation.

Mercury, like other celestial bodies, moves across the sky from east to west, along with the sun. Thus, at greatest western elongation, it is ahead of the sun and appears low in the east just before sunrise. But at an eastern elongation it follows the sun. Then you see it low in the west after sunset. It is never far enough from the sun to remain until the sky is really dark.

At the end of April, Mercury will be approaching greatest eastern elongation, which will come May 5. Then it will remain visible longest after sunset. However, before that date it is considerably brighter than at that time, because more of its sunlit hemisphere is turned toward the earth. This somewhat compensates for the fact that it sets a little earlier. About April 24 you might start to look for it.

88-Day Year

If you see a bright star-like object near the horizon, you have succeeded in your quest. A pair of binoculars, swept back and forth just above the western horizon, will help you find it. But don't try this until the sun has actually set. If the sun accidentally came into the field your eyes might be seriously damaged.

Mercury is about 3,000 miles in diameter, compared with 7,900 for Earth. Its year—the period in which it goes around the sun—is 88 days. As it makes this circuit it changes in phase, like the moon.

On April 8 it will be behind the sun. If, a few days later, you can see it through a telescope, it will appear as a practically complete circle—like the moon when almost full. Then it comes nearer, and appears larger. Some of the bright half turns from our view. It has a gibbous phase—like the moon between first quarter and full. This is how it will look at the end of April, through a telescope. Binoculars are not powerful enough to show the changes in phase.

At the beginning of May it will appear as a semicircle, as the moon does at first quarter. After that it will be a crescent, narrowing until it passes between Earth and sun on May 29. After that it will appear to the west of the sun, visible before sunrise as a morning star. It will go from a crescent to a half-Mercury phase about June 23, the date of greatest western elongation. Then the gibbous phase again, and full-Mercury as it gets nearer to its passage behind the sun once more on July 22.

April Timetable (PST)

April 1—1 p.m.: Moon passes south of Jupiter.

April 2—10:46 a.m.: Full moon.

April 6—4 p.m.—Moon nearest, distance 228,800 miles. 8 p.m.: Moon passes south of Mars.

April 8—7 p.m.: Venus nearest, distance 26.3 million miles. 3 p.m.: Mercury on far side of sun.

April 9—5:59 a.m.: Moon in last quarter.

April 16—10:16 a.m.: New moon.

April 18—Noon: Saturn on far side of sun.

April 22—6 a.m.: Moon farthest, distance 251,500 miles.

April 24—11:45 a.m.: Moon in first quarter.

(EDT)

April 28—6 p.m.: Moon passes south of Jupiter.

Man Suffers Broken Leg, Cuts

A 34-year-old man is in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today after being struck by a car Friday.

Raymond Leek, 2866 Colquitz, received a broken leg and head cuts when hit as he ran across Blanshard about 8:30 p.m., city police said. Driver of the car was Dorothy Head of Shawnigan Lake.

Funeral Rites Held For Hotel Man

Funeral services were held today for Victoria hotelman Mervin Woolliams who died Friday at 54.

Proprietor of the Oak Bay Beach Hotel since 1965, Mr. Woolliams formerly operated the Goldstream Inn and the Fishermen's Lodge at Oyster River.

Born in Moose Jaw, Sask., in 1915, he was educated at schools in his home town before attending the University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon.

At the outbreak of the Second World War he enlisted in the army, serving with the 3rd Field Artillery in Europe. He retired in 1945 with the rank of major.

For a five-year period after the war he ranched near Calgary before taking over the hotel at Oyster River in 1950.

He is survived by his wife Helen, a daughter, Mrs. H. (Donna) Jefferson of Victoria; a sister, Mary Woolliams of Victoria, and a brother, William of Calgary.

Archdeacon Hywel Jones conducted the services at Sands Mortuary.

Centenarian Dies at Weekend

Sidney centenarian Mrs. Elizabeth Alberta Morrison died Saturday at Meflower Rest Home, Sidney.

Born in Ancaster, Ont., Mrs. Morrison had lived at Brentwood Bay for the past eight years, and in Greenshields, Alta., for 55 years.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. W. R. G. (Lexie) Morrison, Brentwood Bay.

Funeral services will be held in Sands' Chapel, Sidney, Tuesday at 1 p.m. Rev. John M. Wood will officiate. Cremation will follow.

Kite Day Draws Big Crowd

If it hadn't been for the kites you would have called it a happening.

It was a happening anyway: there were long-hairs and short-hairs, kids and teeny-boppers, adults and babes-in-arms.

Despite overcast skies, the campus of the University of Victoria was a gay place Saturday afternoon when over 2,000 people jammed its lawns for the first annual Kite Festival.

They listened as the As Sherif belted out its cacophony of electric noise and they gazed up at the phenomenon of pieces of plastic, wood and paper hovering in mid-air on the end of a string.

There were 140 registered kites, probably 200 altogether. The ground was littered with a wreckage of kites that had crash-landed or never made it into the air; others flew gracefully on as much as a quarter-mile of string, some so far away they were partly obscured by the clouds.

There were even a few weather balloons.

AFTERNOON TEA

Women dressed in their Sunday-best stepped gingerly through the festive crowd as they made their way to an afternoon tea in the lounge of the student union building.

There were prizes for the kite flyers: four-year-old Peter Byrnes, 3973 Gordon Head, was the youngest; 38-year-old F. K. Mitchum, 720 Sea Terrace was the oldest; James Manning, 1738 Newton, won the prize for the kite with the longest tail (69 feet); and the Uvic Ski Club had the kite with the largest dimension (16 feet).

Bruce Davies' dragon-fly kite with flapping wings won the prize for the most unique design. There were also awards for humor, originality and color.

GODS OF DARKNESS

Wright reminded spectators of the serious purpose for which the Kite Festival was held:

"We hope that the kites have propitiated the gods of darkness and doom."

He was referring to an alleged occulist prediction that April 1969 would see the west coast of North America shaken by violent earth tremors, sinking Vancouver Island.

Student Dave Allan organized the Kite Festival with the help of the Ski Club.

EARTHQUAKE INSURANCE was taken out at University of Victoria Saturday when hundreds of kite flyers like Dallas Collis, 3114 Woodburn, turned out to fly kites of all shapes and sizes in first annual Kite Festival. Aeronautics display was designed to appease gods of darkness and doom in the face of an occultist prediction that Vancouver Island would sink during April earth tremors. (Robin Clarke Photo)

Hiring of American Scored

A Cowichan High School teacher says the recent appointment of an American as president of Nanaimo's Malaspina College is "sheer idiocy."

Charles E. S. Curmi of Mill Bay charged in a statement prepared for the Times that Dr. Carleton M. Opgaard is not interested in teaching Canadian history.

Curmi anticipates the new regional college which opens in temporary buildings in September will be flooded with teachers from U.S. universities.

And Curmi says teachers chosen from Kalamazoo or Montana will have the "right attitude" on Vietnam, anti-ballistic missiles, the War of 1812, continental water resources, Canadian sovereignty in the Arctic.

(His suggestion is that these attitudes will be U.S. attitudes, not Canadian.)

Curmi recalled a recent article in the Times Weekend section which stated that U.S. professors are taking over Canadian universities.

It pointed out that 68 per cent of the teaching staff at Simon Fraser University is non-Canadian.

Curmi said that last week he met the new university president at Nanaimo and asked him whether he was hiring Canadians.

"There was a pause after which he assured me that the first person he had hired was in fact a Canadian . . .

"Feigning vast relief, I then asked him for a job. I had a BA with majors in history and French literature and was thoroughly bilingual and was presently writing a thesis for an MA degree in history at University of B.C."

'Place Just Opened And You're Already Flooding It'

Told that there was one opening in history, Curmi said he'd take it. He was teaching Canadian history now, he told Opgaard, who "visibly winced."

"He hurriedly assured me that it would be world history that would be taught at Malaspina College this year."

Curmi quoted the college president as stating he had found little demand for history throughout B.C. regional colleges and universities—only 25 per cent of UBC students had opted for these courses. Curmi was told he could fill out an application.

He wrote that as he left he saw a man waiting who earlier had been outside in a Montana car.

DIRECT FLAUNT

"I leaned over and . . . whispered, 'The place just opened and you're already flooding it'."

Curmi went on, "Apart from the direct flaunt to a host of Canadian scholars with Ph.Ds in solid academic fields, of which UBC has its fair share, the appointment of an American to head an educational institution in British Columbia is sheer idiocy.

"Not only was this newly arrived American not interested in our history, which was understandable, but by his very attitude he was perpetuating the gross neglect to Canadian history which is all too often initiated at the elementary and carried through to secondary levels of education.

"Canada is not important. World history, that's the stuff. After all, in a universe shared by the U.S. and the U.S.S.R., what is Canada?"

Curmi ended with, "Canadians aren't really Canadians at heart.

"They're Americans, and they'll love it."

Victoria Doctor Vice-President Of Red Cross

Officers elected for 1969 at the 50th annual council meeting of the B.C.-Yukon Division of the Red Cross Society in Vancouver Sunday were: President J. D. Wilson vice-presidents Dr. Olga Jardine, Victoria; T. Graham Darling, Dr. J. W. Thomas, Vancouver.

Also elected to the divisional executive committee were honorary counsel O. J. Hall, honorary secretary, Mrs. David Murphy, and honorary treasurer J. V. Wright.

Regional vice-presidents representing divisional branches include John Dunham, Nanaimo, and T. Ledley McMaster, Victoria.

No Replacement For McGugan; Retires Today

Col. Donald McGugan officially retires today on B.C.'s one-man Liquor Control Board and the government still has no replacement ready.

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson earlier revealed that more than 100 applicants from various parts of the continent are on his desk but the duties of the session have kept him too busy to go through them.

Asked if the cabinet will be in a positon to pick McGugan's successor before he goes, Peterson told the Times "I don't have the answer to that."

Air Canada Trades Voting on Strike Action This Week

MONTREAL (CP) — About 6,200 Air Canada shop mechanics and tradesmen across Canada and overseas will take a strike vote this week on contract demands for a 20-per-cent wage increase, it was announced today.

Michael Pitchford, negotiator for the International Association of Machinists, said results of the vote to be taken at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver will be announced Wednesday.

However, no immediate strike action is planned. If the men vote in favor of striking, this will be used by the union as a bargaining lever when contract negotiations reconvene later this week.

Negotiations have been under way since November. The last contract ended Dec. 31.

The union's wage demands would boost the weighted average hourly rate to $4.36 from $3.63 in a one year contract.

Other demands include a change in guidelines for working overtime. The union wants a clause stating that men can only be forced to work overtime against their wishes if a state of emergency exists.

Concorde Tested

TOULOUSE (Reuters) — The Anglo-French supersonic Concorde airliner carried out two separate test flights Sunday, staying airborne for a total of two hours 40 minutes. In an afternoon flight, test pilot Andre Turcat cut off and reignited the prototype's engines and used the aircraft's reverse jet system on landing.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trading was light in all commodities near the close on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Prices drifted fractionally to lower levels.

Oilseeds saw a small amount of commission house buying on thin offers. Oats was inactive. barley and rye saw domestic shipper buying.

The light trading pattern was partly attributed to the fact that the Chicago market is closed in observance of the Eisenhower funeral.

Japan bought 30,000 bushels of flax and 20,000 bushels of rapeseed during the weekend.

Friday's volume: flax 1,265,000 bushels; rapeseed 369,000; rye 328,000.

Drywall Men Vote Favoring Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Drywall finishers in B.C., represented by the Painters Union, have voted 85 per cent in favor of strike action to back demands for higher pay.

The men, who voted Saturday, rejected a final management offer which amounts to an increase of 61 cents an hour including fringe benefits.

About 250 drywall finishers throughout B.C. are involved in the dispute.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three electrical contracting firms broke with the Electrical Contractors' Association and signed an agreement on the weekend with Local 213 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

About 200 linemen will receive pay increases totalling $1.07 an hour by October, on the present base rate of $4.45. Eight major firms are still struck by the union.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Industrials Strong

Vancouver was the liveliest place for Canadian stock trading today, although gains were posted in both Toronto and Montreal.

New York and American exchanges were closed because of funeral services for Gen. Eisenhower.

Industrials showed stronger than mines at Vancouver, while at Toronto and Montreal volumes to mid-afternoon were down from Friday.

VANCOUVER — Industrials showed strongly in trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange as a total of 2 million shares were traded to noon.

In the oils, Royal Canadian Ventures dropped .30 to $5.10 while Stampede at $15.50 was up .37.

Mines generally showed gains ranging from .05 to .25 but Valley Copper dropped .50 to $19 and Omega was down .20 to $7.40.

AT TORONTO final volume was 3,125,000 shares compared with 3,930,000 Friday.

Nabors Drilling was up 3 to 18½, Neonex 2⅛ to 15, Dome Pete 2 to 90, Weldwood 1¾ to 27¼, Eddy Match 1½ to 35, Denison 1 to 59 and Great Plains ⅞ to 33.

Supertest ordinary was down 1¼ to 44, Dynasty ⅞ to 15, Asamera 1 to 33½ and Western Decalta 20 cents to $5.70.

MONTREAL — Trading was light and prices slightly higher during early afternoon trading at Montreal.

Railmen Relent

VANCOUVER (CP)—A threatened strike against the Pacific Great Eastern Railway was averted Sunday when the company and the United Transportation Union reached agreement on a new contract for conductors, trainmen and yardmen.

In a joint statement, the PGE and union negotiating teams recommended acceptance of a 6.5 per cent raise each year in a two-year contract. It must be ratified by union membership and the company.

About 237 trainmen, conductors and yardmen are affected, out of a total PGE work force of 1,800.

In the contract that expired last Dec. 31, conductors made from $10,000 to $13,000 a year, trainmen from $8,000 to $9,000 and yardmen about $7,200.

The union served strike notice on the provincial government-owned railway March 14, but did not set a walkout deadline.

North U.S. Wants More Canadian Oil

CALGARY (CP) — The Independent Petroleum Association of Canada says refiners in the northern U.S. have an immediate desire to purchase an additional 150,000 to 200,000 barrels a day of Canadian oil.

The estimate is contained in a position paper sent to Prime Minister Trudeau on the eve of his departure last week for Washington, where he discussed oil problems with President Nixon. The paper was made public today.

The IPAC paper says the large shut-in oil-producing capacity in Canada is frustrated from reaching its natural market place in northern U.S., where certain refiners have a strong preference for Canadian oil by reason of price and quality.

"Exports to this market are restrained by the arrangements now in existence between the two governments."

The U.S.-Canada oil agreement limits shipments to the northern U.S. to 306,000 barrels a day although Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board figures indicate that average shipments in the March-April period will be 345,000 barrels a day.

The IPAC urges establishments of a continental oil policy "under which there would be free access to markets subject only to economic limitations."

As a natural consequence to such a policy, the association says, it is essential that a portion of the Montreal crude oil market be supplied from Canadian sources.

"The reason for this is that Canada would be obliged, under a continental policy, to adopt measures with respect to limiting foreign exports, similar to those existing under the U.S. oil import program."

Pilot Says SST a Step Backwards

CALGARY (CP) — A senior Air Canada pilot says airline company executives are praying that supersonic prototypes will fail so they can delay taking delivery of the machines.

Capt. Frank Smith said supersonic aircraft would be a backward step because they would cause big overheads and could be run only on marginal operations for a number of years.

He told a luncheon meeting of the Calgary Gyro Club jumbo jets, air buses and supersonic transports were extremely costly and airlines had been forced to order them to stay in business.

The companies were reluctant to buy the planes and the executives were praying the SST prototypes would fail, Capt. Smith said.

Air Canada has ordered four of the Anglo-French supersonic Concordes, and six Boeing 2-707 SSTS being developed in the U.S. at a cost of $40 million each.

Coronation Credit

Coronation Credit Corp. Ltd. of Vancouver has bought for shares and cash one of western Canada's largest trucking firms, Rempel-Trail Ltd. of Edmonton.

Coronation president Peter Paul Saunders and John Rempel, owner-president of the trucking firm, said the purchase follows four months of negotiation.

Last December, Coronation purchased Public Freightways of Vancouver, and earlier this week moved to expand its base in the commodities handling field with an offer to acquire all shares of B.C. Ice and Cold Storage Ltd.

Bank of W. Can.

The return to shareholders of another $1 a share was authorized in Court of Queen's Bench Thursday in another step in winding up the affairs of the Bank of Western Canada, which never opened. This means the distribution of $865,000.

Shareholders already have received $13 on shares which sold originally for $15. Another 50 cents a share is expected later.

Petroleum Sale

Oil and natural gas exploration rights in the Peace River district Thursday produced $1.9 million for the provincial treasury.

Highest price paid was $100.43 per acre for two lease parcels located 80 miles northwest of Fort St. John obtained by Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas Co. Ltd.

It was the second rights sale this year. The first, in January, realized $5.1 million. Next sale will be held in August.

Greyhound Turbine

Greyhound Corp. will test a turbine-powered bus this autumn which is expected to travel one million miles before overhaul, President Gerald H. Trautman said.

The bus wil provide a more comfortable ride and double engine life, Trautman told shareholders in his annual report.

Installation will be at Greyhound's factory in Winnipeg.

In 1968 Greyhound showed net income after taxes of $1.35 a share, down from $1.44 a share.

Tax Tips

By P. J. KELLY
Victoria Taxation Office

If your question is not answered here or in the department's tax guide, telephone 382-2173 or write National Revenue, Taxation, Victoria.

Q.—Were refunds later than usual last year?

A.—Yes they were, particularly at the outset. We experienced some difficulty in getting our new computer in operation and by the time it was hitting its full stride there was a backlog of returns waiting to be completed. By May, however, the Taxation Data Centre had caught up and passed the 1967 rate of processing. This year the computer is right on schedule and we expect to be in a much better position to get refunds out quickly. There will always be late refunds though — more often than not caused by taxpayers forgetting to provide complete and accurate information on their returns.

Q.—My brother and I are single, both working, and living at home with our parents. Our parents are dependent on us for support and we share equally in maintaining the home. We would like to know if we can each claim the equivalent exemption of $1,000 when completing our income tax return.

A.—Assuming that both your parents otherwise qualify as dependents, either you or your brother is entitled to claim the $1,000 equivalent exemption for either of your parents, the usual exemption may be claimed for the other parent as you may agree between you but only one $1,000 equivalent exemption can be allowed for any one household.

* * *

Q.—I propose to set up a saving account in the names of my 10 and 11-year-old daughters? Will the interest earned on these accounts be taxable?

A.—The interest earned on this account will be taxable in your hands each year until your daughters are 19 years old.

Japanese Create Enriched Uranium For First Time

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japanese scientists said today they have produced enriched uranium—a material used in nuclear bombs—for the first time in Japan.

Thirteen scientists working for the Institute of Physical and Chemical Research said the enriched uranium had a concentration of 0.742 per cent and much expense and development are needed to make it useful.

A spokesman for the official Atomic Energy Bureau explained that two or three per cent concentration would be enough for nuclear fuel used in power generation, while 90 per cent concentration is needed for making nuclear bombs.

Japan's powerful Liberal Democratic party, which has governed almost continually since the Second World War, forbids the possession, development or introduction of nuclear weapons by Japan.

But there is controversy among legal experts about whether the post-war "peace constitution" which prevents Japan from having arms that could be used for aggression also forbids nuclear weapons if they are for defensive purposes.

Government officials denied there is any move to change the law to enable Japan to become a nuclear power. They point out that public opinion polls regularly show that most Japanese are against nuclear weapons.

Dr. Tsunao Watanabe, a member of the research team which produced the enriched uranium, said today that the experiment is still at an elementary stage.

He said the researchers hope to have necessary data ready by 1972 when the Atomic Energy Commission is expected to thrash out a new policy for nuclear energy.

Japan already has a nuclear energy power station in commercial use and five others are under construction.

Dark Hawk Indians Settle Copper War

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bethlehem Copper Corp. Ltd. Sunday surrendered to a small Indian mining company in a battle over mineral rights on a square mile Indian reserve.

Bethlehem and Dark Hawk Mines Ltd. signed an agreement under which Bethlehem will drop its court action in the squabble and assign all its rights on the reserve, if any, to Dark Hawk.

At issue since earlier in March were rights on reserve No. 13, held by the 200-member Cook's Ferry Indian Band in an area of major copper ore deposits in the Highland Valley 110 miles northeast of Vancouver.

Under the agreement, Dark Hawk has first crack at developing mineral claims on the reserve and Bethlehem has the first right of refusal if the Indian-controlled company does not develop them.

Bethlehem has first right of refusal on surface rights and has agreed to negotiate with the Cook's Ferry Band for abandonment of Bethlehem applications for rights on three other reserves.

HAD SOUGHT WRIT

In the court action, which was due to continue today, Bethlehem sought a writ forcing the provincial government to register its claims on reserve 13. Bethlehem agreed Sunday to dismissal.

The reserve is surrounded by minerals claims — Bethlehem's abut it on three sides. A stone's throw away are Bethlehem test holes in the area of low-grade copper ore.

Dark Hawk Mines, seeking government approval to become a public company, agreed Sunday that if it wishes to set up joint development, Bethlehem gets first chance of participation.

The agreement was signed by Patrick M. Reynolds, president of Bethlehem Copper, and Donald Ursaki and William J. Worrall, directors of the Indian-controlled company.

Dark Hawk's president is Chief Forrest Walkem of Spence's Bridge, B.C., who led the dispute with Bethlehem and also declared Cominco Ltd. unwelcome after he found a survey crew on the reserve.

'69 Payments Deficit To Hit 'Billions'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans expects the U.S. to run a multibillion-dollar balance of payments deficit this year.

Stans declined Sunday in an interview to predict exactly what the 1969 deficit would be but he said he thought it "would be in the billions of dollars."

The commerce secretary also said it would be impossible for a while to remove controls in overseas lending and spending by U.S. firms.

But he said the controls, imposed by the Johnson administration to reduce the outflow of gold and improve the balance of payments situation, might be phased out gradually.

Stans said the Nixon administration "would very much like to see those controls dismantled right now."

But, he explained, the prospect of new balance of payments difficulties in the year ahead after 1968's surplus — the first in 12 years — made it necessary to keep the controls on for the time being.

McLEOD STUDIES FUTURE

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Jackie McLeod, coach of Canada's national hockey team, will make up his mind back in Canada whether to quit the team.

His club closed out the world hockey championship Sunday night, bowing 4-2 to Russia in the game which decided the gold medal for the Russians.

"I'll just make up my mind after I have had a chance to think about it."

This was the last year for Canada's national team under the present operation. Starting next year, a group called Hockey Canada and made up of top sports figures backed by the federal government, will take over.

Hockey Canada spokesmen have said "there always will be a job" in the organization for McLeod and assistant coah Red Bownass.

"It would all depend on what the job is," McLeod said.

McLeod said he was not downcast by Canada's fourth-place finish in the six-team tournament.

"We came here looking for fourth place and we made it. I thought that, with a couple of breaks, we could have had two or three more victories and possibly place third.

"But we came with a young team — our average age is about 21— and the pressure on these kids was terrific. I'm proud of every one of them."

Asked whether it would be difficult to keep a nucleus of this young team together for another year, McLeod said: "It's getting tougher all the time. The pro clubs pay big money and there is a terrible temptation to reach for it."

Island Open medallist Don Billsborough

Billsborough Medallist; Defending Champ Misses

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Everything came up milk-and-honey for Don Billsborough.

Nothing worked for Vaughan Trapp.

And their mixed fortunes created the greatest stir in Sunday's qualifying round for the annual Times Vancouver Island Open match-play golf championship.

Billsborough, the tall, young assistant professional in the Uplands shop, parlayed a strong putting performance with a "quick lesson" to capture medal honors with a par-matching 73 at Gorge Vale.

Trapp, winner of The Daily Times Trophy in the past two years, failed to qualify after carding a seven-over-par 80. Trapp was one of 12 players to score 80 but only six were drawn into the field of 32 who embark into match play at Victoria Club next Sunday.

Trapp wasn't one of the six.

The luck of the draw smiled, instead, on Warren Cameron, Cec Ferguson, Dick Silverberg, Dick Flanagan, Hal Jacobsen and Claude Pettit.

Net scores of 77 or better were required to qualify for the 32 spots in the handicap division of the scramble for the Hugh Francis Trophy. Five of the six players who scored net 77s squeezed in. The one who didn't—again through a draw—was Cowichan's Tom Maftechuk.

Vaughan Had Trouble 'Taking Off'

Trapp had requested an early starting time in order to catch a noon flight to Montreal. The trip to attend a professionals' business school was cancelled Saturday night, and that might have been an omen of things to come.

Trapp started out by going over par on the first three holes. He was five over after nine holes, with a 41, and came in with a two-over 39.

When the luck of the draw couldn't save Trapp's day, he was on the outside looking in today.

The sun shone brighter on Billsborough.

He matched par on a tough-playing Gorge course despite going two over par on a pair of holes. But Don also came up with four birdies and a string of 12 pars for his 73. Billsborough took his double bogeys on the eighth and 16th holes. He scored birdies on 3, 7, 9 and 10.

He was two under par when he stepped to the 16th tee. His tee shot on the par-three hole buried deep in a trap and cost Billsborough the chance of emerging as the day's only par-breaker.

Don Found Greens to His Liking

Still, the likeable young assistant pro was more than content with his performace. Especially his putting. The medallist needed only 31 putts while others in the starting field generally found the greens tough and tricky.

Billsborough also paid tribute to Gorge Vale pro Earl Davies for the "quick lesson" that helped his game.

"Earl helped me straighten out my back-swing at the driving range the other night," said Billsborough. A loop in his swing created a slicing tencency until the "quick lesson."

Billsborough finished two strokes ahead of Norm Boden, the 1961 Island champion. The Cowichan professional carded a 75, one stroke ahead of Laurie Carroll, Bob Hunt, Al Brown, Bill McColl, George Murphy and Lex Sutcliffe.

Boden, Carroll and McColl remain as the only former champions in the qualifying field of 32.

Gorge Vale captain Ab Robertson captured low net honors Sunday with his fine 77-8—69. Runner-up was clubmate George Murphy, 76-6—70.

Darkhorse Maintains Distributing Pattern

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Bunky Henry, 25, of Valdosta, Ga., is the latest darkhorse winner on the $6,000,000 pro golf tour.

Despite a three-over-par eight on one hole, the boyish-looking southerner overtook Bob Murphy for the $40,000 first prize in the $200,000 National Airlines Open.

His best paycheque previously this year was $322.50 at Pensacola. He had missed the cut in two tournaments and in six others had finished between 41st and 79th.

In 13 tournaments so far this year, there have been 13 different winners. Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper each won one, but the other top cheque cashers were largely outsiders.

Top Canadian was Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, who earned $480 with a final-round 73 and a 289 total. Al Balding of Toronto won $363 with a final-round 74 and a 290 total.

Henry caught Murphy with five birdies on the first six holes but almost blew it when he dumped two balls in the water on the par-five 13th for an eight.

Henry shot a final 70 for 278. Murphy skiied to a 76 for 279,

278—Henry ($40,000).
279 — Murphy, Dan Sikes, Stockton, Crampton ($13,650).
280—Baird ($7,200).
281—Douglass ($6,400).
282 — Hebert, Beman, Dill, Wilcox ($5,433).
283—January, Jacklin, Palmer, R. H. Sikes, Snead, Whitt, Boros ($3,685).
284—Littler, Henning, Devlin, Sifford ($2,400).
289—Homenuik ($480).
290—Balding ($36).

Lions Invite Island Players To Grid Camp

Seven players from the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League have been invited to attend an annual development camp sponsored by B.C. Lions of the Canadian Football League.

Four of them — Steve Parker, Dick Eldridge, Les Hudson and Bob Nelson — played last season with the B.C.-champion Chew Excavating Hornets.

Also invited to the camp are Bob Gray (James Bay Mustangs), Terry Karpiuk (Oak Bay Farmers) and Gordie Plecas (Nanaimo Rams).

Starting Wednesday at Vancouver, the camp will be directed by Jim Champion and Jackie Parker.

Mink Stole on Top

TORONTO (CP) — A four-year-old filly, Mink Stole, won the $7,500 Invitational Handicap Saturday with a nose-victory over James Bay at Greenwood. Mink Stole, owned by Gene, Marc and Don Cavotti of Toronto, posted a time of :53 2-5. The odds-on favorite, Frank's Finest, was third in the five-horse field.

Rugby Finalists

LONDON (CP) — Castleford beat Wakefield Trinity 16-10 in a Rugby League Challenge Cup semi-final Saturday and will meet Salford for the Cup on May 17.

Swedes Slam the Door On Czech Title Hopes

Russians Retain Crown As Puck Hosts Help Out

STOCKHOLM (CP) — If Russia has a hockey friend, it must be Sweden, the country which made possible the last two Soviet championships.

To their sorrow, the Czechs have learned that beating the Russians won't win them gold medals as long as the Swedes are around to bar the door.

Anatoly Tarasov, co-coach of the victorious Soviet team, looked on the Swedes with particular warmness after it was all over Sunday night, and thanked them for "what they have done."

The Czechs, whose two victories over the Russians here had fired up big demonstrations in Prague, needed a tie against Sweden Sunday to clinch the world hockey championship.

But Czechoslovakia failed to rise to its best form after star forward Jaroslav Jirik was injured and Sweden got home 1-0 on a first-period goal by Roger Olsson.

The Russians followed with a 4-2 victory over Canada Sunday night, and the Soviets were world champions for the seventh sraight time.

Russia held on to its title, however, only by the skin of its teeth, winning on higher over-all goal spread. Sweden won the second-place silver medal and Czechoslovakia the third-place bronze.

The six-country tournament was split down the middle at the finish. Russia, Sweden and Czechoslovakia were tied at the top in points with 16 apiece after eight wins and two losses.

Canada headed the bottom three, clinching fourth place with a 6-1 victory over Finland Saturday. It was Canada's best scoring performance of the tournament.

U.S. Dropped Into 'B' Bracket

The fifth-place Finns roared back Sunday and crushed the United States 7-3. It was the 10th loss for the last-place Americans and relegated them to the B tournament for the first time in 45 years of organized world hockey competition.

The three-way tie was the only way the Russians could retain the title after losing twice to the Czechs, and they had goals to spare when it occurred. In determining goal spread, goals allowed are subtracted from goals scored.

Russia finished with a goals record of 59-23, a spread of 36. Sweden's was 45-19, a spread of 26, and Czechoslovakia's 40-20, a spread of 20.

At the Winter Games in Grenoble, France, last year, Czechoslovakia upset Russia 5-4, ended Russia's 38-game unbeaten string, and seemed about to win its first Olympic gold.

The Czechs needed a win over Sweden on the last day. The best the Czechs could do was tie 2-2 and Russia got the gold by a single point, and the Czechs the silver. Canada, the bronze.

While the Russians thanked Sweden for its efforts, the Swedes were pulling for Canada to gain at least a tie against Russia Sunday night.

A tie would have given Sweden the gold medal. With one less point, Russia would have been out of title contention. In the event of two-way ties, the winner of both games between the tied clubs is placed ahead. That would have been Sweden.

Bill Heindl scored on a pass from Roger Bourbonnais to put Canada ahead early in the first period.

Igor Romishevsky beat goalie Wayne Stephenson from 30 feet late in the period, tying the game. Boris Mikhailov drilled another cleanly through Stephenson early in the second period and it was 2-1 Russia.

Two Quick Goals Finished Nats

The game could have gone either way as the young Canadian team displayed its best form of the tournament. Then two goals within 75 seconds in the third period swung it to Russia 4-1. Alexander Maltsev's shot slid off Stephenson's stick into the net and Mikhailov followed with his second goal.

Ab DeMarco blasted Canada's second goal from the blue line with a little more than 10 minutes left. Terry Caffery got an assist.

Heindl and Caffery led the team with four goals each in the tournament, but Caffery had the most points—eight.

Canada outshot Russia 16-10 in the first period but for the game the Soviet team was ahead 38-32.

Canadian coach Jackie McLeod said it was a "toss-up" between Ken Dryden and Stephenson in goal against Russia and he went with Stephenson because he said Stephenson "had more international experience and might be calmer."

SEEK A RULING

The tournament is scheduled next year in Canada for the first time, and Canadian hockey officials have asked the International Ice Hockey Federation for a ruling that would allow six professionals to play with each team in the tournament. The IIHF congress in Switzerland will give its final decision in July.

The top five clubs here and East Germany, the B group winner this year, will be the representatives in the 1970 A pool in Montreal and Winnipeg. It will be a double round-robin also, with the first half in Montreal.

A poll of 150 representatives picked Vladimir Dzurila of Czechoslovakia as the all-star goalie, but Soviet co-coach Tarasov insisted Sweden's Leif (Honken) Holmqvist was the tournament's best.

Holmqvist appeared in eight games and allowed 17 goals. He was the only goaltender in the tournament with two shutouts, both against the Czechs.

HANDLE 31 SHOTS

His work Sunday was superb. With more than 10,000 people in the stadium, he turned back the Czechs with a total of 31 shots, the same as Dzurila.

The Czechs had two goals disallowed in the second period because of players in the crease, and in the last 24 seconds, after Dzurila was pulled, Vaclav Nedomansky barely missed the tying goal.

Holmqvist had only 20 saves against the U.S. Saturday while Mike Curran came up with 33.

Curran was blasted again Sunday by Finland. But he made 29 saves while Ylonen turned in 23.

The U.S. took 10 of 11 penalties including a misconduct by Bob Paradise and ended the tournament as the most penalized country with a total of 130 minutes.

DESPITE WIN . . . . . . IN FINAL GAME

Motor Midgets Nipped

Morrison Motors chalked up a 4-3 victory at Powell River Sunday but the Victoria club came out the loser in the Vancouver Island midget hockey final.

Powell River took the two-game, total-goal series by a 6-5 count on the strength of a 3-1 triumph in the opening game at Victoria.

Morrisons had evened the series when they took a 3-1 lead at the end of two periods in Sunday's game but faltered in the closing stages.

Kim Bowles, Ron Poole, Lawrie Huck and Peter Dunderdale scored for Victoria in the final game while Mike McKenzie, Jack Richardson and Pierre Gergeron counted for Powell River.

Victoria Cosmopolitans opened a two-game series for the city championship in the division for pee-wee pup reps Sunday by blasting Esquimalt 5-1 as Geordie Robertson set the scoring pace with two goals.

Second game of the total-goal final is slated for Memorial Arena at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Totems' Goalie On Serious List

By The Canadian Press

The Western Hockey League wrapped up its season over an injury-marred weekend with San Diego Gulls collecting the victory they needed to overtake Seattle Totems for third place.

Seattle lost at least two men Saturday. One, goalie Jim Armstrong, suffered a spinal injury against Denver Spurs. He was in serious condition Sunday but had regained feeling in his arms and hands.

Seattle meets second - place Vancouver Canucks in the first game of best-of-seven semi-finals in Vancouver Tuesday. Next day, Gulls are in Portland to open their series against first-place Buckaroos.

Gulls put down Portland 5-0 in San Diego Sunday to take third place. They needed to win after Seattle moved a point ahead by edging Canucks 3-2 in a come-from-behind decision in Vancouver Sunday.

CHANCES TOUGH

Totems' chances were tough after their 4-2 loss in Seattle Saturday to cellar - dwelling Spurs, in which Armstrong was hurt. Fifth-place Phoenix Roadrunners dropped Portland 5-4 at home Saturday.

The 26-year-old Armstrong hit his neck on a goalpost when hit by Denver's Brian Miller, who couldn't check his momentum as he scored Spurs' third goal and bowled Armstrong over.

Armstrong reported loss of sensation in his hands and arms but regained feeling and movement in hospital. A hospital spokesman said the full extent of his injury could not be determined until after more tests.

Seattle's Gary Kilpatrick suffered a shoulder separation and is probably out for the playoffs. Marc Boileau suffered a possible shoulder separation and is a doubtful starter.

THIRD SHUTOUT

In San Diego Sunday, Bob Champoux made 36 saves for Gulls to earn his third shutout of the year and Fred Hilts recorded his third three-goal performance of the 74-game season.

In Vancouver, Totems gave it all they had Sunday. They overcame a 2-0 deficit and, for 3½ minutes, held off Vancouver while two Seattle men were serving minor penalties.

Seattle coach Bill MacFarland ended his season in the doghouse: he was ejected from the game for misconduct after the penalties were called on Ray Larose and Chuck Holmes.

Seattle goalie Don Head was the power for Seattle, turning aside 32 shots. He allowed goals to Bryan Hextall and Andy Bathgate. Charlie Hodge stopped 27 shots for Canucks.

Columbus on Top; O'Keefes Fall Back

VANCOUVER—Columbus climbed into first place and Victoria O'Keefes, the defending league champions, all but slipped out of playoff contention during weekend battles in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

Columbus charged past the University of B.C. Thunderbirds into the top berth Sunday at Callister Park as they blanked the Birds 3-0 before 2,227 fans, largest league crowd in five seasons.

After a scoreless first half, Peter Simpson, Vanni Lenarduzzi and Allan Bristow counted for Columbus, which has three games in hand over the students.

With only three games remaining on their schedule, O'Keefes skidded three points behind the fourth-place New Westminster Labatts Saturday as they dropped a 3-1 decision to North Shore Luckies at Callister Park.

PERRI SCORES FOUR

Labs, with five games to play, consolidated their position in another Saturday match by bopping Burnaby Villa 6-1 as Jack Perri fired four goals to take over the league scoring lead (15-13) from Victoria's Ike MacKay.

MacKay was held scoreless as Luckies took a 2-0 lead in the first half on tallies by Rick McGuire and Roy Nosella and split two goals with O'Keefes in the second session.

Pete Stoffers, making his first league appearance since early December, counted for Victoria with 24 minutes remaining but Mike Robinson restored North Shore's two-goal bulge one minute later when he scored on a penalty shot.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Montreal Expos have trimmed three players from their roster, cutting infielders Joe Moock and Jim Williams and pitcher Ernie McAnally.

British Strategy Chills Favorites

TORONTO (CP) — An unseeded British team's simple strategy — hitting the bird straight at their opponents — snuffed out Indonesia's hopes for four titles at the Canadian open badminton championships Sunday.

Robert McCoig, a business machine salesman from Greenock, Scotland, and Tony Jordan, who runs a car repair shop in Liverpool, England, overwhelmed the world's top seed, Rudy Hartona, and his partner Muljadi, in the men's double final. They beat them 15-7, 15-6 before 1,000 fans.

"One of our best wins," said McCoig, who teamed with Jordan to beat Denmark's Erland Kops and Polerik Neilssen for the United States doubles championship in 1965.

"Yes, we hit the bird straight at them," said Jordan, who has been on the international badminton circuit 17 years and says "it's getting harder every year."

The Britons led from the start, their strategy working like a charm against the Indonesians, whose manager-coach, Irsan, had said he expected Indonesia to win four of five events, conceding the fifth—the women's singles—to Sweden's Eva Twedberg.

Hartona shook off a challenge from European champion Sture Johnsson of Sweden to take the singles title 15-11, 15-1.

STUNNED THE SWEDE

Down 5-7 in the first set, Hartona, who won the all-England singles championship a week ago, stunned the Swede with a series of crosscourt smashes, dropshots and faded drives that forced Johnsson into a string of errors. It was match point before Johnsson scored a point in the second set. That was all he got.

In the women's singles, Mrs. Twedberg crushed Retno Koestijan of Indonesia 11-1, 11-2.

Miss Koestijan had no answer to the efficient Swede's driving precision. But she made up for it in the women's doubles, teaming with Minarni to beat the only Canadian finalists, Barbara Hood and Marjorie Shedd of Toronto, 15-3, 15-6.

However, she lost a second time when Darmadi and Minarni, both of Indonesia, won the mixed doubles 15-5, 17-15 against herself and Ng Boon Bee, Malaysia's only finalist.

First United Girls Take Midget Titles

NANAIMO — Victoria First United trounced Duncan 51-16 Saturday in the final of a four-team, single-loss-elimination tournament to win the Vancouver Island and British Columbia midget girls' basketball championships.

First United had earlier swamped Cumberland 47-3 to enter the final.

Margaret Mainwaring, all-star team selection and named as the tournament's most valuable player, fired 18 points to pace the title victory and brought her total to 30 for the two games.

Shirley Marshall, who scored 19 points against Cumberland, added 13 against Duncan.

Miss Marshall and Jill Smith of Victoria were also named all-stars, together with Duncan's Cathy Stavrakov and Pauline Elliott of Nanaimo.

Nanaimo downed Cumberland 43-12 in the consolation final.

In the midget boys' tournament, which was run concurrently, Penticton downed Victoria Metropolitans 27-23 to win the provincial crown.

Metro's Phillip Simms and John Hansen were selected to the all-star squad, joining Andy Pearson and Graham Jones of Penticton and Pete Hopkins of Vancouver College.

Zuk's Three Puts Kings in Charge; Grahame Doubtful Starter Tonight

By ERNIE FEDORUK

If you want to classify Wayne Zuk and Gary Paskuski for back-alley brawling, you would have to toss them into a division with Shirley Temple and Ma Perkins.

Certainly, not in Muhammud Ali's class.

In hockey, the mighty mites of Lethbridge Sugar Kings rate as heavyweights. They punched out proof Saturday night as the Alberta champions decisioned Victoria Cougars 4-2 to once again assume command of their best-of-seven Western Canada junior playoff series.

Zuk scored three goals and the peppery Paskuski rapped in the other to push Victoria to a point of no return. Lethbridge leads the set 3-2 with the sixth game scheduled tonight. A seventh, if required, is scheduled for the Arena on Tuesday.

LITTLE FELLAS

The winners go against Regina Pats in the Western semi-finals. If the choice is Lethbridge, then coach Don McLean will have to throw extra thanks at his mighty mites.

At their heaviest, Zuk and the bespectacled Paskuski have trouble pushing indicators past the 150-pound mark on weight scales. Yet they have been the sparklers for the Kings.

Zuk is the speedster. Few can move faster than the playoff addition from Red Deer.

Paskuski is a giant in the hustle department.

LESSON REQUIRED

Skating and hustle are the points the Sugar Kings have been emphasizing. They are also departments in which Cougars could use tutoring.

The Cougars skated and hustled only in spots Saturday and that was what cost the Victoria team a chance to acquire a series advantage. Cougars, playing their best period of the series, bounced away to an early 2-0 lead on goals by Bruce Cowick and Dwayne Pentland. Then they stopped moving, and McLean's mighty mites took over to spark Lethbridge to a crucial comeback decision.

Victoria's failings were obvious to manager Bob Reid and coach Doug Anderson.

"We looked like a tired team," said Reid. "There didn't seem to be any pep. Lethbridge just skated and hustled us into the boards."

GRAHAME INJURED

Anderson's main concern today was the availability of goaltender Ron Grahame. A series standout, Grahame was knocked out of the game Saturday when hit on the forehead by a deflected shot in the second period.

The deep gash near his hairline required 12 stitches, raised a big bump Sunday, and put Ron in the doubtful class today.

A hard shot at 14:50 by Lethbridge's Howie Heggedal dropped Grahame and forced a delay of about 12 minutes before Ed Forslund finally replaced Grahame in goal.

Cougars were protecting a 2-1 lead when Grahame was injured. Lethbridge counted three unanswered goals in the third period, but Forslund, the victim, couldn't be faulted for the loss.

On the contrary, Forslund played exceptionally well as the Lethbridge team out-shot the slow-skating Cats 18-5.

The Lethbridge team paid a high price for its victory. Defenceman Craig Simmons suffered a broken ankle bone when he stopped a shot in the first period. Simmons had been a gallant performer. He played the earlier games with a broken toe, sore ribs and an ailing shoulder.

Simmons will be sidelined for the balance of the playoffs.

Caps Blasted 7-0 By Fort St. John

NORTH VANCOUVER — Forst St. John Golden Hawks skated hard-hitting Nor-Wes Caps into the ice Saturday night to blast the Caps 7-0 and take the provincial junior "B" hockey title in two straight games.

Hawks opened the best-of-three series Friday by beating Nor-Wes 8-5 in overtime.

Island Track Reps Clipped by UBC

University of British Columbia came, conquered and left with an undefeated record after winning the fourth annual track and field meet Sunday against a representative group of Vancouver Island athletes, 161-145, at Centennial Stadium.

But it was not a solid victory. UBC won on the strength of a 117-72 record in men's events, while the Island's distaff set claimed a 73-44 victory.

Anne Langdale, finalist for the Victoria women's "athlete-of-the-year" award, won the 100 and 220-yard sprints as well as anchoring the Island's 440-yard relay team to victory. Miss Langdale's clocking of 24.7 seconds in the 220 was considered excellent for this time of the year.

A JUMPING JACK

Lindsay Jack compiled the same record, with wins in the high jump and long jump events and a third-place finish in the javelin toss.

Miss Jack is from the Victoria Track Club while Miss Langdale moves out for Victoria Mercuries.

VTC's Debbie Reid won the 880 in a fine 2:21.1 minutes, with teammate Connie Halbert close behind at 2:24.5.

Penny May of VTC won the women's shotput, while Victoria "Y" athlete Connie Barker placed first in the discus throw.

Another VTC runner, Dave Weicker, took one of the two Island wins in men's events, finishing first in the mile race in 4:23 minutes. Gerard Dumas won the pole vault.

WITZKE SPARKLES

Ken Witzke sewed up throwing events for UBC, winning the shotput, discus and hammer, while placing third in the javelin.

Another UBC man must rate as the busiest of the day, competing in seven events. Ray Stevenson finished the afternoon with firsts in the javelin, triple jump; a second in the long jump, fourths in the hammer, discus and 120-metre hurldes and a fifth in the pole vault.

A Rousing Windup For Noise-Makers

By Canadian Press

Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins and Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks have created the most excitement in the National Hockey League this season, and the final day of the season was no exception.

Esposito scored his 48th and 49th goals to become the highest-scoring centre in NHL history as Boston trounced Montreal Canadiens 6-3 Sunday. Jean Beliveau of Montreal had held the record with 47 goals in 1955-56.

The Boston centre finished the season with 126 points, including 77 assists, both new highs. The record for most points in a season had been 97 by Hull and team-mate Stan Mikita, and Mikita had held the record for most assists with 62 in 1966-67.

Hull, meanwhile, scored his 58th goal of the season Sunday night to help Chicago crush Detroit Red Wings 9-5. The season high for goals had been 54 by Hull in 1965-66.

In other games Sunday, New York Rangers blasted Toronto Maple Leafs 4-0, Pittsburgh Penguins edged Philadelphia Flyers 2-1 and Los Angeles Kings and Minnesota North Stars fought to a 3-3 tie.

Saturday, Montreal took Boston 5-3, New York downed Toronto 4-2, Chicago and Detroit finished in a 1-1 tie, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia played to a 3-3 deadlock, Oakland Seals trounced Minnesota 7-2 and St. Louis Blues nipped Los Angeles 3-1.

The victory Sunday enabled Boston to finish second to Montreal in the Eastern Division. The Canadiens clinched first place Saturday night and won the Prince of Wales Trophy for a record 18th time.

Each member of the Canadiens received $2,250 for finishing first.

The Canadiens also set two team records. They won 46 games, breaking their own mark of 45 set in 1955-56, and they collected 103 points, surpassing the record 101 by Detroit in 1950-51.

Playoff Rounds Start Wednesday

The Canadiens will meet the Rangers in Montreal Wednesday and Thursday in the opening two games of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup quarter-final series in the Eastern Division. The Bruins will play fourth-place Toronto at Boston Wednesday and Thursday to start the best-of-seven quarter-final.

Esposito's linemate Ken Hodge also collected two goals Sunday before 14,659 at Boston to bring his season total to 45. The line of Esposito, Hodge and left winger Ron Murphy picked up seven points for a season total of 269—43 better than the previous record of 226.

Derek Sanderson and John McKenzie scored the other goals for the Bruins, who received $1,250 a man for finishing second. Montreal goals went to Mickey Redmond, with two, and Jacques Lemaire.

SCORING RAMPAGE

The Black Hawks and the Red Wings, who missed the playoffs, went on a wild scoring spree before 16,666 at Chicago to celebrate the end of the season.

Pit Martin scored four goals for Chicago and Stan Mikita and Ken Wharram added two each. Hull's 58th came with just 11 seconds left in the second period.

Gordie Howe led Detroit with two goals and picked up two assists to bring his point total to 103. He joined Esposito, with 126, and Hull, with 107, as the only NHL players ever to crack the 100-point barrier.

Other Detroit goals went to Frank Mahovlich, Dean Prentice and Gary Unger. Mahovlich's goal was his 49th—his best season ever.

TIES ASSISTS MARK

Only three players—Hull, Bernie Geoffrion and Maurice Richard—have ever scored 50 or more goals in a season.

Pat Stapleton of Chicago was credited with six assists to tie the league record for assists by a defenceman in one game. It was set by Babe Pratt of Toronto in 1944.

The Chicago rearguard also finished with 50 assists, another record. Pierre Pilote, then of Chicago, and Bill Gadsby of New York established the mark of 46.

Uvic Squads Tripped In Cup Rugby Clashes

VANCOUVER — University of Victoria rugby teams went down to defeat here Saturday in a pair of hard-fought finals for provincial club championships.

Uvic Vikings, Victoria Rugby Union champions, were clipped 16-14 by Vancouver Kats in the first-division final for the Rounsfell Cup.

University of B.C. Braves nipped Uvic Norsemen 3-0 on Spence McTavish's try after 10 minutes of sudden-death overtime to win the second-division playoff for the Province Cup.

Kats, leading 8-3 at the half, managed to hold off a late surge by the Vikings mainly because of several missed penalty opportunities by the Victorians.

Ted Hunt kicked two converts and a penalty goal for the Kats, who got two trys from Al Bianco and a single try from Pat Aldous.

Bob Panton was the scoring hero for the Vikings, booting three penalty goals and converting a try by Ted Hardy.

Unbeaten Colt Turns Derby Into Shambles

By The Associated Press

Majestic Prince, a big, unbeaten colt owned by Frank McMahon of Vancouver, easily won the $132,200 Santa Anita Derby in Arcadia, Calif., Saturday, reaffirming his position as one of the top threats for the Triple Crown in United States horse racing.

Majestic Prince swept under the wire eight lengths ahead in the 32nd running of the Derby, making a shambles of the challenge by nine rival three-year-olds to win the 1⅛-mile classic.

His time was 1:49 1-5 on a fast track as he earned $87,200.

Jockey Bill Hartack, winning his first Derby in Acradia, held Majestic Prince in hand until he let him loose approaching the head of the stretch, put him into a gallop coming through the stretch and had him ease up from the 16th pole.

RECORD MARGIN

The margin of victory was the longest in the history of the Derby.

Mr. Joe F. was second, Lonny's Secret third and Nhome Jr. fourth.

Majestic Prince opened at 1-to-5 odds by a crowd estimated at 49,000. At one stage the odds went to 1 to 9. The payoff across the board was $2.60, $2.60 and $2.40.

TRIPLE CROWN NEXT?

Majestic Prince is eligible for the Triple Crown races, starting with the Kentucky Derby in May. McMahon paid $250,000 for Majestic Prince—a record at that time—in the 1967 yearling sales at Keeneland, Ky.

His trainer is the former riding champion, Johnny Longden, a friend of McMahon, who recommended the colt, a son of Raise a Native, to McMahon.

There wasn't much to the race, after Majestic Prince took charge.

TOP KNIGHT WINS

In another major race Saturday, Top Knight won the $121,800 Florida Derby at Miami as Artsand Letters got second money and Al Hattab finished third.

Top Knight won easily by five lengths as he ran the 1⅛ miles in 1:48 2-5 and paid $4.20, $2.60 and $2.20.

Top Knight was voted the top two-year-old after winning the Champagne and Hopeful Stakes and the Futurity last year.

OAKLAWN VICTORY

In Hot Springs, Ark., Listado, leading from wire to wire, held off Missouri Gent in the stretch to win the $59,700 Oaklawn Handicap at Oaklawn Park. Second choice in the wagering, the five-year-old was clocked over the 1 1-16 miles in 1:45.

Listado returned $7, $4.20 and $3.80. Missouri Gent paid $14 and $6.80 and Old Dudley returned $5 for show.

At Aqueduct, Iron Ruler came from off the pace and won the $50,000-added Westchester Stakes by 1½ lengths over Beaukins.

High School Aces Spark Rugby Win

A pair of traditional high school rugby rivals teamed up during the Victoria and District junior championship game Sunday, and the result was devastating.

Don Hewlett and Mark Hume, high school stars with Claremont and Mount Douglas this season, sparked a brilliant James Bay backfield as the Victoria team smashed Cowichan 41-0 at Macdonald Park.

Hume, with classy broken-field running against the flow, picked up three first-half trys and Hewlett added another as the James Bay team rolled to a 20-0 halftime lead.

Despite the adept play of JBAA centres Paul Burgogne and Jack Clerkson, and the fine outside running of Ian Hughes and Malcolm Northcott, it wasn't all backfield glory.

Forwards Dave Sutherland and Dennis Trill both plunged through for trys and fullback John Howe kicked a convert to round out the first-half scoring.

SENT OFF FIELD

Early in the second half the Claremont-Mount Douglas combination was broken up when Hewlett was sent off the field for rough play, but by that time the James Bay squad had a full head of steam.

Hume moved to scrum-half and the team maintained form and balance as Sutherland scored another try, and then Leon Dalman, Mac Snobelen, Northcott and Kirby all added trys. Howe kicked three converts for six second-half points.

James Bay, coached by George Jones and Gordon Hemmingway, rates as a high-ranking favorite for the British Columbia junior championship tournament scheduled for Victoria in early May.

All players on the squad played previously for either Mount Douglas or Claremont.

MIDGET VICTORY

In the city midget championship, another James Bay squad had two players thrown off the field for fighting, but overcame the two-man disadvantage and stormed back for a 14-6 win over Oak Bay.

Wayne Scotney led the James Bay scoring with two trys, but Art Clark looked more spectacular with a dazzling 60-yard broken-field run. Casey Walt kicked a convert.

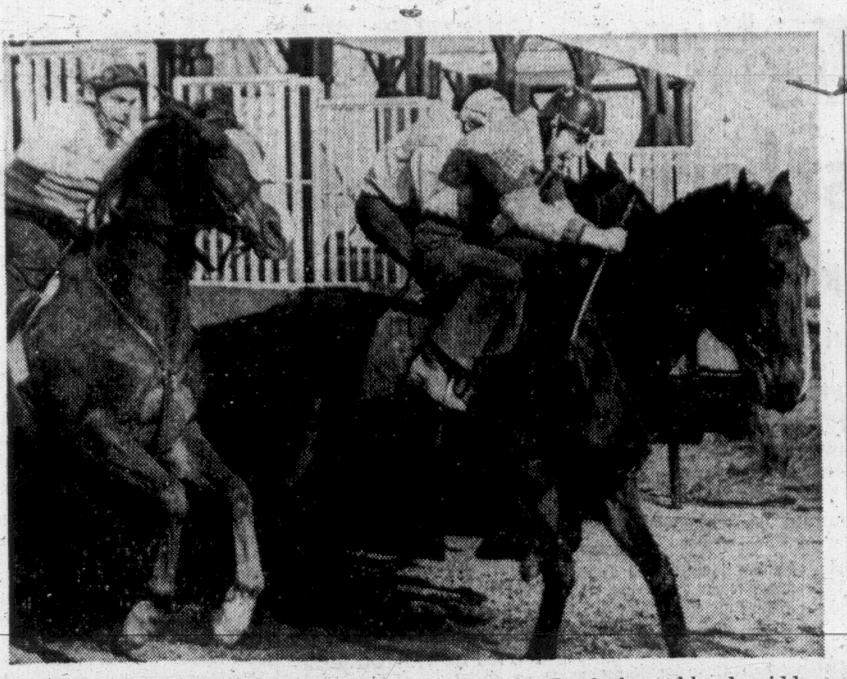
Tom Lippa and Dimas Craveiro each picked up a try for Oak Bay.

Athletics Lose Provincial Final

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) — Prince Rupert Crest All-Stars defeated Alberni Athletics 63-52 in the third game of a best-of-three series to win the British Columbia senior "B" men's basketball championship Saturday.

All-Stars topped Alberni 70-64 in the first game Thursday, then Athletics stormed back for a 67-61 win in the second match Friday.

Norm Vickery was high scorer Saturday for Alberni with 19 points and John Olsen scored 17 for Prince Rupert.



THIS WAS SCENE at Lansdowne Park on Lower Mainland as Mary Cowan passed initial test with high marks in her bid to qualify for riding licence on B.C. tracks. Mary breaks Jake's Special quickly out of starting gate ahead of throughbreds ridden by veteran jockeys Jim Broomfield (left) and Frank Barroby. She may make racing debut at Sandown Park next Saturday as 10-day meeting opens at Sidney strip.

DISTAFF JOCKEY . . . IMPRESSES STEWARDS

Mary Quick From Gate

VANCOUVER — Mary Cowan appears destined to become the first female rider to compete in a regular thoroughbred race when the 1969 British Columbia horse-racing season opens Saturday at Vancouver Island's Sandown Park.

Mrs. Cowan, who appears certain to be Canada's first licensed distaff jockey, is tentatively scheduled to make her debut aboard Eastern Jewel on opening day of the 10-day Sandown meeting.

The 32-year-old mother of three took a big step in her attempt to get to the races when she passed her initial test with flying colors Friday morning on the training track at Lansdowne Park.

She was up on Jake's Special, a six-year-old gelding owned by her husband, Charle, in a starting-gate test. Also taking part in the test were two other thoroughbreds ridden by veteran-jockeys Frank Barroby and Jim Broomfield.

Mrs. Cowan broke Jake's Special on top and she kept her mount straight all the way in the quarter-mile run.

Pleasantly impressed by her performance were B.C. Jockey Club stewards.

"I don't have to look at her anymore," presiding-steward Merv Peters said after the demonstration. "She certainly knows her way around a race track."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Cowan, originally from Winnipeg, has been riding since she was nine years old and is a veteran of the Powder Puff Derbies held at Assiniboia Downs.

Broomfield wasn't quite as impressed as Jockey Club officials, anxious to have a woman rider for Sandown and Lansdowne meetings.

"She knows how to handle a horse," Broomfield admitted. "All she needs now is the experience of handling a horse in an actual race. She got out in front today and hung on. But what about having to come from behind and what about being caught in a wall of horses?"

If Mrs. Cowan can win on Eastern Jewel it should be enough for Broomfield. The seven-year-old mare failed to win in eight starts last year.

Scots Couldn't Manage Enough Goals for Title

Canadian Scottish couldn't perform a minor miracle Sunday and University of Victoria Vikings took possession of the Garrison Cup, emblematic of the first division championship of the Victoria and District Soccer League.

The Scots finished their league schedule by blanking Hourigans 2-0 at Topaz Park on goals by John Hughes and Allam Lamb but they needed many more goals to wrest the title from the Vikings.

Vikings, who played to a scoreless draw with Gorge Molsons Saturday, finished in a first-place tie with the Scots but took the title on the strength of a better goal average. Scottish needed an 8-0 shutout or a 12-1 triumph over Hourigans to top the students.

Regatta Honors Spear-ed

Fifty sailing dinghies managed three races in very light winds Sunday afternoon at the third annual Elk Lake regatta.

Top honors of the day went to RCNSA's Robin Spear, who won the over-all Saanich Lions Club Perpetual Trophy and was also first in the combined El Toro-Sabot class. This is the third consecutive year that the honor has been taken by an El Toro sailor. The 1967 winner was Turkey Head Commodore R. V. James, and Jill Spear won in 1968.

(Both the perpetual trophy, which stays in the Saanich Municipal Hall, and the winner's "take home" trophy are unique. They are framed relief woodcarvings of a sailing boat by well-known local carver Seyfort.)

The sole "out-of-town" entrant, Maple Bay's Dale Gladman, came second over-all in the pram dinghies, which fielded the largest class, 23 boats.

Sunday also marked the first time this year that the Enterprises have competed as a class.

The regatta was organized by race committee Neville Life, Eric Gravenor, John Malleson and Mel Steffans. Committee and patrol boats were provided by Dick Patterson, Ray Wootten, George Harvey and Bob Finlay.

Results:

EL TORO/SABOT (23 boats) — 1, Robin Spear, RCNSA; 2, Dale Gladman, MBYC; 3, Jim Williams, RVYC; 4, Rocky Rochfort, RVYC.

DAVIDSONS (8 boats)—1, Norman Marcus, RVYC; 2, Humphrey Golby, RVYC.

ENTERPRISES (6 boats) — 1, Wally Roots and crew; 2, Richard Chappell and crew

OK DINGHIES (7 boats)—1, Frank Cushing, RCNSA; 2, Doug Beer, RCNSA.

FIREBALLS (6 boats)—1, Bruce and Al Kenning, RVYC; 2, Steve and Dave Richardson, RVYC.

CAR HITS POLE . . . . . . ON PRACTICE RUN

Italian Driver Killed

LE MANS, France (AP) — Italian racing driver Lucien Bianchi was killed Sunday when his three-litre Alfa Romeo raced off the track and hit a telegraph pole in the second day of practice for the Le Mans 24-hour auto classic.

Bianchi's car exploded when it struck the pole and a transformer station, witnesses said.

Bianchi, 34, who had lived in Belgium since 1947, was that country's No. 2 racing driver.

He won at Le Mans last year with Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico.

He appeared to be the winner of the London-Sydney rally last year until his Citroen collided with a small car. He suffered a skull fracture.

Bianchi had won other rallies, including the gruelling Liege-Sofia-Liege. He also won the Automobile Tour de France three times and the 12-hour Sebring event with Joachim Bonnier of Sweden in a Ferrari in 1962.

Stockers Deadlock Island League Final

Stockers North Americans turned on the power in the home stretch Sunday at Esquimalt Sports Centre to send the best-of-five Vancouver Island Hockey League final to the limit.

Trailing Univeristy of Victoria Vikings by one goal after being tied 2-2 after the first period and 3-3 at the end of the second session, Stockers rammed home two goals in the final six minutes to edge Vikings 7-6 and deadlock the series at two games each.

All the marbles will be on the line at Esquimalt tonight when the final game starts at 8:15.

Vikings appeared likely winners of the playoff crown when they opened strongly in the third period and went ahead 6-5 at 2:42 on a goal by Terry Foreman.

Goalie Brian O'Neill, who made 15 of his 35 saves in the third period, was able to hold off the Vikings until Stockers got their artillery on range. Errol Goulden knotted the count at 14:39 on a neat pass from Terry Minnis and Dennis Ferrill drilled the winning goal with little more than a minute remaining.

Tom Mullan, Goulden and Ferrill each counted twice and Minnis scored once for the North Americans. Vikings got two goals from Glyn Harper and Foreman and singles from Mike McAvoy and Mick Brown.

Stocker coach John Merrifield surprised fans by assembling a third forward line after playing through the semi-finals and the first three games of the final with two attacking units.

"We wouldn't have made it with two," said Merrifield. "Our boys were tired and that third line made the difference."

METROPOLITANS TAKE BANTAM HOOP CROWN

SALMON ARM — Victoria Metropolitans tripped Vancouver's Winston Churchill twice Saturday to win the four-team, double-loss-elimination tournament for the British Columbia bantam boys' basketball crown.

Mets edged WC 47-44 in the first meeting and then downed the Vancouver squad 55-47 in the final as Jim Nemec set the victory pace with 26 points. Nemec and Harry Hunt each fired 14 points for Victoria in the first clash.

Also competing in the tourney were Penticton and North Vancouver.

UCLA TAKES WORLD CUP RUGBY SERIES

VANCOUVER (CP) — University of California at Los Angeles scored a 6-3 victory over University of British Columbia in a rugby match Saturday to win the two-game total-point series for the World Cup, 26-14.

UCLA wing Jim Sayer kicked two penalty goals, one in each half, for the winners. He also led UCLA to a 22-11 victory Thursday.

Inside centre Reid Owen scored a try for UBC at 20 minutes of the second half. The convert was missed, evening the game at 3-3 until Sayer's second penalty kick at the 38-minute mark.

Nanaimo Girls Win Juvenile Hoop Title

NANAIMO—Nanaimo Hubettes defeated Armstrong 53-13 Saturday in the second game of the British Columbia juvenile girls' basketball final to take the two-game, total-points series by a 94-30 count.

Laurie Sawden, who was selected as the most valuable player in the playoff, paced Hubettes with 25 points.

JEST A MINUTE BY BOB cumberbirch

A patient came to the field hospital complaining he was unable to sleep at night. The doctor's advice was for the soldier to eat something before going to bed.

"But, Doctor," the patient reminded him, "two months ago you told me never to eat anything before going to bed."

The doctor blinked, then in full professional dignity replied, "My boy, that was two months ago. Science has made enormous strides since then."

Miracle Coating REPLACES PAINT

Another boon to the space age has been accomplished for home and apartment owners; an exterior wall coating so tough and durable it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior painting for over 15 years. This remarkable product combines the long-lasting properties of fiberglas, asbestos, mica and perlite to make a wall surface that resists all climatic extremes. 16 colors available.

Guided missile manufacturers for the United States government have found this material a superior product for insulation of heat shields used in the space program. Over two million world-wide applications have been made on industrial, commercial and residential buildings since 1946.

Applied With A Gun

"Fiberglas" Textured Coating is applied with heavy-duty spray equipment under high pressure. It fuses itself to the wall surface to a thickness of 20 times that of paint. It remains flexible and withstands cracking and surface expansion and contraction. Every application is registered and factory-guaranteed for 15 full years against chipping, peeling or flaking.

Free information on how easily you may have "Fiberglas" Textured Coating applied now at low bank terms, with no down payment, may be obtained by calling direct or collect to Textured Coating Division.

Self-Control Keynote Of Premier's Advice

TORONTO (CP) — "You must never let it be betrayed that you aren't in control of a situation," said the premier of Ontario. "You have to learn this. You have to have self-control to the nth degree."

John Robarts was sitting in his office talking about a premier's likes and dislikes. At 52, he has headed Ontario's Conservative government for eight years.

"One tries never to become too aware of how much power one has," he said.

"It is easier to say 'do it' to people, instead of using what I choose to call the rational approach—sitting down and discussing it."

But when a decision is made, it is his own.

"I accept the responsibility of making up my own mind, and the blame."

GROUPS WITH GRIPES

He says the first thing that struck him when he came to power is one that no longer bothers him: the "blind selfishness" of groups with gripes.

On the day of the interview he shook his head outside an office where there was piled a stack of petitions with 175,000 signatures.

"I can smell them a mile away, but we have to submit ourselves to these pressures and sort them out. You recognize that people are presenting you a biased point of view and it's a question of balancing them out, of trying not to think less of people."

He says he has never found it productive, never thought it right, to hurt a person's sensitivities.

"I'm always having fights with Eddie Sargent (the Liberal member of the legislature for Grey-Bruce) and it's not a role I like," he said.

"We're bound to have violent disagreements. We live in a highly competitive and antagonistic atmosphere and in my humble opinion, if you are to conduct yourself in a civilized manner, you have to refrain from the fleeting joy of being personal."

FRIENDLY DESCRIPTION

Friends describe him as almost inordinately kind, and "loath to hurt anyone."

He says he has the perfect city life. He lives at a hotel during the week, likes good restaurants, and goes home on weekends to London, Ont., where his wife lives with their daughter, Robin, 15, and Timothy, 12.

"They live their own lives and pretty normal ones, too," he said. "They'd see very little more of me if they were here, and this way I don't have to worry if I'm late for dinner."

He likes formal dress and says he'll put on a tuxedo "at the drop of a hat."

"Oh, I have fun," he said. "I have a ball.

"I'll bet I've been in more discotheques than most men my age. And I make it around to the bars—the Bombay Bicycle Club, the Black Knight Room—but not to the topless ones so much. I'm afraid I don't find the women attractive."

Supersonics Create New Safety Code

MONTREAL (CP) — Supersonic passenger aircraft will have to be made just as safe as planes now in service before they will be allowed into airline use, a spokesman said Friday.

The spokesman for the 116-Aviation Organization said a multi-nation panel now is in the process of studying:

1. What needsto be known about the big supersonics—which "involve an aviation departure comparable with the flight of the Wright brothers."

2. What standards will have to be applied for safety in numerous fields.

The spokesman was commenting on a Calgary speech by an Air Canada senior pilot who stressed economic and safety problems presented to airlines by the supersonics.

The pilot, Capt. Frank E. W. Smith, said Wednesday the majority of airlines would be happy to see supersonic transport projects founder.

An Air Canada spokesman at headquarters here said Friday the crown corporation does not wish to see the projects collapse and he is sure that Capt. Smith does not wish to see that happen, either.

"But perhaps some airlines are concerned about the economics as far as the initial costs are concerned," said the Air Canada official, stressing the enormous sums of money involved.

RUSSIA DECLARES WAR ON DRUNKEN POPULACE

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party has issued a new call for a fight against an old Russian problem—drunkenness.

"The Soviet people cannot tolerate drunkenness and it is necessary to wage an irreconcilable war against it," said the party newspaper Pravda.

"How we wage the struggle will determine our success in fostering a new kind of man, in strengthening the social order. Alcoholism is still widespread and a dangerous phenomena."

The statement confirmed observation in Soviet cities where staggering drunks are a common sight and workmen are frequently found drinking on the job.

Brazil Junta Marks 5th Year

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil's military dictatorship celebrated its fifth anniversary in power today, extolling its economic achievements and promising a return to "authentic democracy."

Economic gains since the overthrow of the last popularly elected president, leftist Joao Goulart, are impressive. But the military is in tighter control than ever, and many doubt a return of democracy is anywhere near.

President Arthur da Costa e Silva, an army marshal who retired to become president, assumed dictatorial powers last Dec. 13. Now Congress and several state assemblies are closed indefinitely, the press is muzzled, hundreds of political opponents have lost their political rights—more than 800 since December—and Costa e Silva rules by decree.

Costa e Silva said this is necessary to "save democracy in Brazil." But the general opinion is that the president is only a mouthpiece for the military, and that the military felt its civilian opponents were getting out of hand.

Despite the government's disregard for traditional constitutional rights, there has been no significant display of public resentment. Police have discovered a few "terrorist gangs" with sophisticated arsenals, but there has been little bloodshed.

For most Brazilians it's business as usual and many express approval of some government decrees, such as the closing of some corrupt state assemblies.

Many are being won over by the government's economic boasts. Official figures are always compared with 1964, the worst year in Brazil's economy, and thus provide the most impressive comparison.

Half of Brazil's 90,000,000 people are still illiterate, but the government says it has doubled university enrolment in the last five years, nearly doubled primary school enrolment and doubled its educational expenditure.

Museum's Girl Friday Content With Progress

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Forbes

Tonight, when Miss Margaret Crummy leaves her office in the provincial museum, she will close the door on 35 years of government service.

On Tuesday she commences retirement leave. After that? Well, at the moment it's a big question mark.

"I'll take my time about making decisions from now on," she says.

With the exception of two years in provincial correspondence school work, Miss Crummy has always been on the museum staff, first as "Girl Friday" in the days when Francis Kermode was curator and latterly as Dr. Clifford Carl's secretary.

She looks back to a time when only seven people worked in the museum. Now there is a staff of 32.

She has watched work with the schools develop into a full-time program. In the beginning much of this was done through loan materials. "I handled that phase of the work. It grew so rapidly I had to put in many hours of overtime to keep it up-to-date."

* * *

She remembers the small classroom in the old museum. "If we had 30 school children there, the room was crowded."

Then she points proudly to the large, well-equipped rooms in the present museum and to the new program of guided tours for schools that is rapidly growing in popularity.

Although Victoria is now her home, Miss Crummy was born in Kingston, Ont., the daughter of a Methodist minister.

"That meant moving from place to place as our father was called to different parts of Canada."

She graduated from University of Manitoba and came to this city from Winnipeg during depression years.

* * *

Her two years in provincial correspondence school work were "interesting and challenging." But Margaret Crummy liked meeting and talking to people and she couldn't do that sort of thing through correspondence.

"So you will understand that when I heard of an opening in the museum, I went after it right away."

In those early days and with such a small staff, everyone had many duties. Hers included being a telephone operator and also question answerer.

"I must have listened to thousands of questions," she reminisces. "If I didn't have the right answers myself I had to hunt up someone who did. Usually that had to be done then and there for the person on the telephone always seemed to be in a desperate hurry for the information."

Over the years Miss Crummy has fulfilled her desire to meet and talk to people. "We've had many, many visitors and they have all been genuinely interested in our exhibits."

There's much pride in her voice when she adds that she believes (objectively, she hopes) the museum's collection of Indian culture is "one of the best in North America ... perhaps in the world."

This collection was given "much more room" and it "attracted many more people" after the basement of the old museum was remodelled about 12 years ago. Now, in the new building it will eventually have "a great deal" more space.

* * *

"The collection is growing ... that space will be needed," Margaret Crummy predicts.

If she has regrets on the eve of retirement it is for her short time in the new building. "But at least I did get in ... and I did help with the move."

Then, half in jest, "perhaps I'll come back one day and do volunteer work.

CRACKDOWN on night-time demonstrations in Montreal was hinted Sunday night by Lucien Saulnier, the city's executive committee chairman, following in the wake of Friday night's violent flare-ups during the march on McGill University. Saulnier said on a local radio broadcast that the city can control both the time and place of demonstrations through issuing permits.

Crash Awards Hit $29 Million

NEW YORK (UPI) —The U.S. government and two airlines have settled all claims arising from the midair crash of two airliners over Staten Island in 1960. The awards totalled $29,000,000.

An announcement in Brooklyn federal court Friday broke the seal on the case, whose proceedings had been kept secret for more than three years while the awards were decided. The largest single award made to the estate of an unidentified man was $750,000.

●

A United Airlines jetliner and a Trans World Airlines Lockheed Super Constellation, groping through fog and sleet, collided on Dec. 16, 1960, over Miller Field, a small army airport on Staten Island. All 128 persons aboard the planes and six people in downtown Brooklyn, where the jet crashed, died.

The Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington declared the United crew negligent in June, 1962. The huge DC-8, the first all-jet airliner to crash with passengers aboard, was more than seven miles beyond the farthest limits assigned to it by radar controllers at Kennedy International Airport, then called Idlewild, the CAB said. The plane also had a defect in its navigational equipment.

United Flight 826, homing in on Idlewild from Chicago with 77 passengers and seven crewmen, sliced into TWA flight 266, on its way to Laguardia airport from Dayton and Columbus, Ohio, with 39 passengers and a crew of five.

The jet staggered for 10 miles after the crash, plunging into a church in Brooklyn and causing a seven-alarm fire. The impact and flames destroyed 10 Brownstones, several shops and a funeral home.

●

A sanitation department street sweeper was one of the six persons on the street killed instantly. A 25-foot wing section sliced halfway through one of the tenements and set it afire. No one inside the buildings was killed.

The TWA plane dropped in three pieces to a runway on Miller Field, almost directly below the spot where the collision occurred.

'MANY VIEWS' SOUGHT ON VALLEY STUDY PLAN

Saanich planner Tom Loney said Friday his department wants "as wide a range of reaction as we can get" to the Blenkinsop Valley study.

In particular, he added, reaction was wanted from people in urban areas because they are vitally affected by suburban and rural development.

The study, which was a draft proposal pending a final report, made a number of recommendations for the valley area in particular and the municipality as a whole.

One of the main recommendations was to increase the 1.6-acre minimum division in rural areas to five acres and to keep development to the urban and semi-urban areas to avoid expensive suburban sprawl.

Copies of the draft are being produced and a limited number will be available to local organizations such as ratepayer and business groups.

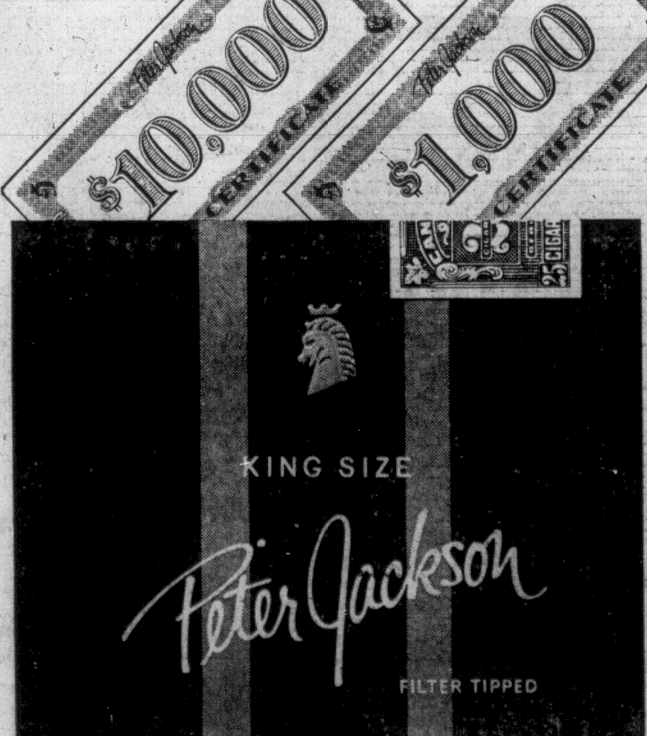
Another P.J. smoker wins $10,000 ...and there's a P.J. winner every 48 hours!*

Mrs. Mary LaFleur of 1430 Burrows Road, Richmond, British Columbia, can't exactly spin wool into gold... but something happened to her, recently, that was just as exciting!

Mrs. LaFleur's hobby happens to be spinning and one evening as she was working away she opened a new pack of Peter Jackson cigarettes. Inside she found something as good as gold: a cash certificate worth $10,000! Now she will finally be able to buy a loom so she can weave her own cloth.

If you'd like to find something "as good as gold" just look inside a pack of P.J. You might be the next to find a $10,000 cash certificate.



In order to win, you must qualify under the rules appearing on the certificate.

The next $10,000 or $1,000 winner might as well be you!

Actor's Ad Lib Stops Suicide Bid

LONDON (Reuters) — Movie actor Peter Sellers was credited today by police for helping to stop a man from jumping off a 60-foot bridge.

The comedian said he had been dining with another actor, Wilfred Hyde White, and afterward they decided to drive by Sellers's old school in the Highgate area of London.

As they neared the school they saw a man about to leap off a bridge onto a road 60 feet below.

"I ran to him to try to talk him out of jumping," Sellers said. "He was very talkative and I first asked him if he recognized my face. I'm sorry to say he made a rude reply.

"I then asked him if he had seen any of my films and just started to chat away."

The man, about 30, said he had an argument with his wife.

"After a while his wife came up and he tried to reach out to her through the ironwork of the bridge," Sellers said. "A policeman grabbed him and it was all over."

Couple to Talk On Greek Oppression

A Greek union official and his Welsh wife, both of whom have been political prisoners, will speak here Tuesday on human rights.

Tony and Betty Ambatielos will speak at Central Junior Secondary School at 8 p.m. under sponsorship of Victoria International Studies Association. Their topic is Human Rights and Political Oppression in Greece.

Ambatielos is secretary of the Greek Seamen's Union. He was arrested on Christmas Eve 1947 in a roundup of union officers and spent 17 years as a prisoner.

His wife was deported to England where she conducted a campaign for his release. British supporters finally brought pressure to bear on the Greek government and her fight was successful.

Mrs. Ambatielos herself became a prisoner for six weeks in 1967 when a military junta took over the government.

$5,500 Grant Awarded To Victorian

A former vice-principal of a Victoria elementary school has been awarded a $5,500 Canada Council grant to aid him in postgraduate studies in education.

Barry G. Lucas is at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, where he is a Ph.D candidate in comparative education.

Lucas received his bachelor of arts degree from the University of B.C. in 1963, and returned to his home town, Victoria, to teach at Glanford Elementary School.

In 1967, he obtained his master's degree in education with first-class standing from Western Washington University, where he was also employed as a teaching assistant.

FAMILY REUNION wound up on living-room couch of apartment at 355 Gorge Road. Those are special-occasion smiles, saved for a time that Mr. and Mrs. David Dick and their children share after more than a month of separation. But the tension and anxiety are past, and the object of it all snuggles her pet pup who also appears to be smiling. Left to right, brother Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. David Dick, Florenda, and sister Connie. (Robin Clarke Photo)

Florenda Trades Tears for Smiles As Life-or-Death Pilgrimage Ends

By ARTHUR MAYSE

A fair-haired little girl who began her sixth year with no future worth mentioning came home to life and springtime on Sunday night.

Florenda Joy Dick, her heart mended and her stroke-impaired speech almost completely recovered, alighted with her mother from an Air Canada Viscount at 10:15 p.m.

She had managed to stay awake through much of the jet flight from Winnipeg to Vancouver. But it was a drowsy child wakened from a nap who clung to Mrs. David Dick's hand as they descended the landing stage at Victoria Airport.

Freed of flight-bags—small one for Florenda, a larger one for herself—Mrs. Dick took her daughter in her arms. Under the bright lights of the passenger terminal, Florenda shut her eyes tight, puckered a face once pale but now rosy from sleep, and added a tear-shower to a rainy night.

The parting when child and mother set out for Mayo Clinic had been a sad one, with no guarantee that Florenda would survive complex open-heart surgery.

But the family reunion was all happiness.

Tall David Dick swept Florenda into his arms. Sister Connie, 13, and brother Kenneth, 10, crowded close.

In the family apartment at 355 Gorge Road, relatives added hugs and kisses to the welcome. Neighbors hurried over. The living room was soon crowded with well-wishers, children among them.

Home at last, Florenda traded tears for a radiant smile.

In her room, presents from brother, sister and friends were waiting. Florenda Joy, pretty in a pink dress with her long blonde hair catching the light, was allowed to stay up long enough to open the gaily-wrapped gifts.

Velvet, a little dog who had missed his playmate, frisked around her with wagging tail and busy tongue.

Then the life-or-death pilgrimage ended as the thousands of men, women and children who made it possible by donating to a Times-inspired fund had hoped it might.

Florenda, a child with a normal life in prospect, was tucked into her bed.

Everybody Disagrees On Blue Monday

First, MLAs of the public accounts committee disagreed this morning whether to keep the press out or in and then the civil servants testifying before it disagreed over ministers' hotel bills.

The legislative committee concentrated on hotel bills paid on behalf of Minister Without Portfolio Phil Gaglardi last session and decided it would check into his flights aboard government aircraft at its Tuesday meeting.

This morning's session began with a Gilbert and Sullivan routine in which chairman Evan Wolfe (SC—Vancouver Centre) twice closed the door to keep reporters out and Opposition Leader Robert Strachan reopened it each time to invite reporters in.

REPORTERS IN

Wolfe gave up and reporters got in.

They heard two civil servants contradict each other on whether Gaglardi's $44 hotel bill for two weeks at the Hotel Vancouver during the last session should have been paid by the government or out of his personal travel allowance as an MLA.

James McDiarmid, comptroller for ministers without portfolio expenditures, said he decided after getting the bill that Gaglardi should pay his own hotel expenses during a session so he warned him to stop sending the bills to the government.

But C. J. Ferber, comptroller-general, told the committee he would have okayed the bills and did not think they should come out of Gaglardi's MLA pay.

He said McDiarmid's rule could be applied properly to ordinary MLAs but it was "quite impossible" to apply it to cabinet ministers.

In the end, McDiarmid told the committee that he never obtained reimbursement to the government from Gaglardi for the $44 it paid before cutting off the privilege last session.

And, under questioning, he indicated that Gaglardi has sent in more bills at this session.

Private Rites Held For Ex-Councillor

A private funeral service was held at Sands chapel today for J. L. (Len) Hobbs, 72, former Saanich councillor and member of a pioneer Cadboro Bay family. He died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Saturday.

The flag over Saanich Municipal Hall was lowered to half-mast.

Born in Victoria, Hobbs was raised on a farm in Cadboro Bay established by his father Edwin, who is commemorated by the name of the street where his son lived.

An uncle, Frank Hobbs, gave his name to the elementary school.

"The name Hobbs has been associated with Saanich since our beginnings," said Mayor Hugh Curtis. "Len Hobbs was very highly respected in Saanich and he had hundreds of friends."

Hobbs was associated with the Brackman-Ker Milling Co. Ltd. for 45 years. He was a past-president of Victoria Rotary Club; past chairman of Royal Jubilee Hospital; a member of Mount Newton Lodge, No. 89, A.F. & A.M., B.C.R.

Surviving are the widow, Violet, at their home at 3880 Hobbs Road; a daughter, Mrs. J. M. (Barbara) Fitzsimmons and three grandchildren at South Burnaby.

Rev. Dr. N. S. Noel officiated at the funeral service, which was followed by cremation. Flowers were declined but donations were accepted for the G. R. Pearkes Clinic for Handicapped Children.

JOHN PORTEOUS

Trustee to Quit For Hospital Job

A veteran trustee and former chairman will resign from the Greater Victoria school board.

John Porteous has accepted the post of business manager of Peace Arch Hospital at White Rock, B.C. He was an accountant at St. Joseph's Hospital here.

Board chairman Carron Jameson said today trustees have known of Porteous' plans.

The board has not yet received his resignation but Mrs. Porteous said today her husband, who is out of town, intends resigning. Porteous has been a trustee for the past seven years and was board chairman in 1965-66.

Date of the resignation may have a bearing on whether a byelection is called to fill the vacant seat. Porteous is one of three city representatives on the nine-man board.

Dr. Jameson said he understands a trustee can continue to sit as long as he has property in the municipality he represents and does not miss three consecutive board meetings.

Czech Conductor Invited Them All To Make Music

By BERYL PROUDMAN

A program of undeniably beautiful music, a guest conductor as charming as he is talented and the Victoria Symphony Orchestra on its toes, made the first in this season's final pair of concerts Sunday an occasion for joy and congratulation.

An atmosphere for relaxed, soothing enjoyment was set by Czechoslovakian Dr. Otakar Trhlik's lyrical interpretation of Schubert's popular "Unfinished Symphony". Although smooth, gradual crescendos occasionally built up to powerful moments of exciting climax, the symphony, always controlled, never boisterous, remained at all times within the bounds of graceful civility which suit it so well.

One example of Dr. Trhlik's complete control lay in his power to bring the orchestra to these high points and then, without lingering and with complete clarity of simultaneous release, to break off and acknowledge a fleeting pause.

INVITED THEM

His manner of bringing in the sections also explains, to some extent, why the orchestra responded so magnificently to his direction. Turning now to the cellos, now to the violins, he seemed to invite them to join him in music-making and even back-row players received similar long-range invitations.

Small precise movements marked his conducting style for most of the time but these became more generous in expansive passages and his complete involvement in the music could be seen by his response to the dancing rhythms of the Smetana and Dvorak.

The pastoral background and underlying serenity of Smetana's "From Woods and Fields of Bohemia" maintained the happy atmosphere of the Schubert. The fast pace of a large part of this symphonic work kept the players very busy but tripped none. The high-pitched fugal violin section was remarkably well performed, the cello tone was vibrant and the haunting horns and woodwind entries beautifully executed.

BROAD MELODY

Although the descriptive music changed mood several times, one broad melody which was repeated several times was familiar enough to sound like an arrangement of "Ye Banks and Braes" and "Toujour l'amour" combined.

Dvorak's Symphony No. 8 (it used to be Symphony No. 4) comprised the second half of the program. Those who had looked forward to this favorite were in no way disappointed. Where dance rhythms stirred the blood, the players performed with rustic liberality, but when sustained dignity was called for, they produced that too.

The trumpet fanfare which opened the fourth movement sent sonorous echoes around the theatre, the dancelike third movement lilted with becoming gaiety and throughout, shifts in rhythmic emphasis were accomplished without pause or hesitation.

After acknowledging the enthusiastic applause by taking several bows Dr. Trhlik persuaded the orchestral players to share his success by congratulating them en masse, section by section and with individual salutations.

This program will be repeated in the Royal Theatre at 8:30 tonight.

Major Struggle Ahead for City As Costs Mount

Boost of $1.5M 'Uncontrollable'

By JIM HUME

A $1.5 million uncontrollable increase in expenditures is facing the city of Victoria as 1969 budget preparation enters its final phase.

But treasurer James Bramley is still hopeful the final budget, due for presentation towards the end of April, will be fairly close to the estimated $17.8 million listed in the provisional budget.

To keep expenditures in line, the treasurer and other department heads are faced with serious juggling in all fields.

NOT TOO BAD

"We don't have all completed department budgets in yet," Bramley said this morning. "So there is no way any accurate forecast can be made. But with no major public expenditures on the horizon we're hoping things won't be too bad."

No matter how expenditures are curbed this year the city can't avoid a close to $150,000 increase in provincial government per capita charges for welfare payments.

Last year the welfare payment budget was struck at $468,800, an increase of $245,000 over 1967.

This year the estimated per capita charge is $610,000, an increase of around $140,000.

That is only a minor item in the costs over which council has little or no control.

$300,000 IN WAGES

Wage increases at city hall this year will total $300,000 based on the 5 to 6 per cent increases already granted to all departments except outside workers and the police department.

Negotiations with the latter two groups are still under way with little doubt that 5 per cent will be the minimum increase granted.

In 1968 the city's total wage bill was more than $6 million.

Also on this year's wage bill could be increases for department heads who received their last salary increase 18 months ago.

SNOW NIGHTMARE

Faced with those increases city officials can be forgiven if they still shudder at the memory of the snow, ice and freezing weather that gripped the city in the dying days of 1968 and for the first few weeks of this year.

With a budget of $4,000 for snow removal in 1968 the city had spent $12,600 before the year ended in a sometimes futile attempt to keep city streets clear of snow.

Worse was to come.

Between January first and the end of Victoria's worst winter a further $47,500 had been spent in a brave but losing battle to keep traffic moving.

Taken over the full winter period snow removal cost the city $60,100 for an effort some citizens still complain about.

Fortunately the $8,600 over-expenditure on the 1968 budget can be picked up from the contingency fund.

With $47,500 already spent for snow removal this year city council will be asked to budget $50,000 for snow removal in 1969.

That leaves $2,500 in the pot for next November and December plus the prayers of the treasurer that King Winter won't pull a late year repeat punch.

That isn't the entire story on budget increases beyond the power of city council to hold in line.

Yet to come, and usually remaining a mystery until almost budget eve, is the school levy.

In 1968 it was 28.54 mills an increase of .54 over 1967.

The value of the mill last year was $124,280 as compared with the $119,823 value in 1967.

In 1969 the mill has been valued at $138,800.

Oil Discovery Raises Fears For Wildlife

A warning of the dangers to wildlife by gas and oil exploration on the Arctic coast of Alaska was issued from here on the weekend to the American and Canadian governments.

The warning came in a resolution passed unanimously at the annual meeting of the Northwest Wildlife Society asking for safeguards for wildlife in the Brooks Mountain Range and Prudhoe Bay region of Alaska.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to the Canadian Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development and to the United States Secretary of the Interior.

Oil was discovered at Prudhoe Bay in January, 1968, and in July the Atlantic-Richfield oil companies announced the area had recoverable reserves of up to 10 billion barrels, one of the world's largest deposits.

●

The resolution asks the Canadian and American governments to make available funds for research into the effects of oil exploration on soil, vegetation, water and wildlife of the Arctic, using the basis of such research for the development of regulations to govern exploration.

It also asks for the protection from gas and oil development of areas of outstanding recreational, scenic and wildlife value, and suggests that government, not industry, is in the best position to determine how and when extraction of oil and gas should be carried on.

Conservationists are now expressing concern that the strike will adversely affect wildlife nearby in the Brooks Range, 500 miles long and 150 miles wide, sweeping from the Yukon border to the Bering Sea.

●

The dense, unexplored wilderness contains enormous reserves of game: half the Dall sheep in the world live there, as well as huge herds of caribou (estimates range from 440,000 to 1.2 million), grizzlies, moose and wolves.

". . . there is adequate precedent in North America to indicate that oil and gas exploration and development, free of governmental restrictions and controls, will result in disregard and destruction of other resource values . . ." the Society resolution said.

Keith Mundy, past secretary of the society, said the resolution should carry considerable weight in Ottawa and Washington because most members of the society are practising biologists employed at universities or in an advisory capacity to governments concerned.

●

Delegates at the annual meeting came from the northwestern states of the U.S.A., Alaska, B.C., Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Mundy said the effect on the Arctic of oil exploration could be considerable because of the fragility of the environment.

"When you disturb anything in the Arctic, because of the slow growth period it might never be able to regenerate.

"The simpler the environment, the more fragile it is."

The question of conservation in the Prudhoe Bay area recently shifted into a political one when the governor of Alaska, Walter Hickel, was named Secretary of the Interior — an appointment that led to sharp questioning about his conservation and oil philosophies.

Within months of the oil discovery 12 drilling rigs were flown over the mountains to the new field.

Pierre Berton To Speak Here

One of Victoria College's best-known alumni returns to the campus April 10 to deliver a public lecture on "The New Education."

Nationally-known author-broadcaster Pierre Berton was born in the Yukon and moved to Victoria with his family in 1932. He graduated from Oak Bay Senior Secondary School and attended Victoria College from 1937 to 1939.

His lecture will be at 9 p.m. in Room 144 of Uvic's MacLaurin Building.

RETIRED FARMER Richard Smithson celebrated his 102nd birthday today at the Glenwarren Private Hospital. Raised on a farm near Lindsey, Ont., he homesteaded in Saskatchewan for many years before coming to Victoria with a brother and sister in the 1950s. Although he has no blood relatives remaining in Victoria, Mr. Smithson has many friends who helped make this a smiling day for him. (Times Photo.)

RN Training Standards Remain High

Registered Nurses Association of B.C. today clarified changes in the Registered Nurses Act which slightly ease entrance requirements to university nursing schools.

The changes, introduced as a bill in the current session of the B.C. legislature, will permit mature students who might lack one subject, such as a language, to be accepted for university level training, without high school matriculation.

However, the student would still have to meet the full requirements of the nursing course.

The RNABC emphasizes that the change does not mean that nursing experience of a practical nature would take the place of suitable academic education. Standards of the nurse training courses would not be lowered.

Many universities permit adult students to register in other faculties where on-the-job training, acquired skills and self-teaching obviates the fact that the applicant did not possess complete university entrance credits.

Under the new regulations the admission requirements to hospital schools of nursing are unchanged. Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospital schools here would still require graduation from a high school academic course—meaning matriculation.

Ask The Times

Q.—Could you let me know the population of Saskatoon, Sask., in April 1903 previous to the arrival of approximately 2,000 members of the Barr Colony from Great Britain who arrived there in the latter part of that month, before starting the journey across nearly 200 miles of practically uninhabited prairie, using horse and ox-drawn wagons for transportation? I would also like to know the population of Edmonton, Alta., in 1903—A. C. D.

A.—Available figures nearest the date in which you are interested show that in 1901 Saskatoon was divided into two parts, East Saskatoon having 179 residents and West Saskatoon, 311. Alberta became a province in 1905 and it is impossible to get population figures much before that date because Alberta was considered a settlement and only total population was recorded. Edmonton became a city in 1904 and records show a population of 7,000. The accelerated growth of Edmonton began in 1898 when it became a supply base for miners of the Klondike gold rush.

TODAY, SCHOOLGIRLS; TOMORROW, MODELS AT THE EMPRESS

These six sprightly schoolgirls won't be wearing their St. Ann's Secondary School uniforms the next time they model. This is just a practice. The girls have organized a fashion show to be held in the Empress, Tuesday at 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. Roma will provide the clothes and the girls are doing the rest of the work themselves. Proceeds will go to the Canadian Organization for Peace and Development. The fashion show started as a Grade 10 project and now the whole school is involved. Mathilda Displays Signs of Spring

By PENNY SAVER

The young chestnut tree that will someday over-run Mathilda's yard was under close scrutiny from its owner when I dropped by unexpectedly the other day. "See those leaves?" she asked. I regarded them closely: They were young and tender, just beginning to harden in the warm noon sun. "Yesterday that was just a bud," Mathilda explained impressively. I distinctly remember seeing it yesterday being all white and bud-like. Now it's leaves. Penny, spring has finally come to Victoria."

It was just then that a dry-cleaner's truck pulled up in front of her house and the driver hopped out with a big bill and a heavy pile of dresses, suits and coats. Mathilda and I staggered into the house under the load and she began to sort them into piles. "Another sign of spring," she commented, heading for a drawer. "You will now get to watch the winter wardrobe going into estivation." What Mathilda meant was that she was putting all her winter weight clothes away for the summer so they would stay clean and fresh for next fall. To do this she had stocked up on protective garment bags.

Take Several Dresses

The bags Mathilda had bought are all made of heavy-weight transparent vinyl. These bags are gussetted so they will take more than one garment and will protect against dust, dirt and damp. The hangers come out the top of the bag so you can hang the clothes in the back of the closet and not have to worry about wrinkles that are months old. For dresses and coats she used bags that cost $2.29 each. These are 24 inches wide and 54 inches long. A 52 inch zipper in the front of each bag makes it easy to insert or remove a garment. This size bag will take two coats or several dresses. For suits there are similar bags 40 inches long for $1.50. Needless to say, these bags hold spring and summer dresses when the winter wardrobe is restored to life in the fall.

It's gardening weather again, not to mention spring cleaning weather which means it is time for women to look to their knees. Continued kneeling on a hard, rough surface can make knees, which are unlovely at their best, look terrible so the wise woman will invest in a kneeling pad. I saw some lovely ones for 59 cents. These are made of foam and must be at least an inch and a half thick. They are completely washable and come in a variety of colors. These pads can be also used as cushions indoors, on the patio or in the boat.

If you would like to know where to find these items, please call 382-3131 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Lowman

Get into your stride today! Don't wait! Enjoy this lovely day to which you have fallen heir. Life is fleeting at best and every single day is fraught with beauty if your eyes are open and your heart is aware.

Control your life. Don't let it manage you. This can happen so easily unless we discard activities which mean little to us but take a great toll of energy, and learn to shrug off or view with humor the many upsetting things which happen in daily life.

We must get into our stride both physically and mentally. But getting into our stride physically I mean learning to organize and streamline our activities, thereby cutting out laborious procedures and roundabout ways to objectives. I mean choosing wisely how to spend our energy, realizing that we have only a limited amount.

Getting into our stride mentally and emotionally means stopping the waste of vital energy in useless worry. It is amazing how many persons spend the greater part of their lives stewing about nothing or worrying about something which will never happen.

If we investigate the lives of those who seem to accomplish so much with a minimum of energy, who never seem to tire, we are apt to discover that they have learned to slough off the non-essentials to save their energy for important matters and to refuse to be swept into fatigue by the impatience, discord or hurry of those about them.

Worry is such a damaging habit! It affects not only our personality but our health. It can kill us! I think we often forget what a strong hold this habit can have on one. Haven't you known people who live in a constant state of apprehension and fretting and worry? This outlook can become a habit stronger than nail-biting. You will not get into your stride unless you kick the worry habit!

If you have this problem you may want my leaflet "Worry" which gives you psychological suggestions to help you. If so, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Woman's Virtue Her Greatest Gift?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "WAITING" — the 41-year-old virgin — to keep waiting. A woman's virginity is still the greatest gift she can offer a man in marriage. Even though a man makes excuses for himself, he still prefers a virgin for a wife. Please don't conclude from my signature that I know nothing about life. I was in the business world for over 30 years before I became a priest.—Respectfully, SAN DIEGO PRIEST.

DEAR ABBY: For "WAITING": Lady, you are to be commended. Don't let a clod sell you. If he says, if you don't give him what he wants, he will go elsewhere — let him. He will be doing you a big favor. — R. B., OKLAHOMA CITY.

DEAR ABBY: Why all the emphasis on virginity? A man who insists that he be the "one and only" probably does so because he doesn't want the woman he marries to be able to make comparisons and find him lacking. Me? I don't have that problem. — A MAN NAMED "MANN".

DEAR ABBY: I am a U.S. serviceman with 18 years' service and three overseas tours of duty, and all my life I've practised a code of morality some call "Victorian." I've taken tremendous ridicule for it, and I freely admit, it hasn't always been easy. I married a wonderful girl who held the same moral principles as I, and I cannot begin to express the closeness, trust and warmth of feeling it has brought to our lives. We've been married 16 years and have six fine children, and we're still "in love." — OLD SARGE, Vanderberg AFB, Calif.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to "WAITING," who claims she's been on her own since 17, lived abroad, is romantic, sensitive, and not ugly. She has got to be kidding! I'm all for purity, but at age 41, what kind of a "prize" does she think she's going to give a man?

No man, for example, is going to ask a Chinese girl, whose feet have been bound since infancy, to go on a hike with him. She'd be lucky to be able to walk around the block. And marriage is a long hike, — COMPASSIONATE IN L.A.

DEAR ABBY: Please forward to "WAITING": My advice to you is to go out in the country, buy a little farm, and start raising chickens. One rooster and a half dozen hens will do. Feed them yourself and keep your eyes open. You'll notice that the hens always run away from the rooster, but they never run so far or so fast that they avoid getting caught. Try it. You'll be glad you did. With love. — AN OLD ROOSTER.

DEAR ABBY: For "WAITING"; Maybe there is a Santa Claus, but a body is not a gift — unless, of course, you are Dr. Frankenstein. — ADOLPH G., L.A.

Job Situation Bad for Women Grads

By SUSAN RILEY and ROBIN BURGESS

Ah, the female graduate. Tripping across a lawn in the spring sun, robe flapping, clutching a rolled-up degree which cost a lot of money and four years. . . .

"Where are you going, young female graduate?"

Many of the girls graduating from University of Victoria this spring won't be able to tell you. Some will just smile and wave a diamond. Others will launch into a description of a trip to Europe, San Francisco — anywhere.

And a few will have permanent jobs lined up. But few will have permanent jobs in Victoria.

Statistics Scanty

If you're looking for statistics there are none. Canada Manpower's student placement office does not keep records on how many get jobs and where. Often students get jobs through manpower interviews and don't tell the student placement office about it, and others get jobs on their own without going to manpower.

But manpower officials agree that there is a dearth of jobs in Victoria for the female graduate. And "mobility" is a big factor in getting a job.

In other words the majority of female grads must leave the city. The exception is teaching. But even then competition for teaching is "pretty stiff." Many will end up in Comox, Port Alberni and smaller towns.

Degree Not Needed

"There are not many opportunities for the graduate here," said Athal Lenne, manpower official.

"There is no local industry which is interested in degree persons. They just want those who can type and pump gas," said E. R. Fleming, student placement officer.

Of 10 girls interviewed, only two have jobs lined up.

Linda Langley is doing management training at the Bay in June. She's training to be a buyer.

"They've just started taking girls as buyers. They used to take only boys with economics and commerce majors. So I'm lucky."

Another girl has a job teaching.

"Some go into family business," said Mr. Fleming. But not many.

Besides, a Toronto student is just as likely to be hired as someone from Victoria, for one of the few jobs here.

"It's the residential nature of the city and the composition," said Mr. Fleming.

Douglas Street is simply not wall-to-wall public relations, advertising, and commercial offices like Bloor in Toronto or Granville in Vancouver.

Double Dagger

And there's a double dagger in this for the local grad. Because Victoria is such a nice place to live, people with degrees and experience come here looking for work Mr. Fleming said.

What about the provincial government? There are some openings. The difficulty is that applications for these positions come from all over the province and are treated equally with qualifications, not place of birth, being the only criteria. The competition is healthy.

And as Mr. Fleming said, local companies though encouraged to recruit from the university, just don't have positions for grads.

No Branch Offices

All the big national companies send representatives to campuses all over the country looking for grads. Again stiff competition. But few big companies have branches in Victoria.

This limits the already small field for the still-wet-behind - the-professional-ears student.

Well, there's always teaching. True. Last year the Greater Victoria school board hired about 125 women. But not all were Uvic grads.

Again, the teacher with equal education plus experience had an advantage.

Many grads from the education course at Uvic stay on the Island, but only the lucky ones get Victoria.

Ten University of Victoria girls in their final year of an undergraduate program were contacted. This isn't by any means a statistically valid sampling but there are similiarities in their answers and opinions.

After four years of sitting in classrooms and libraries some hear the call of travel.

"I'm sort of tired of university. I want to take a year off and work—probably travel" —Kathleen Wooley, biology major.

"I want to travel to Europe in September and after that it's fingers crossed (for a job in the fall)"—Wendy Milne, history major.

"I won't start looking for a job for about a year. I want to travel in Canada . . ." Susan Vaulkhard, English major.

And gaining momentum is the get-more-education push. Some female grads are feeling the pressure.

'Get Your MA'

"I'm hoping to go into the professional year (post-grad teacher training) I wasn't really interested in the education course to begin with. I wanted an overall look at English. Now if I change my mind about teaching, I can go and do personnel work." Ethel Arnold, history and English major.

"In B.C. it's hard for a Bachelor of Science to get a job — for a woman anyway. Now they're telling us a B.Sc isn't enough.

"You've got to have a PhD to get anywhere" — Kathleen Wooley.

"Right now I'm planning to get my Master's degree in psychology. The kids I know have graduated in psycholgy have jobs but not in psychology. To go anywhere you have to have a master's degree." Maureen Edge, psychology.

"There's really not much offered in the way of jobs. Sales and merchandising mostly. This is why a lot of girls go back and take their professional year." Judith Goodsell, anthropology and biology.

So, if a girl graduate wants a job in advertising, media, fashion, writing — many careers, she only has one choice.

Kiss Beacon Hill Park, Centennial Square and Victoria good bye.

Competition Is Good

By DOROTHY RICH

Competition is a fact of life. It can be good in proper doses; it can be bad when it's overdone. Either way, children have to learn to live with it, and parents and teachers can help.

Dr. Richard Louttit, chief of behavioral science research at the National Institute of Mental Health, cites a study which indicates the ability to cope with adult problems is improved if, in youth, a person has gone through a series of stresses that he has learned to resolve.

This is in contrast to earlier thinking that encouraged parents and teachers to protect children from competition and other stressful situations.

Schools need to examine the state of stress in their own classrooms. Teachers are often guilty of offering a lot of losing chances but not enough chances for winning.

Competition is bad when all it does is separate losers from winners with the aim of keeping the number of winners small and losers big.

Parents need to be able to read the signs of stress in their children. Dr. Milton Glatt, Washington, D.C., child psychiatrist, makes these points:

When your child comes home saying, "I didn't get a part in the play" or "I'm always the last one picked for the team" or "I never get an A on my paper," you need to be ready to respond in a constructive, objective, yet sympathetic, way.

Before responding, ask yourself: What is my child really saying? Is he telling me that he is unhappy? That he expects me to be disappointed? Or, is he just reporting a fact of life? You should not assume your child feels the same way you do about the situation. Over-identifying with him and projecting your feelings on him may be misleading and harmful.

'No Dramatic Cuts' After Budget Slap

By ED GOULD

DUNCAN—Overwhelming defeat Saturday of the school board's extra spending program doesn't mean there will be drastic changes in the education system here.

"There certainly will not be any dramatic cuts like suddenly lopping off the entire kindergarten program or something like that," school board chairman Bruce Devitt said today.

Only 34 per cent of 8,200 eligible voters turned out to the polls Saturday to reject the board's $366,000 bylaw by 1,781 to 1,022.

A 60 per cent majority was required to pass it. About 36 per cent voted yes.

CEILING ONLY

The bylaw represented the amount above a provincially-imposed ceiling the board wanted to spend on this year's operating costs. Trustees are now left with an operating budget of only the ceiling limit.

Devitt said the defeat should not be construed as a non-confidence motion in the school board.

"I would like first of all to assure the teachers, board members and parents that nothing drastic will be cut from the program, but as an individual I feel we should now take the bull by the horns and see just what can be cut."

The subject of the bylaw will be the main item of business at a school board meeting tonight.

Mayor Jim Quaife blamed the defeat on the teachers because they used "scare tactics" through propaganda pamphlets sent home with school children. He questioned the teachers' presence in the campaign at all.

"It's like the city crew going out soliciting for or against a bylaw involving them. It's all right to endorse something but I certainly would not appreciate or expect interference."

Referring to Quaife's charges, Devitt said: "I don't think Mr. Quaife is correct in blaming the teachers. I think it was more a combination of things, revolt against higher taxes on sewer and water for example."

Trustee Margaret Whittaker, who opposed the bylaw from the start, said the present board of trustees should continue on the job only if they feel they can retain the essentials of the current program.

"If they feel they can't do that then they should quit and let someone on the board who can," she said.

PUBLIC APOLOGY

She also said the "bad publicity" aroused by the teachers was partly due to a pamphlet produced by the information committee of the school board.

"The school board or members of that committee should publicly apologize for what was a very bad move on their part," she said.

The teachers, meanwhile, refused to comment on charges by Mayor Quaife that their "interference" had led to the defeat of the bylaw.

"We will release a statement in due course," said public relations officer Bill Murray. "At the present time we do not wish to get involved in a verbal battle with anyone."

Tofino Rejects Extra Bill

TOFINO — The Tofino-Ucluelet school board must trim $105,848 from this year's operating budget of $459,475.

Voters refused to give the school board the 60 per cent "yes" vote for the extra spending Saturday. While 86 cast votes for it, 68 were opposed.

That left the referendum eight votes short of the required 60 per cent majority required. The vote was made necessary because trustees wanted to exceed the spending ceiling set by the provincial government and Tofino and Ucluelet councils declined to support the extra spending.

Opposition to the above-ceiling spending was centred at Tofino. Only 29 yes votes were cast there while there were 42 against. In Ucluelet, 57 voted yes and 26 no.

Amalgamation Urged On Lantzville Area

NANAIMO (CP) — Mayor Frank Ney told nearby Lantzville ratepayers Nanaimo may double within the next 10 to 15 years and invited them to consider amalgamating with the city.

Integration of the area would make available more money for recreation facilities and do away with duplication of many services, he said.

11% Turn Out At Sooke To Pass Bylaw

A handful of voters in the Sooke school district turned out Saturday to approve a $2 million building program over the next three years.

About 11 per cent of eligible ratepayers produced a 73 per cent return affirmative vote —646 yes to 238 no. A 60 per cent majority was needed.

Government grants will provide about three-quarters of the $2 million. Voters agreed to long-term financing of the balance.

The funds are needed to provide classrooms and equipment for a predicted 36 per cent enrolment increase over the next three years. There are now 5,000 pupils in the school district, which stretches from Colwood to Jordan River.

Of 13 polling stations, only the one at Jordan River rejected the referendum, said returning officer Mrs. M. E. Colclough. There the vote was two yes and five no.

GRATEFUL

School board chairman Fred Willway said today trustees were grateful to those who supported the referendum. The board will decide next month the priorities in the building program.

The disappointing turnout raises again the question of referendums being abolished some day, he added.

"Why should $6,000 be spent to bring out one voter in 10?"

The department of education, which will pay for 75 per cent of the program, isn't going to approve any spending that isn't necessary, he suggested.

It's a healthy thing for the school board to have to go before the people and explain what it wants to do and he personally is not opposed to referendums, said Willway.

"But there's the danger that if the people don't turn out, they're going to lose the privilege."

Draft Campaign Dropped At Request of Strachan

Cowichan-Malahat NDP Association has abandoned its draft-Strachan campaign.

A spokesman for the group, Mrs. Barbara Wallace of Cedar, said today the matter was dropped "at Mr. Strachan's request."

Provincial NDP Leader Robert Strachan last year announced his retirement from party leadership he has held for 13 years. A new leader is to be chosen by a convention in April.

Three main candidates are MLAs Tom Berger, Dave Barrett and Robert Williams. But recently, despite Strachan's announced decision that he could not accept a draft, Dave Stupich (NDP—Nanaim0) said he would ask Strachan to reconsider.

Subsequently it was announced by Lake Cowichan NDP Association an attempt would be made to draft Strachan. And the executive of the Cowichan-Malahat NDP Association voted unanimously to ask him to continue as leader. The decision was to be ratified by association members Sunday at Duncan.

Mrs. Wallace, a member of the party's provincial council said the question was not considered at the meeting.

She thought the draft-Strachan movement was finished.

"It may come up at the convention although it's a very slim hope," she added.

Makes Rough Wrinkled Necks Smoother

If your throat is rough, wrinkled and old looking let me suggest you apply a delightful lotion-like substance you can get at any drug or department store. It's called 2nd Debut and it exclusively contains the Wiesbaden Discovery known scientifically as CEF 600 which carries needed moisture into and under the skin. Not only is wrinkled, loose flabby skin pushed up and made smooth again but at the same time the aging look of a crepe paper throat disappears and you look years younger fast. You can also get "2nd Debut" with CEF 1200 for double strength moisturizing action. Remember the name . . . 2nd Debut.

Discrimination Claim Investigated by Mayor

DUNCAN—Mayor Jim Quaife said today he is investigating a report that band manager Victor Underwood of East Saanich Reserve was refused hotel accommodation here recently.

The mayor, who declined to name the hotel, said the incident occurred while Underwood was attending a workshop on planning of co-operatives arranged by the Department of Indian Affairs at Moose Home on Lakes Road.

The Cowichan Indian Band has protested to the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Quaife said.

He said discrimination exists in Duncan and called on merchants to employ more Indians.

"These people have every right to become a part of this community. Indians are becoming better qualified and educated and the merchants should do their part in assuring that they are involved in the community," he said.

COMMUNICATION GAP WIDENING, SAYS INDIAN

Classroom Textbooks 'Downright Insulting'

DUNCAN — "Indians need to revive their image—not to live it, but to teach it," an Indian spokesman said here on the weekend.

John Thomas, ex-chief of the Nitinahts from Ucluelet, delivered a brief on human rights to civic and Indian affairs officials in Duncan.

He met Provincial Museum director Dr. Clifford Carl and Roderick McInnes, director of the Indian Advisory Act, in Victoria this morning.

The brief was presented earlier to the Canadian Conference on Human Rights in Ottawa.

A member of the Canadian Baha'i community, Thomas has travelled across Canada in recent weeks presenting the brief and speaking to community leaders and students.

●

"The stereotype image of the Indian has widened the communication gap between Indian and non-Indian more and more each year," he said in an interview. "Some textbooks used in classrooms today are not only embarrassing to the Indian student but are downright insulting.

"We must change this image in this generation or it will never be changed, it will be too late."

This change should come about quietly and not be effected by pressure-group tactics, Thomas said. He said more than one-third of all Canadian Bahai's are of Indian ancestry. No over-all figure was available, but unofficial sources place the number around 12,000.

●

The brief presented an excellent opportunity for legislative action to help correct the loss of identity the Indian feels because of his own and others' image of the Indian as a dirty, unreliable, ignorant individual, Thomas said.

The brief proposes that in federally-operated Indian schools, the teaching language should initially be the mother tongue of the pupils with provision for phasing into English or French in later grades. Qualified Indian and Eskimo representatives should be included in the membership of the bodies in charge of selecting textbooks, films and other educational materials.

It said ample time should be made available in the regular curriculum of federal schools for the study of native culture. A concerted effort also should be made to recruit and train Indian and Eskimo personnel both for elementary instruction in native languages and for courses in the native cultures.

Dayan Pondering Leadership Move

By JAMES FERON

JERUSALEM — While Defence Minister Moshe Dayan ponders his political future, a "Dayan for Premier" movement is gathering strength in Israel.

Dayan supporters have moved from collecting signatures on street corners to soliciting for them on a large scale in newspaper advertisements.

There has never been any doubt about Dayan's popularity but this backing is now finding expression for the first time as a serious political movement.

This has surprised many political leaders who thought they saw a budding Dayan movement squelched in the negotiations that brought Mrs. Golda Meir to power as the late Levi Eshkol's successor.

Some believe, however, that the frustration felt by many younger Israelis over this continuation of old guard leadership only spurred the campaign to bring Dayan to power.

The movement has become enough of a factor for the leaders of the Labor Party, of which both Mrs. Meir and Dayan are members to ask the Premier and Pinhas Sapir, the party's secretary general, to meet with Dayan and find out what he's up to.

But the defence minister himself may not be able to answer that queston. In a reflective mood recently he told Haifa students what his friends say he has been discussing in private.

"I am a man of the labor movement, despite the fact that I am made to feel an alien inside the party," he told the students.

"I have very strong reservations about splitting the pary (by running for premier on a new ticket). But I am so divided against the party leadership that I would not have trouble leaving it.

When he said that he had to choose for the future "inside the party or outside it," there was loud applause. It suggested clearly that he was considering forming his own party.

According to Dayan's friends, his dilemma is based in part on a disinclination to withdraw from major responsibility for Israel's security, a move that might follow a decision to run for the premiership outside the governing Labor Party.

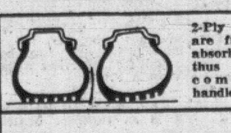
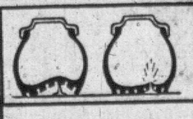
SUPERWIDE OVAL

Two stiff belts of Fiberglas hold the tread firmly on the road to reduce squirm, the main cause of tire wear.



2-Ply nylon sidewalls are free to flex and absorb road shocks, thus your car becomes easier to handle.



Fiberglas cord is 2½ times stronger than any other tire cord; as a result you get greater protection against tread penetrations.

Tests prove it—Allstate Superwide Ovals with Fiberglas Belts give double the mileage of ordinary tires. Two stiff bands of Fiberglas under the tread hold it firm to prevent squirm, the main cause of tire wear.

- 20% wider tread puts bigger footprint on the road for better traction under all conditions.
- 7-rib tread has thousands of tiny grooves for safe traction on wet roads.
- Twin Red tripes on one side, twin White on the other.
- Tested and proved at speeds over 100 m.p.h.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Jim: "You have told me that by 1930 expert contract bidding had begun to take shape. How far along had you come?"

Oswald: "We worked on finding 4-4 fits. The oldtimers despised four-card suits and it took us youngsters to get around to bidding them. One weakness of everyone's, though, was their unwillingness to compete on mere distribution."

Jim: "Playing with Hal Sims, Willard Karn and Lee Langdon, you lost the finals of the 1930 knockout team championship to Ely and Jo Culbertson playing with Lightner and Van Zedtwitz. How about some hands from that match?"

Oswald: "We might start with board eight. Bidding was the same at both tables and each West opened the jack of diamonds. This produced the queen, king and ace. Declarer proceeded to draw trumps and wound up making three because he could lead up to both the nine of diamonds and the king of hearts."

Jim: "I see what you mean about lack of competition. East doesn't have much of a hand but most modern players would stick in a negative double of the two-spade bid. The Culbertson staff commented that East and West could make four hearts but that there was no way to get into the bidding."

Oswald: "The analysis wasn't correct. It wasn't hard for North and South to wait for declarer to play diamonds, whereupon the best East and West could do was to make three hearts. Chances are that if East did double two spades and West bid four hearts, that North and South would wind up taking a phantom save at four spades doubled."

METCHOSIN
4 BEDROOMS AND FAMILY ROOM

This beautiful 3-year-old family home is located in a lovely wooded area. The large living rom and L-shaped dining room have new wall-to-wall carpeting, and feature an especially fine walnut panelling on one wall. Sliding glass doors lead to a pleasant sundeck. The cherry all-electric kitchen has plenty of "different" walnut cabinets. Also on the main floor are 3 bedrooms and a spacious vanity bathroom. Downstairs off the main entry is another bedroom and a 13.6x22 family room (would you like a pool table) with an unusual attractive stone fireplace. From here, sliding glass doors lead to a patio, just asking for children and outdoor summer living. Close to schools.

MOVING THIS SUMMER? TO COLWOOD? THEN READ ON . . .

I have just listed a beautiful home on a quiet cul-de-sac, close to schools. The owner is transferred but wishes to leave his family here until school ends. Possession will be July 1st. The home is 3 years old, with double door entry, in line living and dining room with feature wall inwalnut panelling, a big bright kitchen with many cupboards, fan over range, a beautiful vanity bathroom with huge mirror, and 3 very good sized bedrooms on main floor. Hardwood floors throughout. The basement is well developed with a dandy rumpus room, extra bedroom, and 2-pce. bath. Indoor-outdoor carpet on the floors. There is a workshop with bench, and full laundry facilities. Exterior is white stucco and siding, with carport, and lot is extremely well landscaped with many shrubs and fully fenced rear yard. Now — if you have to sell your home, we will list it now for sale, and if it is not sold by July 1st, we will guarantee to purchase it from you if it is suitable and terms can be negotiated to suit you and our firm. This price is $28,900 with about $15,500 still remaining at 7¾ per cent. If your equity or down payment is less than required we can refinance this home for you. What could be easier? PRICES ARE TERRIBLE AREN'T THEY?

It's getting so that a man with a REALLY BIG family just can't buy a home that he can afford unless the kids share bedrooms and line up at the ONE bathroom to wait their turn. But once again that man DON BACON has come up with the answer. At 1631 Kings Road there is a stucco home with SIX BEDROOMS and TWO BATHROOMS at a price you CAN afford. The bedrooms aren't big mind you, but there ARE six of them. There is also a DEN and a LARGE FAMILY dining room. Big laundry room ON THE MAIN FLOOR to save mother steps. The lot is rather narrow (meaning low taxes), but it goes back 130 feet, so that there is ample place for small children to play. Fruit trees, too. Two blocks to OAKLAND SCHOOL, and walking distance to Lansdowne Jr. High Full basement with workshop for dad. Rewired and OOM heat. Can you imagine getting all this for only $18,900? The line forms on the right for appointments to view. Call DON BACON, 385-2458.

HOME GARDEN

Selecting Those Annuals

By HILDA BEASTALL

There is a growing need for planters and tubs in ground-level decoration of paved areas, and for balconies on high-rises. Most

Hilda

Most people like to have something gay and colorful in these containers and are willing to plant them each spring with annuals, knowing that frost will put an end to them.

For sunny positions zonal geraniums or ivy-leaf geraniums are good, although costing more than other bedding plants.

Petunias cannot be beaten for ease of culture since they will stand heat, need no removal of old blossoms and do not wilt if left without a daily watering in hot weather.

For bronze, yellow and orange tones in sun, various hybrid marigolds fill the planters.

Dwarf French marigolds are only six inches high with masses of small flowers; while there are intermediate heights of 10 to 12 inches in large flowered Arfican marigolds.

Planters exposed to summer winds will need low growing annuals. Tall ones will take off and land somewhere along the block.

A year or so of experience with a few different annuals will reveal one or two kinds perfectly suited to your particular needs.

Experiment a little with some of the gorgeous South African daisies, dimorphotheca, ursinia or gazania. They love heat and sun.

Also portulaca may be useful. The colors are endless and the flowers exquisite in form.

Shady spots are more difficult to plant with annuals, since they must have plenty of sun to fulfil their destiny in one short season.

Pansies, nicotines and in partial sun perhaps schizanthus the Butterfly-flower will be successful.

YOUR HEALTH

People Who Go Through Cycles

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Some persons, while sane enough to live useful lives, tend to go through cycles in which they are either abnormally energetic, keyed-up, ambitious, social and talkative, or else abnormally quiet, moody, uncommunicative, unhappy, discouraged and tired. If such a person, on his swing back from depression, crosses the line into hypomania (hypo meaning under normal, and mania meaning an excited state) as a few do, he may for a time work too hard not only at his proper job, but also at his hobbies.

Alvarez

Going at top speed day and night without bothering to sleep much, he may accomplish more than two or three ordinary persons do: his brain may seethe with ingenious ideas, and because of his enthusiasm, the facile flow of his thoughts and words, and his certainty that some cause he has espoused is righteous and bound to succeed, he may be unusually successful in persuading his fellows to invest in something or buy something, or join him in some enterprise.

* * *

Salesmen and life insurance agents, during their spells of euphoria (good feeling) may do wonderfully well. I remember a man of this type who, in a spell of hypomania, got an idea which was highly remunerative in his business. Later, during a spell of depression, he became so neglectful of his work that his employers dismissed him.

I doubt if they or the man's physicians ever thought of him as anything but unusually bright and a bit erratic, but as I drew from him his life-story, it was easy to see that for years he had been up and down as a mild manic-depressive. He saw it then clearly as he had never seen it before. This knowledge helped him to be a successful man.

* * *

Another person of this type, when in a euphoric period, is a brilliant conversationalist and a delightful hostess; her brain then teems with ideas; she talks rapidly, she stays up half the night and, to work off energy, she writes books and magazine articles. These contain brilliant passages and vivid imagery, but she rarely bothers to finish them and get them published.

Perhaps partly because of this overdoing and lack of rest, she later slumps into a gloomy spell in which for months she hibernates and does little. If, when in a euphoric spell, she is warned not to do so much, she says that she must work fast and get things done while accomplishment is easy, because the time will soon come when it will be difficult for her to do anything.

* * *

To show how a person can slip into manic or depressive episodes, a stenographer I knew, who was previously shy and retiring, overnight became restless and talkative. Quickly she became a leader in civic work. She looked better than she had ever looked before; she had boundless energy; she never got tired; she stayed up late every night; she became the life of every party, and she became an unusually successful saleswoman. She talked rapidly; she was always vivacious, witty, laughing and charming.

However, after five months of this she began to get argumentative and irritable. Her speech became somewhat confused, and she would not finish sentences. She became erratic and finally got so bad she had to be placed in a mental hospital. Eight months later she was out of the hospital and her normal self again.

FLASHBACK ON CANADA

Newfoundland Proved Real Reluctant Bride

By BOB BOWMAN

When Governor-General Lord Dufferin visited Prince Edward Island in 1873 to extend a greeting to Canada's newest province there was a banner at the entrance to Charlottetown that read: Long Courted: Won at Last! It had taken six years to get "the island" to join Canada.

Bowman

However, Newfoundland was the most reluctant bride and took 82 years to say "yes." Although Newfoundland sent delegates to the Quebec conference in 1864 and seemed interested in the prospect of becoming part of Canada at that time, the Confederation party was trounced in an election in 1869.

Another effort was made in 1894 when Newfoundland was suffering from a depression caused by a bank failure. This time Canada was unwilling to meet Newfoundland's terms.

Opponents of Confederation of Newfoundland had a favorite song:

Men, Hurrah for our own native isle,
Newfoundland,
Not a stranger shall hold one inch of
Her strand;
Her face turns to Britain, her back
To the Gulf.
Come near at your peril,
Canadian wolf!

However, the depression in the 1930's caused Newfoundland to lose its status as the oldest Dominion in the British Commonwealth, and a special commission was appointed to govern. There were more millionaires in St. John's, per capita, than there were in Houston, Texas, but many of the Newfoundland people had never seen a $5 bill.

Canada and Newfoundland worked closely together in the Second World War to help win the vital Battle of the Atlantic, and in 1946 a national convention was established to make recommendations for the future. On July 22, 1948, a referendum was held to decide whether or not to join Canada and the result was 78,323 in favor, and 71,334 opposed.

Newfoundland became part of Canada officially on March 31, 1949. Joseph R. Smallwood, who had led the movement for Confederation, became the first premier and has remained in office since then.

Other events on March 31;

1713—Britain regained Nova Scotia from France by Treaty of Utrecht.

1831—Quebec and Montreal were incorporated as cities.

1854—Railway opened between Truro and Pictou, N.S.

1857—British government arranged survey of western Canada by John Palliser.

1872—First issue of Toronto "Mail".

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Tim Eberhart, age 11, of Carleton, Michigan, for his question: What is the life story of the barracuda?

There are 18 or 20 members of the barracuda fish family. Though most of them prefer life in tropical and semi-tropical oceans, some are found off the temperate shores of Massachusetts and others in the chilly ocean around Alaska. Their life cycles are somewhat mysterious though we know that young barracudas grow at a great rate.

Barracudas 18 inches long hunt in the Atlantic as far north as Massachusetts. Five-foot barracudas haunt the balmy waters of the Mediterranean. A four-foot barracuda is caught in the Pacific from Alaska to Lower California and sent to market as a food fish. Compared with the giant of the family, these fellows are rated as gentle little lambs. The great barracuda is called the tiger-of-the-sea. In all fairness he deserves every word in his ferocious title.

This fishy monster is found in warm and tropical seas all around the globe. He looks like a long, slim silvery torpedo. His long, pointed snout has a jutting lower jaw that gives him a fierce expression. Both jaws have rows of razor-sharp teeth and toward the front there are several large fang-type teeth. There may be one or two in the lower front jaw and five or six in the jaw above them. He uses these teeth like a sea-going Jack the-Ripper.

The big fellow may be six or eight feet long and weigh around 100 pounds. He is built for speed and agility, well known as a ferocious killer and even a cannibal. But the most remarkable thing about him is his cleverness. Unlike most fishes, he hunts by vision rather than smell. His huge, bright round eyes have a cruel stare and human swimmers report that he seems to watch them shrewdly while making his plans to attack. He is full of fearless curiosity and always ready to attack any living thing moving in the water. Often he conceals himself, watching from under a raft of floating seaweed. Many observers report his skill at rounding up herds of small fishes, sweeping them together with flashing spurts almost too fast to be seen. When ready, he plunges through the terrified herd and gobbles his fill.

Live Food Diet

People who know him avoid him and even marine biologists know very little about his life story. He appears fully-grown in great numbers off the West Indies. Baby barracuda about half an inch long are taken in large numbers from the plankton around the Florida Keys. By June they are two inches long. This leads biologists to suspect that the parents spawn in early spring and many of them use the warm waters of southern Florida as their breeding grounds. It is thought that their fertilized eggs are strewn around to hatch in the floating seaweed and plankton. Later, the youngsters that survive grow strong enough to venture farther out to sea.

The two inch barracuda babies are fragile fishes that soon perish without proper care. They must be bathed in a constant stream of sea water to keep them alive. The hungry creatures must be fed on a diet of live, moving fish food — and they grow very fast. In a well-tended aquarium, a young barracuda 12 inches long doubled his size in 10 months. We do not know whether he grows this fast in the ocean or whether he tends to travel certain ocean routes as he matures. We do not know at what age he reaches the maturity of parenthood or how long he can expect to live.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Dan Duelbar, age 10, of Vienna, Ohio, for his question: Is there such a thing as a bottomless pit?

Our planet is a solid ball. If a bottomless pit were possible, it would be a tunnel clear through the globe and out the other side. It would be about 8,000 miles long and nobody would be able to tell which exit was the top or the bottom. So even this impossible hole could not be called a bottomless pit. We live on the very surface of the globe, whose outer skin of crusty rock is 20-40 miles thick. The deepest known hole is 6¼ miles below the ocean floor and even that has a solid bottom.

fun with figures

"You've got money," Jill told her brother. "Loan me a quarter."

Jack shook his head. "I don't have that much. If you multiply it by its last figure and then subtract 85 cents you'll get twice what I have."

How much did he have?

Thanks for an idea to L. G. O'Hara, Cork, Eire.

Bonaventure Repair Bill 'Scandalous'

By DAL WARRINGTON

HALIFAX (CP) — Members of the Commons public accounts committee Friday described as "shocking" the cost estimates prepared by the federal defence production department for a recent $13,000,000 refit of the aircraft carrier Bonaventure.

Committee chairman Alfred D. Hales, Conservative MP for Wellington, said the committee "learned plenty" in a three-hour inspection of the ship at the naval dockyard here.

Norman A. Cafix, Liberal member for Ontario, produced a sheaf of what he said were defence production work specifications and estimates. They showed such figures as $776.60 for expected cost of fixing a drawer and putting new hinges on a metal wardrobe aboard the ship.

Other estimates:

- $258.20 for "minor" repairs to an 18-by-24-inch medicine cabinet.
- $61.90 for repairs to a cabinet door pull.
- $734.40 for minor repairs to a wooden desk.
- $450.20 for fixing a wardrobe door and lock.
- $700 for replacing one berth drawer, repairing two drawers and replacing one drawer handle.

Mr. Hales said the estimates were so out of line as to be "scandalous for the modest kind of repairs involved." The work was done in refurbishing crew accommodations aboard the carrier.

Alberta Explains Incarceration

EDMONTON (CP) — Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart said Friday in the legislature he wished to clarify the status of a man held in an Alberta mental hospital 22 years after being declared sane.

Charged with murder in the 1938 slaying of an 18-month-old son and a seven-year-old niece, the man was held in hospital until 1946 when he was adjudged sane and faced trial. He was found not guilty by reason of insanity at the time the children were slain but the court ordered that he should be held in custody at the pleasure of the lieutenant-governor.

SECURES RELEASE

He was released last year following an appeal to Alberta ombudsman George McClellan.

Mr. Gerhart quoted from a Canadian Press Ottawa story March 26 on a meeting of the Commons justice committee which referred to the person as an innocent man who had been held under warrant.

Mr. Gerhart suggested that the word innocent probably resulted from the original story being rewritten "about 53 times."

EASY ERROR

"It was an easy error to make but leaves a wrong impression and should be corrected," he said.

"There is a great deal of difference between being judged innocent and innocent by reason of insanity."

Had the man not been judged not guilty by reason of insanity "he would have been hanged which is what they were doing in such cases in those days," Mr. Gerhart said.

Buyers Gain Farmers Lose In Price War

A seven-week study by a committee of the legislature has found the consumer is gaining and the farmer losing on sale of agriculture products.

In a report tabled in the legislature Friday by committee chairman Willis Jefcoat (SC—Shuswap), the committee found that in general terms:

- The farmer or producer receives a smaller percentage of the consumer dollar than he did 10 years ago;
- "The major benefits from mechanization have resulted in holding down consumer prices rather than any major improvement to the financial return to the primary producer."
- Greater organizational use is needed in the approach to marketing and the co-operative purchase of farm equipment and supplies in lower-priced bulk colume.

The committee also recommended that it study the problem of taxation problems on farm lands at the 1970 session of the legislature.

Founding Member Of Arion Club Dies in Seattle

K. J. Middleton, one of the last surviving founders of the Arion Club, died Thursday in Seattle at the age of 96.

Born in England in 1873, he came to Canada in 1887 as a Hudson's Bay Co. apprentice. While living in Victoria he sang in a quartet that included John Greig, Howard Russell and Percy Williston in the Colonist Hotel on Simcoe St.

The group was the nucleus of the Arion Club when it formed in 1893. In 1897 Middleton moved to Tacoma to work for Bodwell Shipping Co., of which he later became manager. While in Tacoma he founded the Orpheus Club, another choral group, now in its 61st year.

Capital City Amalgamation Not Feasible

Amalgamation of capital city municipalities should not be pursued while the regional board shows promise, a director told the Chamber of Commerce.

Community affairs deputy chairman Terry Farmer said Friday his group feels that the regional board is "doing a good job" within the frame of its experience.

The committee feels amalgamation at this time is not feasible, he said.

He urged the board to take under its wing as early as possible the functions of regional planning, public housing, land assembly and housing for old persons.

Directors recommended the provincial government clarify its Home Acquisition Grant Act so that a fiat will not be needed to enable foreclosure on a second mortgage.

Farmer said his committee found the act unclear, despite assurances from the attorney-general's department. He said this was because, unlike most provinces, the consent of the Crown is needed in B.C. before suit may be launched against a government agency.

The act grants up to $5,000 in the form of a second mortgage as a means of assisting house builders.

OUTER SPACE IN SPOTLIGHT

The Times is carrying two special features today and Tuesday on outer space.

TODAY

What to look for in the sky in April is outlined by astronomy writer James Stokley on Page 8.

TOMORROW

The most authentic accounts available of the recent historic Apollo lunar module test shot—the first-person stories of the three astronauts—appears exclusively in Tuesday's Victoria Daily Times.

Written for Life magazine, and appearing in the Times by special arrangement, the accounts by Col. David Scott, Col. James McDivitt and Russell Schweickart take the reader into the far reaches of earth space for the intricate manoeuvring necessary to test the vehicle which will be used for a moon landing this summer.

Israeli Cabinet Rejects Big Four Settlement Bid

Nasser Again Talking War

(Times News Services)

JERUSALEM—Israel and Egypt were on a collision course today following the Israeli cabinet's rejection of any Big-Four settlement in the Middle East.

In Cario, President Nasser warned of the growing inevitability of war.

DAYAN

On Sunday Israel war leader Moshe Dayan told border settlers the summer would be "most critical" because the Egyptian regime is under heavy pressure to renew the war or abdicate. And Nasser said Sunday that war with Israel is inevitable "so long as they refuse to withdraw from the occupied Arab lands."

Addressing the national congress of the Arab Socialist Union, Nasser said: "The days when we could not answer Israeli shelling have passed. We now can hit back, and hit violently."

However, he said Egypt still hopes the coming four-power talks in New York at the United Nations would result in some kind of peace settlement.

Because the meetings of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union are expected to begin Thursday, the Israeli cabinet decided Sunday to state its position before rather than after the talks.

OPPOSES PLAN

The cabinet communique said: "Israel entirely opposes the plan to convene representatives of states outside the Middle East in order to prepare recommendations concerning the region. Such a procedure undermines the responsibility devolving on the states of the region to achieve peace among themselves."

It was no secret that the Israelis opposed the talks. They are said to believe that an imposed solution could only benefit the Arabs because they expect Russia and France to insist that Israel withdraw from the lands it occupied in the June, 1967, war. Before Israel gives up its biggest bargaining lever, it wants a signed peace agreement with the Arabs.

The cabinet said that in the absence of a signed peace treaty with its neighbors, Israel will "consolidate her position in accordance with the vital need of security and development."

As if to underscore this, Israel jets streaked over the Jordanian ceasefire line Sunday morning. The army said they attacked guerrilla positions which opened fire on a patrol and wounded four border guards.

Later an Israeli border town was shelled, but it could not be determined whether the fire was returned. No casualties or damage were reported.

STUDIES COMPLAINT

The planes went in as the UN Security Council continued to study a Jordanian complaint against a similar attack Wednesday in which Jordan said 18 civilians were killed. There was strong pressure to pass a resolution condemning the raid.

Amid the continuing uneasiness, about 5,000 Christian pilgrims, mostly Arabs, celebrated Palm Sunday in Jerusalem with a procession that followed Christ's route on the first Palm Sunday, when he entered the city before His trial and crucifixion.

The route from the Mount of Olives to the Via Delorosa was heavily guarded but there were no attacks.

FLEEING GIRLS ATTACKED

(By Reuters)

A series of earthquake shocks today shook the capitals of Egypt and Israel, 48 hours after 23 persons died and 160 were hurt when a mud-walled Ethiopian town was flattened by a tremor.

In Gaza City, a thousand girls fleeing from swaying schools were set upon by Israeli troops who thought the girls were about about to launch another anti-Israeli demonstration.

The soldiers injured 28 of the Arab girls and triggered a chain reaction which saw the girls stone buses and smash several car windshields.

RAN TO SHELTERS

In Cairo, hotels, apartments and office buildings swayed slightly as a 15-second shock hit the city, and in Tel Aviv people ran to air raid shelters for cover.

The quake that hit Israel was particularly strong at Bet Shemesh, near Jerusalem, and was felt as far away as the Red Sea

Man Kept In Trunk

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters) — A Negro servant whose employer had carried him around in the closed trunk of his American-built car is looking for another job.

The employer, Canadian immigrant Frank Thompson, told reporters last week: "I always take him in the trunk—that's his place."

The Negro said Sunday he had been offered several jobs after neighbors complained to a local newspaper about the practice. He said he earned about $11 a month as Thompson's servant.

Thompson's comment: "Goodness knows the trunk is big enough. It's big enough for two."

Thousands File By Ike's Body

WASHINGTON (CP)—Thousands of Americans and a steadily-gathering army of world leaders still flowed slowly today past the flag-draped bier of old soldier Dwight David Eisenhower.

Eulogized by President Nixon as "truly a first citizen of the world," the former U.S. president rested under the towering white marble dome of the United States Capitol.

Tonight, after a brief state funeral ending three days of mourning, the two-time president was being carried by train to his boyhood home at Abileae, Kan., for burial.

The public's last respects to its 34th president and wartime hero had begun Sunday evening and continued through the night. Most were middle-aged, it appeared.

This afternoon, the man described by Nixon as "one of the giants of our time" was being borne back to the Washington National Cathedral for the Episcopalian funeral service scheduled to start at 4:35 p.m. EST.

Eisenhower's last trip to the Capitol was made Sunday, the last portion by horse-drawn caisson, under a grey spring sky that delivered mixed snow and light rain and finally sun.

Crowds lined the last and public portion of the procession.

"He remained in his final days the world's most honored and respected man," Nixon said.

SAYS FAREWELL

President de Gaulle of France arrived Sunday evening to pay a personal farewell to his old Second World War comrade in arms.

Others—including Prime Minister Trudeau, Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam, Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesenger of West Germany, King Baudouin of Belgium and Prince Bernard of The Netherlands—were arriving today.

De Gaulle in uniform entered the Capitol rotunda to salute the bier twice, stand in meditation and then leave for a call on Mrs. Eisenhower.

Also attending the ceremonies Sunday, and later visiting the bier separately or in the public line, were Lord Louis Mountbatten, Queen Elizabeth's personal representative for the accasion and Eisenhower's Southeast Asian counterpart in the Allied command structure.

Prime Minister John Gorton of Australia, the Shah of Iran and others had arrived Sunday or earlier.

Trudeau was being accompanied by Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield.

THREE YEARS PLANNING FUNERAL

WASHINGTON (WP) — Approximately 250 military officials for the past three years have been planning the funeral of former president Dwight Eisenhower.

This contrasts with the funeral for president John F. Kennedy when arrangments were made within 48 hours of his assassination.

About 2,500 troops from all branches of the U.S. forces, are taking part in the services today.

Nixon Holds Talks With De Gaulle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon invited President de Gaulle of France to a working meeting at the White House today before the funeral of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Other visiting heads of state and representatives of foreign governments will be received formally at the White House after the ceremonies.

The topics of the Nixon-de Gaulle discussion were not disclosed. But presumably the meeting was intended to be a continuation of their conference in Paris last month.

An early hour was fixed for the talk, the White House said, because Gen. de Gaulle must return to France immediately after the service.

Only Newfies At Festivities

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland celebrates 20 years as a Canadian province today but the festivities seem confined to official ones. There was little indication of any significant public interest.

Four official banquets were scheduled tonight but the death of former United States president Dwight Eisenhower Friday forced cancellation of Prime Minister Trudeau's plans to join veteran Premier Joseph Smallwood at the main one here.

Russia Hits Czech Leaders Over Ransacking Outbreak

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Union today launched a bitter assault on Czechoslovak leaders over the wrecking of a Soviet airline office in Prague and said that Josef Smrkovsky, Communist party presidium member, took part in the outburst.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said the incident, which took place Friday night after Czechoslovakia beat Russia in a world hockey championship game, was "an organized, carefully prepared nationalist outburst with definite political aims."

It took place because the leadership of the Czechoslovak Communist party and the Prague authorities had not condemned a demonstration a week earlier after Czechoslovakia's first victory over Russia in the championships, Pravda said.

Pravda did not mention a warning Saturday night by the Czech government of Premier Stanislaav Razl against a repetition of vandalism of Soviet property.

It also implicitly rejected a Czechoslovak assertion that the first demonstration was spontaneous.

RANSACKED OFFICE

The demonstrators Friday night ransacked the airline office and built fires on Wenceslas Square with airline documents.

The Pravda article was seen here as the toughest Soviet indictment of Prague leaders for many months and its tone recalled similar complaints before the Soviet invasion in August that said the Czechoslovak leadership was too soft with "anti-socialist forces."

The importance of the article was underlined when it was issued in full by the official Tass news agency.

The Kremlin attack said it was not the first time Smrkovsky, a close colleague of party chief Alexander Dubcek and a leading supporter of liberal reforms, was involved in an anti-Soviet outburst.

Smrkovsky was chairman of the National Assembly at the time of the Warsaw pact invasion of Czechoslovakia in August and was flown to Moscow with Dubcek and other leaders after the troops moved in.

He lost his post under the reorganization of the country into Czech and Slovak states with a federal government, officially to balance the top leadership between Czechs and Slovaks. But several reports said he was forced out under Soviet pressure.

Malta Base Empty

Task Force on Move

LONDON (UPI) — Russia's large naval task force has moved farther into the North Atlantic, keeping up the mystery of its destination, defence officials said today.

Police Mobilized

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's government mobilized more than 1,000 part-time police of the Ulster special constabulary today to guard key installations against possible sabotage attacks. The move followed an explosion Sunday that blew up Belfast's suburban Castlereagh power station, causing an estimated $1,200,000 damage.

CABINET STILL STRUGGLES WITH DECISION ON NATO

OTTAWA (CP) — A fianl decision on future Canadian membership in NATO apparently remains to be taken following two full days of cabinet meetings on the subject Saturday and Sunday.

In a brief talk with reporters following Sunday's meeting, Prime Minister Trudeau left unclear just when the decision is to be made.

If it is made by Wednesday, it will be announced to the House of Commons, he said. Wednesday is the tentative date for the start of Parliament's Easter recess.

Mr. Trudeau also said the decision ought to be reached before April 10 and "necessarily will be announced to the House."

That would suggest Wednesday as the target date since Parliament will be on vacation April 10. Mr. Trudeau announced some time ago that Canada's NATO policy would be set as far as possible in advance of the Apri 10 opening of a NATO ministerial meeting in Washington.

The prime minister said the cabinet had had "a full discussion which will allow me to make up my mind."

Further meetings are possible, he said.

Canada's contribution to the alliance at present includes a six-squadron air division and a mechanized brigade group, both stationed in Germany and both possessing nuclear capability.

This commitment is effective to the end of this year. At the same time, Canada had projected it an additional four years in calculations of forces drawn up by NATO commanders. These long-term projects are subject to confirmation on an annual basis.

FAMILY REUNION wound up on living-room couch of apartment at 355 Gorge Road. Those are special-occasion smiles, saved for a time that Mr. and Mrs. David Dick and their children share after more than a month of separation. But the tension and anxiety are past, and the object of it all snuggles her pet pup who also appears to be smiling. Florenda Trades Tears for Smiles As Life-or-Death Pilgrimage Ends

By ARTHUR MAYSE

A fair-haired little girl who began her sixth year with no future worth mentioning came home to life and springtime on Sunday night.

Florenda Joy Dick, her heart mended and her stroke-impaired speech almost completely recovered, alighted with her mother from an Air Canada Viscount at 10:15 p.m.

She had managed to stay awake through much of the jet flight from Winnipeg to Vancouver. But it was a drowsy child wakened from a nap who clung to Mrs. David Dick's hand as they descended the landing stage at Victoria Airport.

Freed of flight-bags—small one for Florenda, a larger one for herself—Mrs. Dick took her daughter in her arms. Under the bright lights of the passenger terminal, Florenda shut her eyes tight, puckered a face once pale but now rosy from sleep, and added a tear-shower to a rainy night.

The parting when child and mother set out for Mayo Clinic had been a sad one, with no guarantee that Florenda would survive complex open-heart surgery.

But the family reunion was all happiness.

Tall David Dick swept Florenda into his arms. Sister Connie, 13, and brother Kenneth, 10, crowded close.

In the family apartment at 355 Gorge Road, relatives added hugs and kisses to the welcome. Neighbors hurried over. The living room was soon crowded with well-wishers, children among them.

Home at last, Florenda traded tears for a radiant smile.

In her room, presents from brother, sister and friends were waiting. Florenda Joy, pretty in a pink dress with her long blonde hair catching the light, was allowed to stay up long enough to open the gaily-wrapped gifts.

Velvet, a little dog who had missed his playmate, frisked around her with wagging tail and busy tongue.

Then the life-or-death pilgrimage ended as the thousands of men, women and children who made it possible by donating to a Times-sponsored fund had hoped it might.

Florenda, a child with a normal life in prospect, was tucked into her bed.

Everybody Disagrees On Blue Monday

First, MLAs of the public accounts committee disagreed this morning whether to keep the press out or in and then the civil servants testifying before it disagreed over ministers' hotel bills.

The legislative committee concentrated on hotel bills paid on behalf of Minister Without Portfolio Phil Gaglardi last session and decided it would check into his flights aboard government aircraft at its Tuesday meeting.

This morning's session began with a Gilbert and Sullivan routine in which chairman Evan Wolfe (SC—Vancouver Centre) twice closed the door to keep reporters out and Opposition Leader Robert Strachan reopened it each time to invite reporters in.

REPORTERS IN

Wolfe gave up and reporters got in.

They heard two civil servants contradict each other on whether Gaglardi's $44 hotel bill for two weeks at the Hotel Vancouver during the last session should have been paid by the government or out of his personal travel allowance as an MLA.

James McDiarmid, comptroller for ministers without portfolio expenditures, said he decided after getting the bill that Gaglardi should pay his own hotel expenses during a session so he warned him to stop sending the bills to the government.

But C. J. Ferber, comptroller-general, told the committee he would have okayed the bills and did not think they should come out of Gaglardi's MLA pay.

He said McDiarmid's rule could be applied properly to ordinary MLAs but it was "quite impossible" to apply it to cabinet ministers.

In the end, McDiarmid told the committee that he never obtained reimbursement to the government from Gaglardi for the $44 it paid before cutting off the privilege last session.

And, under questioning, he indicated that Gaglardi has sent in more bills at this session.

Private Rites Held For Ex-Councillor

A private funeral service was held at Sands chapel today for J. L. (Len) Hobbs, 72, former Saanich councillor and member of a pioneer Cadboro Bay family, who died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Saturday.

The flag over Saanich Municipal Hall was lowered to halfmast.

Born in Victoria, Hobbs was raised on a farm in Cadboro Bay established by his father Edwin, who is commemorated by the name of the street where his son lived.

An uncle, Frank Hobbs, gave his name to the elementary school.

"The name Hobbs has been associated with Saanich since our beginnings," said Mayor Hugh Curtis. "Len Hobbs was very highly respected in Saanich and he had hundreds of friends."

Hobbs was associated with the Brackman-Ker Milling Co. Ltd. for 45 years. He was a past-president of Victoria Rotary Club; past chairman of Royal Jubilee Hospital; a member of Mount Newton Lodge, No. 89, A.F. & A.M., B.C.R.

Surviving are the widow, Violet, at their home at 3880 Hobbs Road; a daughter, Mrs. J. M. (Barbara) Fitzsimmons and three grandchildren at South Burnaby.

Rev. Dr. N. S. Noel officiated at the funeral service, which was followed by cremation. Flowers were declined but donations were accepted for the G. R. Pearkes Clinic for Handicapped Children.

JOHN PORTEOUS

Trustee to Quit For Hospital Job

A veteran trustee and former chairman will resign from the Greater Victoria school board.

John Porteous has accepted the post of business manager of Peace Arch Hospital at White Rock, B.C. He was an accountant at St. Joseph's Hospital here.

Board chairman Carron Jameson said today trustees have known of Porteous' plans.

The board has not yet received his resignation but Mrs. Porteous said today her husband, who is out of town, intends resigning. Porteous has been a trustee for the past seven years and was board chairman in 1965-66.

Date of the resignation may have a bearing on whether a byelection is called to fill the vacant seat. Porteous is one of three city representatives on the nine-man board.

Dr. Jameson said he understands a trustee can continue to sit as long as he has property in the municipality he represents and does not miss three consecutive board meetings.

Czech Conductor Invited Them All To Make Music

By BERYL PROUDMAN

A program of undeniably beautiful music, a guest conductor as charming as he is talented and the Victoria Symphony Orchestra on its toes, made the first in this season's final pair of concerts Sunday an occasion for joy and congratulation.

An atmosphere for relaxed, soothing enjoyment was set by Czechoslovakian Dr. Otakar Trhlik's lyrical interpretation of Schubert's popular "Unfinished Symphony". Although smooth, gradual crescendos occasionally built up to powerful moments of exciting climax, the symphony, always controlled, never boisterous, remained at all times within the bounds of graceful civility which suit it so well.

One example of Dr. Trhlik's complete control lay in his power to bring the orchestra to these high points and then, without lingering and with complete clarity of simultaneous release, to break off and acknowledge a fleeting pause.

INVITED THEM

His manner of bringing in the sections also explains, to some extent, why the orchestra responded so magnificently to his direction. Turning now to the cellos, now to the violins, he seemed to invite them to join him in music-making and even back-row players received similar long-range invitations.

Small precise movements marked his conducting style for most of the time but these became more generous in expansive passages and his complete involvement in the music could be seen by his response to the dancing rhythms of the Smetana and Dvorak.

The pastoral background and underlying serenity of Smetana's "From Woods and Fields of Bohemia" maintained the happy atmosphere of the Schubert. The fast pace of a large part of this symphonic work kept the players very busy but tripped none. The high-pitched fugal violin section was remarkably well performed, the cello tone was vibrant and the haunting horns and woodwind entries beautifully executed.

BROAD MELODY

Although the descriptive music changed mood several times, one broad melody which was repeated several times was familiar enough to sound like an arrangement of "Ye Banks and Braes" and "Toujour l'amour" combined.

Dvorak's Symphony No. 8 (it used to be Symphony No. 4) comprised the second half of the program. Those who had looked forward to this favorite were in no way disappointed. Where dance rhythms stirred the blood, the players performed with rustic liberality, but when sustained dignity was called for, they produced that too.

The trumpet fanfare which opened the fourth movement sent sonorous echoes around the theatre, the dancelike third movement lilted with becoming gaiety and throughout, shifts in rhythmic emphasis were accomplished without pause or hesitation.

After acknowledging the enthusiastic applause by taking several bows Dr. Trhlik persuaded the orchestral players to share his success by congratulating them en masse, section by section and with individual salutations.

This program will be repeated in the Royal Theatre at 8:30 tonight.

Major Struggle Ahead for City As Costs Mount

Boost of $1.5M 'Uncontrollable'

By JIM HUME

A $1.5 million uncontrollable increase in expenditures is facing the city of Victoria as 1969 budget preparation enters its final phase.

But treasurer James Bramley is still hopeful the final budget, due for presentation towards the end of April, will be fairly close to the estimated $17.8 million listed in the provisional budget.

To keep expenditures in line, the treasurer and other department heads are faced with serious juggling in all fields.

NOT TOO BAD

"We don't have all completed department budgets in yet," Bramley said this morning. "So there is no way any accurate forecast can be made. But with no major public expenditures on the horizon we're hoping things won't be too bad."

No matter how expenditures are curbed this year the city can't avoid a close to $150,000 increase in provincial government per capita charges for welfare payments.

Last year the welfare payment budget was struck at $468,800, an increase of $245,000 over 1967.

This year the estimated per capita charge is $610,000, an increase of around $140,000.

That is only a minor item in the costs over which council has little or no control.

$300,000 IN WAGES

Wage increases at city hall this year will total $300,000 based on the 5 to 6 per cent increases already granted to all departments except outside workers and the police department.

Negotiations with the latter two groups are still under way with little doubt that 5 per cent will be the minimum increase granted.

In 1968 the city's total wage bill was more than $6 million.

Also on this year's wage bill could be increases for department heads who received their last salary increase 18 months ago.

SNOW NIGHTMARE

Faced with those increases city officials can be forgiven if they still shudder at the memory of the snow, ice and freezing weather that gripped the city in the dying days of 1968 and for the first few weeks of this year.

With a budget of $4,000 for snow removal in 1968 the city had spent $12,600 before the year ended in a sometimes futile attempt to keep city streets clear of snow.

Worse was to come.

Between January first and the end of Victoria's worst winter a further $47,500 had been spent in a brave but losing battle to keep traffic moving.

Taken over the full winter period snow removal cost the city $60,100 for an effort some citizens still complain about.

Fortunately the $8,600 overexpenditure on the 1968 budget can be picked up from the contingency fund.

With $47,500 already spent for snow removal this year city council will be asked to budget $50,000 for snow removal in 1969.

That leaves $2,500 in the pot for next November and December plus the prayers of the treasurer that King Winter won't pull a late year repeat punch.

That isn't the entire story on budget increases beyond the power of city council to hold in line.

Yet to come, and usually remaining a mystery until almost budget eve, is the school levy.

In 1968 it was 28.54 mills an increase of .54 over 1967.

The value of the mill last year was $124,280 as compared with the $119,823 value in 1967.

In 1969 the mill has been valued at $138,800.

Oil Discovery Raises Fears For Wildlife

A warning of the dangers to wildlife by gas and oil exploration on the Arctic coast of Alaska was issued from here on the weekend to the American and Canadian governments.

The warning came in a resolution passed unanimously at the annual meeting of the Northwest Wildlife Society asking for safeguards for wildlife in the Brooks Mountain Range and Prudhoe Bay region of Alaska.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to the Canadian Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development and to the United States Secretary of the Interior.

Oil was discovered at Prudhoe Bay in January, 1968, and in July the Atlantic-Richfield oil companies announced the area had recoverable reserves of up to 10 billion barrels, one of the world's largest deposits.

●

The resolution asks the Canadian and American governments to make available funds for research into the effects of oil exploration on soil, vegetation, water and wildlife of the Arctic, using the basis of such research for the development of regulations to govern exploration.

It also asks for the protection from gas and oil development of areas of outstanding recreational, scenic and wildlife value, and suggests that government, not industry, is in the best position to determine how and when extraction of oil and gas should be carried on.

Conservationists are now expressing concern that the strike will adversely affect wildlife nearby in the Brooks Range, 500 miles long and 150 miles wide, sweeping from the Yukon border to the Bering Sea.

●

The dense, unexplored wilderness contains enormous reserves of game: half the Dall sheep in the world live there, as well as huge herds of caribou (estimates range from 440,000 to 1.2 million), grizzlies, moose and wolves.

". . . there is adequate precedent in North America to indicate that oil and gas exploration and development, free of governmental restrictions and controls, will result in disregard and destruction of other resource values . . ." the Society resoltuion said.

Keith Mundy, past secretary of the society, said the resolution should carry considerable weight in Ottawa and Washington because most members of the society are practising biologists employed at universities or in an advisory capacity to governments concerned.

●

Deletates at the annual meeting came from the northwestern states of the U.S.A., Alaska, B.C. Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Mundy said the effect on the Arctic of oil exploration could be considerable because of the fragility of the environment.

"When you disturb anything in the Arctic, because of the slow-growth period it might never be able to regenerate.

"The simpler the environment, the more fragile it is."

The question of conservation in the Prudhoe Bay area recently shifted into a political one when the governor of Alaska, Walter Hickel, was named Secretary of the Interior — an appointment that led to sharp questioning about his conservation and oil philosophies.

Within months of the oil discovery 12 drilling rigs were flown over the mountains to the new field.

Pierre Berton To Speak Here

One of Victoria College's best-known alumni returns to the campus April 10 to deliver a public lecture on "The New Education."

Nationally-known author-broadcaster Pierre Berton was born in the Yukon and moved to Victoria with his family in 1932. He graduated from Oak Bay Senior Secondary School and attended Victoria College from 1937 to 1939.

His lecture will be at 9 p.m. in Room 144 of Uvic's MacLaurin Building.

RETIRED FARMER Richard Smithson celebrated his 102nd birthday today at the Glenwarren Private Hospital. Raised on a farm near Lindsey, Ont., he homesteaded in Saskatchewan for many years before coming to Victoria with a brother and sister in the 1950s. Although he has no blood relatives remaining in Victoria, Mr. Smithson has many friends who helped make this a smiling day for him. (Times Photo.)

RN Training Standards Remain High

Registered Nurses Association of B.C. today clarified changes in the Registered Nurses Act which slightly ease entrance requirements to university nursing schools.

The changes, introduced as a bill in the current session of the B.C. legislature, will permit mature students who might lack one subject, such as a language, to be accepted for university level training, without high school matriculation.

However, the student would still have to meet the full requirements of the nursing course.

The RNABC emphasizes that the change does not mean that nursing experience of a practical nature would take the place of suitable academic education. Standards of the nurse training courses would not be lowered.

Many universities permit adult students to register in other faculties where on-the-job training, acquired skills and self-teaching obviates the fact that the applicant did not possess complete university entrance credits.

Under the new regulations the admission requirements to hospital schools of nursing are unchanged. Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospital schools here would still require graduation from a high school academic course—meaning matriculation.

Ask The Times

Q.—Could you let me know the population of Saskatoon, Sask., in April 1903 previous to the arrival of approximately 2,000 members of the Barr Colony from Great Britain who arrived there in the latter part of that month, before starting the journey across nearly 200 miles of practically uninhabited prairie, using horse and ox-drawn wagons for transportation? I would also like to know the population of Edmonton, Alta., in 1903—A. C. D.

A.—Available figures nearest the date in which you are interested show that in 1901 Saskatoon was divided into two parts, East Saskatoon having 179 residents and West Saskatoon, 311. Alberta became a province in 1905 and it is impossible to get population figures much before that date because Alberta was considered a settlement and only total population was recorded. Edmonton became a city in 1904 and records show a population of 7,000. The accelerated growth of Edmonton began in 1898 when it became a supply base for miners of the Klondike gold rush.

OUTER SPACE IN SPOTLIGHT

The Times is carrying two special features today and Tuesday on outer space.

TODAY

What to look for in the sky in April is outlined by astronomy writer James Stokley on Page 8.

TUESDAY

The most authentic accounts available of the recent historic Apollo lunar module test shot—the exclusive first-person stories of the three astronauts—appears Tuesday.

Written for Life magazine, and appearing in the Times by special arrangement, the accounts by Col. David Scott, Col. James McDivitt and Russell Schweickart take the reader into the far reaches of earth space for the intricate manoeuvring necessary to test the vehicle which will be used for a moon landing this summer.

Thousands File By Ike's Body

WASHINGTON (CP)—Thousands of Americans and a steadily-gathering army of world leaders still flowed slowly today past the flag-draped bier of old soldier Dwight David Eisenhower.

Eulogized by President Nixon as "truly a first citizen of the world," the former U.S. president rested under the towering white marble dome of the United States Capitol.

Tonight, after a brief state funeral ending three days of mourning, the two-time president was being carried by train to his boyhood home at Abileae, Kan., for burial.

The public's last respects to its 34th president and wartime hero had begun Sunday evening and continued through the night. Most were middle-aged, it appeared.

This afternoon, the man described by Nixon as "one of the giants of our time" was being borne back to the Washington National Cathedral for the Episcopalian funeral service scheduled to start at 4:35 p.m. EST.

Eisenhower's last trip to the Capitol was made Sunday, the last portion by horse-drawn caisson, under a grey spring sky that delivered mixed snow and light rain and finally sun.

Crowds lined the last and public portion of the procession.

"He remained in his final days the world's most honored and respected man," Nixon said.

SAYS FAREWELL

President de Gaulle of France arrived Sunday evening to pay a personal farewell to his old Second World War comrade in arms.

Others—including Prime Minister Trudeau, Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam, Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesenger of West Germany, King Baudouin of Belgium and Prince Bernard of The Netherlands—were arriving today.

De Gaulle in uniform entered the Capitol rotunda to salute the bier twice, stand in meditation and then leave for a call on Mrs. Eisenhower.

Also attending the ceremonies Sunday, and later visiting the bier separately or in the public line, were Lord Louis Mountbatten, Queen Elizabeth's personal representative for the occasion and Eisenhower's Southeast Asian counterpart in the Allied command structure.

Prime Minister John Gorton of Australia, the Shah of Iran and others had arrived Sunday or earlier.

Trudeau was being accompanied by Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield.

THREE YEARS PLANNING FUNERAL

WASHINGTON (WP) — Approximately 250 military officials for the past three years have been planning the funeral of former president Dwight Eisenhower.

This contrasts with the funeral for president John F. Kennedy when arrangments were made within 48 hours of his assassination.

About 2,500 troops from all branches of the U.S. forces, are taking part in the services today.

Nixon Holds Talks With De Gaulle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon invited President de Gaulle of France to a working meeting at the White House today before the funeral of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Other visiting heads of state and representatives of foreign governments will be received formally at the White House after the ceremonies.

The topics of the Nixon-de Gaulle discussion were not disclosed. But presumably the meeting was intended to be a continuation of their conference in Paris last month.

WOMAN BADLY HURT

A Saanich woman is in critical condition at the Royal Jubilee Hospital after a car plunged off Churchill Drive on Mount Douglas just before 1 p.m. today.

Mrs. George Bartlett, 1836 San Juan, received neck and head injuries in the crash, which occurred on a hairpin curve on the narrow road.

Details were sketchy at press time and it was not known if Mrs. Bartlett was driving.

Saanich police called a doctor to the mountain before removing Mrs. Bartlett from the overturned car.

Russia Hits Czech Leaders Over Ransacking Outbreak

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Union today launched a bitter assault on Czechoslovak leaders over the wrecking of a Soviet airline office in Prague and said that Josef Smrkovsky, Communist party presidium member, took part in the outburst.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda said the incident, which took place Friday night after Czechoslovakia beat Russia in a world hockey championship game, was "an organized, carefully prepared nationalist outburst with definite political aims."

It took place because the leadership of the Czechoslovak Communist party and the Prague authorities had not condemned a demonstration a week earlier after Czechoslovakia's first victory over Russia in the championships, Pravda said.

Pravda did not mention a warning Saturday night by the Czech government of Premier Stanislaav Razl against a repetition of vandalism of Soviet property.

It also implicitly rejected a Czechoslovak assertion that the first demonstration was spontaneous.

RANSACKED OFFICE

The demonstrators Friday night ransacked the airline office and built fires on Wenceslas Square with airline documents.

The Pravda article was seen here as the toughest Soviet indictment of Prague leaders for many months and its tone recalled similar complaints before the Soviet invasion in August that said the Czechoslovak leadership was too soft with "anti-socialist forces."

The importance of the article was underlined when it was issued in full by the official Tass news agency.

The Kremlin attack said it was not the first time Smrkovsky, a close colleague of party chief Alexander Dubcek and a leading supporter of liberal reforms, was involved in an anti-Soviet outburst.

Smrkovsky was chairman of the National Assembly at the time of the Warsaw pact invasion of Czechoslovakia in August and was flown to Moscow with Dubcek and other leaders after the troops moved in.

He lost his post under the reorganization of the country into Czech and Slovak states with a federal government, officially to balance the top leadership between Czechs and Slovaks. But several reports said he was forced out under Soviet pressure.

Malta Base Empty

VALLETTA (Reuters)—Five Royal Navy warships left Malta today for Gibraltar and ended a British naval presence on the island which began in 1800. The minesweepers should have left 18 months ago but Britain agreed to slow down its naval phase-out from Malta.

LONDON (UPI) — Russia's large naval task force has moved farther into the North Atlantic, keeping up the mystery of its destination, defence officials said today.

Woman Drowns

ALERT BAY (CP) — A 40-year-old woman drowned Sunday afternoon when the car in which she, her husband and two children were riding plunged into the ocean at Shoal Harbor near here.

RCMP said the victim, Mrs. Frances Fraser, of Shoal Harbor, drowned when she was trapped in the car.

Nasser Again Talking War

(Times News Services)

JERUSALEM—Israel and Egypt were on a collision course today following the Israeli cabinet's rejection of any Big-Four settlement in the Middle East.

In Cairo, President Nasser warned of the growing inevitability of war.

DAYAN
. . . prepares for war

On Sunday Israel war leader Moshe Dayan told border settlers the summer would be "most critical" because the Egyptian regime is under heavy pressure to renew the war or abdicate. And Nasser said Sunday that war with Israel is inevitable "so long as they refuse to withdraw from the occupied Arab lands."

Addressing the national congress of the Arab Socialist Union, Nasser said: "The days when we could not answer Israeli shelling have passed. We now can hit back, and hit violently."

However, he said Egypt still hopes the coming four-power talks in New York at the United Nations would result in some kind of peace settlement.

Because the meetings of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union are expected to begin Thursday, the Israeli cabinet decided Sunday to state its position before rather than after the talks.

OPPOSES PLAN

The cabinet communique said: "Israel entirely opposes the plan to convene representatives of states outside the Middle East in order to prepare recommendations concerning the region. Such a procedure undermines the responsibility devolving on the states of the region to achieve peace among themselves."

It was no secret that the Israelis opposed the talks. They are said to believe that an imposed solution could only benefit the Arabs because they expect Russia and France to insist that Israel withdraw from the lands it occupied in the June, 1967, war. Before Israel gives up its biggest bargaining lever, it wants a signed peace agreement with the Arabs.

The cabinet said that in the absence of a signed peace treaty with its neighbors, Israel will "consolidate her position in accordance with the vital need of security and development."

As if to underscore this, Israel jets streaked over the Jordanian ceasefire line Sunday morning. The army said they attacked guerrilla positions which opened fire on a patrol and wounded four border guards.

Later an Israeli border town was shelled, but it could not be determined whether the fire was returned. No casualties or damage were reported.

STUDIES COMPLAINT

The planes went in as the UN Security Council continued to study a Jordanian complaint against a similar attack Wednesday in which Jordan said 18 civilians were killed. There was strong pressure to pass a resolution condemning the raid.

Amid the continuing uneasiness, about 5,000 Christian pilgrims, mostly Arabs, celebrated Palm Sunday in Jerusalem with a procession that followed Christ's route on the first Palm Sunday, when he entered the city before His trial and crucifixion.

The route from the Mount of Olives to the Via Delorosa was heavily guarded but there were no attacks.

FLEEING GIRLS ATTACKED

(By Reuters)

A series of earthquake shocks today shook the capitals of Egypt and Israel, 48 hours after 23 persons died and 160 were hurt when a mud-walled Ethiopian town was flattened by a tremor.

In Gaza City, a thousand girls fleeing from swaying schools were set upon by Israeli troops who thought the girls were about about to launch another anti-Israeli demonstration.

The soldiers injured 28 of the Arab girls and triggered a chain reaction which saw the girls stone buses and smash several car windshields.

RAN TO SHELTERS

In Cairo, hotels, apartments and office buildings swayed slightly as a 15-second shock hit the city, and in Tel Aviv people ran to air raid shelters for cover.

The quake that hit Israel was particularly strong at Bet Shemesh, near Jerusalem, and was felt as far away as the Red Sea

Man Kept In Trunk

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters) — A Negro servant whose employer had carried him around in the closed trunk of his American-built car is looking for another job.

The employer, Canadian immigrant Frank Thompson, told reporters last week: "I always take him in the trunk—that's his place."

The Negro said Sunday he had been offered several jobs after neighbors complained to a local newspaper about the practice. He said he earned about $11 a month as Thompson's servant.

Thompson's comment: "Goodness knows the trunk is big enough. It's big enough for two."

CABINET STILL STRUGGLES WITH DECISION ON NATO

OTTAWA (CP) — A final decision on future Canadian membership in NATO apparently remains to be taken following two full days of cabinet meetings on the subject Saturday and Sunday.

In a brief talk with reporters following Sunday's meeting, Prime Minister Trudeau left unclear just when the decision is to be made.

If it is made by Wednesday, it will be announced to the House of Commons, he said. Wednesday is the tentative date for the start of Parliament's Easter recess.

Mr. Trudeau also said the decision ought to be reached before April 10 and "necessarily will be announced to the House."

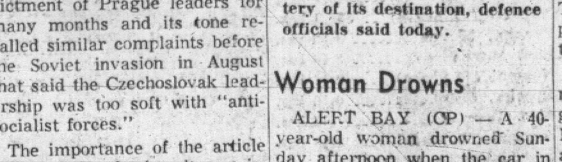
That would suggest Wednesday as the target date since Parliament will be on vacation April 10. Mr. Trudeau announced some time ago that Canada's NATO policy would be set as far as possible in advance of the April 10 opening of a NATO ministerial meeting in Washington.

The prime minister said the cabinet had had "a full discussion which will allow me to make up my mind."

Further meetings are possible, he said.

Canada's contribution to the alliance at present includes a six-squadron air division and a mechanized brigade group, both stationed in Germany and both possessing nuclear capability.

This commitment is effective to the end of this year. At the same time, Canada had projected it an additional four years in calculations of forces drawn up by NATO commanders. These long-term projects are subject to confirmation on an annual basis.



Th' Middle East affair is like two kids fightin' in a schoolyard, hopin' somebody will make 'em stop.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trading was light in all commodities near the close on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Prices drifted fractionally to lower levels.

Oilseeds saw a small amount of commission house buying on thin offers. Oats was inactive. barley and rye saw domestic shipper buying.

The light trading pattern was partly attributed to the fact that the Chicago market is closed in observance of the Eisenhower funeral.

Japan bought 30,000 bushels of flax and 20,000 bushels of rapeseed during the weekend.

Friday's volume: flax 1,265,000 bushels; rapeseed 369,000; rye 328,000.

Drywall Men Vote Favoring Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Drywall finishers in B.C., represented by the Painters Union, have voted 85 per cent in favor of strike action to back demands for higher pay.

The men, who voted Saturday, rejected a final management offer which amounts to an increase of 61 cents an hour including fringe benefits.

About 250 drywall finishers throughout B.C. are involved in the dispute.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three electrical contracting firms broke with the Electrical Contractors' Association and signed an agreement on the weekend with Local 213 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

About 200 linemen will receive pay increases totalling $1.07 an hour by October, on the present base rate of $4.45. Eight major firms are still struck by the union.

Concorde Tested

TOULOUSE (Reuters) — The Anglo-French supersonic Concorde airliner carried out two separate test flights Sunday, staying airborne for a total of two hours 40 minutes. In an afternoon flight, test pilot Andre Turcat cut off and reignited the prototype's engines and used the aircraft's reverse jet system on landing.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Industrials Strong

Vancouver was the liveliest place for Canadian stock trading today, although gains were posted in both Toronto and Montreal.

New York and American exchanges were closed because of funeral services for Gen. Eisenhower.

Industrials showed stronger than mines at Vancouver, while at Toronto and Montreal volumes to mid-afternoon were down from Friday.

VANCOUVER — Industrials showed strongly in trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange as a total of 2 million shares were traded to noon.

In the oils, Royal Canadian Ventures dropped .30 to $5.10 while Stampede at $15.50 was up .37.

Mines generally showed gains ranging from .05 to .25 but Valley Copper dropped .50 to $19 and Omega was down .20 to $7.40.

AT TORONTO final volume was 3,125,000 shares compared with 3,930,000 Friday.

Railmen Relent

VANCOUVER (CP)—A threatened strike against the Pacific Great Eastern Railway was averted Sunday when the company and the United Transportation Union reached agreement on a new contract for conductors, trainmen and yardmen.

In a joint statement, the PGE and union negotiating teams recommended acceptance of a 6.5 per cent raise each year in a two-year contract. It must be ratified by union membership and the company.

About 237 trainmen, conductors and yardmen are affected, out of a total PGE work force of 1,800.

In the contract that expired last Dec. 31, conductors made from $10,000 to $13,000 a year, trainmen from $8,000 to $9,000 and yardmen about $7,200.

The union served strike notice on the provincial government-owned railway March 14, but did not set a walkout deadline.

North U.S. Wants More Canadian Oil

CALGARY (CP) — The Independent Petroleum Association of Canada says refiners in the northern U.S. have an immediate desire to purchase an additional 150,000 to 200,000 barrels a day of Canadian oil.

The estimate is contained in a position paper sent to Prime Minister Trudeau on the eve of his departure last week for Washington, where he discussed oil problems with President Nixon. The paper was made public today.

The IPAC paper says the large shut-in oil-producing capacity in Canada is frustrated from reaching its natural market place in northern U.S., where certain refiners have a strong preference for Canadian oil by reason of price and quality.

"Exports to this market are restrained by the arrangements now in existence between the two governments."

The U.S.-Canada oil agreement limits shipments to the northern U.S. to 306,000 barrels a day although Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board figures indicate that average shipments in the March-April period will be 345,000 barrels a day.

The IPAC urges establishments of a continental oil policy "under which there would be free access to markets subject only to economic limitations."

As a natural consequence to such a policy, the association says, it is essential that a portion of the Montreal crude oil market be supplied from Canadian sources.

"The reason for this is that Canada would be obliged, under a continental policy, to adopt measures with respect to limiting foreign exports, similar to those existing under the U.S. oil import program."

Pilot Says SST a Step Backwards

CALGARY (CP) — A senior Air Canada pilot says airline company executives are praying that supersonic prototypes will fail so they can delay taking delivery of the machines.

Capt. Frank Smith said supersonic aircraft would be a backward step because they would cause big overheads and could be run only on marginal operations for a number of years.

He told a luncheon meeting of the Calgary Gyro Club jumbo jets, air buses and supersonic transports were extremely costly and airlines had been forced to order them to stay in business.

The companies were reluctant to buy the planes and the executives were praying the SST prototypes would fail, Capt. Smith said.

Air Canada has ordered four of the Anglo-French supersonic Concordes, and six Boeing 2-707 SSTS being developed in the U.S. at a cost of $40 million each.
